APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS TVA IN POWER DECISION

Finds Its Operations Constitutional.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Tennessee Valley authority competition with private power companies was upheld as lawful" by a three judge federal court here today. The court dismissed an injunction suit by eighteen utilities which challenged constitutionality of the TVA act on grounds that the authority's low rates would destroy them, rendering property worthless without just compensation.

Judge Florence Allen.

"These complainants have no immunity from lawful competition," said the ruling, "even if their business be curtailed or destroyed."

Presiding Judge Florence Allen of the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals read the 8,000 word decision which closed a hearing begun last Nov. 15. Other members of the court were District Federal Judges John J. Gore and John D. Martin of Tennessee.

Plaintifs to Pay Costs.

"A decree will be entered denying the injunction sought," the court said, dismissing the bill of complaint, and taxing costs against the complainants." Most of them are subsidiaries of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation and Electric Bond and share company, operating within 250 miles of TVA dams on the Tennessee river and tributaries.

"We conclude that," the court summarized, "since none of the complainants claims to operate under an exclusive franchise, no fraud, malice, coercion, or conspiracy exists; since the authority is not exceeding its statutory powers, and since the statute is constitutional, the competition with these complainants is lawful."

Chief Counsel James Lawrence Fly of the TVA said the decision was "a milestone in the conservation movement." Utility attorneys announced a direct appeal would be taken to the supreme court.

Major Rulings of Court.

Major findings of the decision were stated as follows:

1. That the TVA did not conspire to destroy the utilities, to compete illegally with them, or to coerce the power companies to sell their facilities at distress figures.
2. The TVA did not conspire with the Public Works administration to finance construction of municipal distribution systems so that TVA power might be sold at such low rates that private utilities would be destroyed.
3. Municipalities were not coerced to purchasing TVA power.
4. The complainants will suffer substantial future damages as the result of being forced to meet lower TVA rates, but that these will be "damages in the absence of legal injury."
5. The TVA is complying with its creative statute.
6. The primary function of the authority is flood control and navigation, with power production secondary.
7. The TVA statute constitutes no interference with state rights.

Decision on Competition.

Concerning the federal agency's competition with private utilities, the decision said:

"The attempt to show that the authority has endeavored to persuade complainants' customers to breach their existing contracts for purchase of power from complainants has totally failed. In every case where a customer of the complainants has been lost to the authority, the cause has been not unlawful competition, but the lawful allurement of substantially lower prices.

"No fraudulent attempt has been made to secure complainants' markets. Whatever compulsion exists is the inevitable compulsion exercised by the fact that a competitor sells at lower rates than complainants."

As to coercion of municipalities and cooperatives, the opinion asserted:

"These cities and cooperatives were free to obtain information and counsel from any source. In each case the decision of the municipality involved was made either by the city

Auto Conference

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Reno E. Stitely, former voucher clerk for the national parks service of the interior department, today was sentenced in federal court to serve from 6 to 12 years in prison and to pay a $36,000 fine for embezzlement of $85,000 from CCC funds.

Earlier efforts of Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes to blame the war department for the embezzlement were blasted by Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.]. The senator read into the records an executive order issued by President Roosevelt transferring accountability for improper vouchers to the department officials certifying them and specifically relieving the disbursing officers of the responsibility.

The presidential proclamation, dated June 10, 1933, surprised partisans of Ickes on the senate committee which is investigating the qualifications of Ebert K. Burlew, his administrative assistant, for the office of first assistant secretary of the interior.

Theft Covers Four Years.

Stitely embezzled the $85,000 in almost four years by submitting to the war department disbursing office pay rolls bearing the names of fictitious CCC enrollees. For these pay rolls, certified by proper officials in the interior department, the war department disbursing office issued government checks for lump sums which Stitely cashed or deposited to his account in a Washington bank.

Although a confidential report by two of Ickes' investigators declared that the defalcations could have been uncovered had the disbursement records been reconciled with the interior department's pay roll, Ickes supporters have insisted the war department should have investigated the spurious CCC vouchers.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] was making such an argument today when Senator Pittman interrupted him to read the President's proclamation.

Responsibility Is Fixed.

"The division of disbursements shall disburse moneys only upon certification of persons duly authorized by law to incur obligations on behalf of the United States," the President ordered. "The function of accountability for improper certification shall be transferred to such persons, and no disbursing officers shall be held accountable therefor."

"Who issued that executive order?" asked Senator O'Mahoney.

"The President of the United States," replied Senator Pittman. Senator O'Mahoney, thereafter, had no more to say about the war department being responsible for permitting the peculations to be carried on over so long a period.

Signatures Unfamiliar.

The vouchers Stitely presented at the war department disbursing office were certified in conformance with the President's executive order. The confidential report by Ickes' investigators said: "Certifying officers [in the interior department] approved vouchers signed by persons whose signatures were not known to said certifying officers.

"Certifying officers did not receive pay roll data, such as memorandums of employment or time slips.

"Voucher was presumed to be authentic when it was initialed by Reno E. Stitely.

"No reconciliation of accounts payable for the Washington office, National Parks service, has been made since 1933.

Moonlight Adult Schools Draw Mountain Pupils

Whitesburg, Ky., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Two pupils, 78 and 79 years old, have entered a new moonlight adult school, the second school of the kind to be established at Doty Creek, an out of the way section of Letcher county. The aged folk, taking their first lessons, are Uncle Henry Madden and his wife, Julia. Both are making splendid strides. A number of other old people ranging from 60 to 75 are attending the moonlight school.

MRS. ROOSEVELT BOBS HER HAIR; SIDE LOCKS CAN BE WORN 2 WAYS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has bobbed her hair. It's not a 100 per cent bob—but, predict her friends, it will be when her present supply of hats, bought for a long hair coiffure, are outmoded.

Mrs. Roosevelt's hair cut extends at present to the side locks only. Over each ear her finely textured brown hair was sheared off to a length suitable for the application of a permanent wave. With her partial bob she can brush her hair back to form soft curves over her ears and blend with the knot of long hair which she still retains on the nape of her neck. Or she can brush it upward into curls and thus conform to the latest fashion decree of hairdressers.

FRIENDS EXPRESS FEAR FOR LIFE OF FASTING MINISTER

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Friends said today they feared for the life of the Rev. Israel Harding Noe, who has sought to banish fear of the grave by a long fast to demonstrate a new way of life.

Believing the Rev. Mr. Noe is on the verge of a lapse into a coma, these friends planned to send him to a hospital if and when he collapses. Ambulance attendants and hospital attachés have been instructed as to the care to be given him when the emergency arises.

Dean of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral no longer, the Rev. Mr. Noe remained at the deanery, shocked and hurt by Bishop James M. Maxon's order of removal yesterday. He read telegrams and letters of sympathy and encouragement, but received no visitors. No steps will be taken to compel him to break his fast. He has not, through his removal, lost his status as a priest. He could be unfrocked only after ecclesiastical trial.

FARMER WANTS HAUNTED HOUSE TO ROUT GHOSTS

Benton, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Hickman Whittington, 68 years old, a farmer, has put the following advertisment in a newspaper:

"Any one having house that is haunted, let me know. I will redeem it. It will cost you nothing."

Whittington said he had found a biblical text that will drive out any ghost that ever moaned or rattled a chain. He will put it to a test as soon as he receives an answer to his advertisment.

Lady Jurors, as Usual, Get the Last Word

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—When Mrs. Anna Kettle was defendant several days ago in a suit to compel her to relinquish $8,700 to the public administrator, the jury brought in a quick verdict in her favor.

The reason for the hurried decision came out when Surrogate James A. Delehanty set aside the verdict, asserting the jurors—five women and seven men—obviously had been influenced by the emotional conduct of Mrs. Kettle. She had wept profusely while on the witness stand.

It turned out that the five women on the jury wanted to return a verdict for the public administrator, or at least deliberate further. But the seven men jurors took the opposite view, and declared they were hungry and wanted to get home. They wouldn't permit further debate and the women yielded to their wishes, the latter asserted today.

Woman Blames the Men.

"His honor is referring to the men who served with us when he says we were swayed by emotion," Miss Ethel Gisser, one of the jurors, said today. "They were the emotional ones. The women wanted more proof than Mrs. Kettle's tears to support her assertion that a roomer in her house gave her a bank book showing $8,700 deposits before his death.

"All of we five women agreed our decision should have been just the opposite and the verdict should be set aside because it is wrong.

"The men wanted to go home for dinner. If we hadn't agreed with them they would have said, 'Isn't it just like a woman to hold up a case?'"

The Other Women Agree.

"If it took those men all night," said Mrs. Judith Tilles, another of the jurors, "they should have stayed and argued the case out with us. Handing down a verdict is a serious matter and shouldn't be done in a hurry."

The other three women jurors were of the same mind. The seven hungry men haven't said anything yet.

Young Wife Kills Mate She Feared Was Leaving

Frankfort, Ind., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Fernie Timmons, 18 years old, shot and killed her husband, Clarence Timmons, 28, after a drinking party here tonight because, she told police, she believed he was leaving her. Forest Crocket and his wife, Edith, witnessed the shooting.

CHANGES HER DRESS 3 TIMES IN COURT; WINS DAMAGE SUIT

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Miss Alice Furlonge won a suit today against the Ambassador Valet and Tailoring company by the simple process of disrobing three times in Municipal court, and showing Justice Morris Eder and a jury that three of her dresses had shrunk so much after the company cleaned them that she could not wear them comfortably.

Miss Furlonge is a professional model. She submitted the dresses in evidence and offered to put them on to show the damage. Justice Eder suggested she might use his chambers, but she said: "That isn't necessary, your honor. I'll just step behind the jury box and step out again."

This she did three times, donning each of the damaged frocks in turn. The jury decided the damages amounted to $25.

INSURE STUDENTS AGAINST FAILURE IN THEIR TESTS

Providence, R. I., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A novel system of examination insurance with the added inducement of scholastic hot tips was the hope held out today to Providence college students as they racked their brains at their midyear tests.

The new plan has been evolved by a group of seniors who have formed the Students' Protective Insurance company and plan to start writing policies during the second semester.

For a premium ranging from 50 cents for freshmen to 35 cents for seniors, the company will guarantee an undergraduate's complete scholastic program for a semester. If he fails to attain the passing mark of 60, the insurance company will assume the payment of all conditional examination fees to the college, amounting to $2 for the first try and 35 for the next two attempts afforded by the college.

Unhurt in 142 Foot Leap from Bridge Into River

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Frank Earus of Chelsea, Mass., jumped off the Manhattan bridge today into the East river, 142 feet below and bobbed up without even a bruise. His leap was only three feet less than Steve Brodie's 145 foot jump from Brooklyn bridge on another Friday, July 23, 1886. Brodie cashed in on his fame for some $90,000 before he died, but all today's jumper got was an icy ducking. He was rescued by a tug boat. "I just got tired of everything," he said.

Kiss Slayings AreRe-enacted in Trial Drama

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The sight of his wife's infidelity so maddened Paul A. Wright that he killed her and his best friend in a blinding rage of jealousy.

That was the defense launched late today by the former airport manager's attorney as he conducted a sensational cross-examination of Policeman Harry W. Reed, a chief prosecution witness.

A capacity courtroom crowd sat tense and apparently abashed as the testimony was given. Some of the women averted their eyes, but none left their seats, for there was a line of persons in the corridor waiting for a chance to get inside.

Shouts Questions at Officer.

Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler shouted rapid questions at Policeman Reed and had him give another detailed description of the position of the bodies of Mrs. Evelyn Wright and John Kimmel, the victims. The attorney spent considerable time on Reed's testimony concerning the condition of Kimmel's clothing.

The defense attorney sprawled on the courtroom floor to simulate the positions in which Reed said he found the bodies in the Wright living room. He got under the bullet pierced piano bench on which Mrs. Wright and Kimmel had been sitting, now a court exhibit, and from that position shot questions at Reed. Then he put his heel on the rail of the jury box to simulate the position of Kimmel's foot on the keyboard of the piano when he fell mortally wounded.

Quizzes Officer at Length.

Finally he gesticulated with his left arm in the manner Reed had said Kimmel's arm flailed about, sometimes plucking at his disarranged clothing as he lay mortally wounded by a bullet in his forehead.

Giesler dwelt continually on Reed's earlier testimony of Wright's great emotion immediately following the shooting and sought to show that the defendant's mental condition could not be considered that of a sane man.

"He was hysterical, wasn't he?" the attorney asked time and again. "Didn't he bow his head in his hands, wring his hands constantly, and stare about wildly? Didn't he seem to be tremendously excited?"

Reed replied that Wright had said it was a terrible tragedy and he didn't know why he did it, that he had repeated over and over: "My God! I'm a murderer."

Dwells on Clothes Disarray.

In challenging changes and additions to testimony as given at a preliminary hearing Giesler established that Policeman Reed had conferred with district attorney's investigators, particularly concerning the condition of Kimmel's clothing.

The attorney thundered a succession of questions at the witness in an attempt to show that Wright burst from the bedroom where he had been napping and fired to wipe out the scene on the piano bench, instead of creeping silently across a thick rug to shoot the unsuspecting couple at close range in what the prosecution contends was a premeditated murder.

Under his questioning, Reed testified that the type of automatic pistol which Wright used ejected its shells forward, instead of to the side, as do other guns.

FEDERAL AGENTS REVEAL CRUELTY OF CAVE KILLER

KIDNAP PICTURES.

On the back page are pictures of the kidnap hideout in which Peter Anders killed Charles S. Ross and other important features of the sensational case. There is also a map tracing the movements of the killer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Hard working operatives of the federal bureau of investigation, led by J. Edgar Hoover, tonight wound up a few loose ends of the startling kidnap-murder of Charles S. Ross, wealthy Chicagoan, whose body was found near Spooner in the Wisconsin north woods last night.

They located relatives of J. Atwood Gray, murdered accomplice and dupe of Peter Anders, master criminal in the case. They obtained a comprehensive background of Anders' past life that explained in part his cruel ability to kidnap and kill without qualm.

Ross Picked by Chance.

The G-men ascertained, too, that Ross was kidnaped by chance and impulse, not by design, and that he ultimately was killed by a blow on the head and not by a bullet, as first supposed. They also further linked Anders with the previous kidnaping of Mrs. Olive Borcia, Chicago night club entertainer.

With the bodies of Ross and Gray found, more than $44,000 of the $50,000 ransom money also recovered, and the confessed kidnaper, Anders, in safe custody, the G-men exerted themselves to learn more about Gray and Anders. They obtained two contrasting sketches, one picturing an errant youth who blindly followed his leader, the other portraying a wilful man who blazed a criminal trail in many states. The first was Gray, the second Anders.

Gray a Kentucky Native.

Gray, according to Mr. Hoover, was only 19 years old, a son of hard working, respectable parents living in Providence, Ky. He left home in 1933, and since then had worked on plantations in Louisiana and elsewhere, somewhat in the manner of a floater. So far as could be discovered, he never had come into conflict with the authorities. He returned to Providence from time to time—and always at Christmas. His last visit was in April, when he called on his sister, Mrs. J. W. Scott. He left to find work, and the last she heard from him was by letter, mailed from Minnesota in October. At that time he was guarding Ross in a filthy dugout where both he and Ross were to die.

Certain Gray Her Brother.

"I am sure the man killed with Ross is my brother," said Mrs. Scott. "If he had been alive he would have come home for Christmas. He always did. He was a good boy. I can't believe he was engaged in crime. If he did wrong I believe he was compelled to do it."

Surviving Gray are two brothers, Archie of East St. Louis, Ill., and Joel of Providence. Archie telegraphed his sister yesterday to have an undertaker make arrangements to have the body returned from Spooner, Wis., where it was found yesterday with that of Ross, the kidnap victim, to Providence for burial. He said that he was satisfied with the identification, although no member of the family had seen the body.

Meet in Tennessee.

Hoover said Anders met his youthful accomplice—apparently the only one he ever had—by chance.

"I was riding in Tennessee last summer," said the confessed killer, "and I picked the kid up on the road. We were pals and we stuck together."

It was an unfortunate partnership for the youth. He aided his masterful chief in the building of dugouts in which to keep kidnaping victims. He was led on by stories of the big money that soon would be theirs. Then the Ross money was collected and Gray got $20,000 and a bullet in his head because Anders coveted the money.

It was characteristic of Anders, Hoover said, that he made many of his decisions quickly. That explains, he believes, the chance that made Ross the victim of the kidnaping pair.

They were cruising on Wolf road west of Chicago on Sept. 25 when the Ross car passed them. In it were Ross and his former secretary, Miss Florence Freihage. The pair followed. "That's a good pair to stick up," said Anders. When he forced the Ross car off the road and stepped out with his pistol in his hand his intention was only to get the motorist's wallet.

"Then I looked him over," said Anders, "and decided to kidnap him—just to keep my hand in."

The whole career of the swashbuckling ex-lumberman was filled with similar incidents. He kidnaped Mrs. Borcia and released her because he was satisfied her husband couldn't raise a ransom. He kidnaped two other women near Rhinelander, Wis., and let them go because he found a box they carried contained only candy when he expected jewels.

A Dangerous Criminal.

"A man of many moods, through whom alternately course good will and anger," said Hoover. "But he has committed crimes in many parts of the country and is one of the most dangerous criminals the bureau ever has met. He let nothing stand in the way of his wishes or his safety."

In four bank raids Anders worked alone. The bankers he visited attested to his utter coolness in danger. His loot was considerable. At Eagle River, Wis., he took $1,737 on June 15, 1936; at Milltown, Wis., $1,000 on May 2, 1936; at Colfax, Wis., $1,100 on Aug. 25, 1936, and at Shakopee, Minn., $4,600 on Jan. 25, 1937.

Little is known of Anders' ancestry and his early life, but Hoover said he was a high school graduate and has much more than average intelligence.

Known in Spokane.

Anders used Spokane as his base of operations for more than a year, personal friends there disclosed tonight.

John Stacy and Will Hagen, Spokane garage men, said they had known Anders intimately. Hagen said he had been acquainted with Anders since 1935 and Stacy for the last year.

Art Hansen, clerk at the hotel where Anders had a room until last Dec. 8, described Anders as a quiet fellow who never drank much and didn't attract any more attention than any other roomer.

He was a nervous individual and it was often noticed that he walked the floor of his room a lot at nights, the clerk said.

"It was always strange that when Anders went away he never left a forwarding address and when he came back he never asked for mail."

For five months in the fall of 1936 Anders worked on the ranch of Gene Sowers at Deer Park, 27 miles north of Spokane. Sowers said Anders had plenty of money, which he explained by saying he had wealthy parents in Boston with whom he could not agree but who gave him funds.

Stacy and Hagen said Anders explained his apparent affluence by saying he was a logging operator in the St. Maries, Idaho, region.

Ross Killed by Blow.

A medical examination today disclosed that Ross was not shot, as the kidnaper-killer declared, but had been killed by a blow on his head. A coroner's jury tonight returned a verdict that Ross and Gray had been murdered by Peter Anders.

Ross' body, when found, still was clad in the clothing he wore when he was kidnaped. All his garments were dirty, indicating that he had not been allowed to change in the 15 days he was a prisoner.

The federal agents let it be known today that while they were near the dugout near Spooner, in which Ross spent his last hours, Anders attacked his captors and knocked two of them down. Shackled as he was, he was easily subdued.

"I'd be a fool," he said with a laugh afterward, "if I didn't take any chance I saw to escape."

The agents said he had no chance.

Hoover would not say how soon Anders will be taken to Chicago from the cell he now occupies in the F. B. I. offices on the fourth floor of a downtown St. Paul building. He says there are several phases of the case to be cleaned up and Anders will be kept here until the investigation is closed.

There were indications, however, that Anders probably will be flown to Chicago tomorrow in the Transcontinental and Western Air plane which brought him to St. Paul from Los Angeles last Tuesday. The airplane is in readiness for immediate flight and the two pilots have been standing by at the National Guard hangar on St. Paul airport ever since their arrival.

Fourteen thousand dollars of the ransom money recovered from Anders' person and $30,000 from his cache in a pine woods near Walker, Minn., will be held for evidence at Anders' trial. Afterward it will be returned to Mrs. Ross.

The $30,000 still was wrapped in paper held with rubber bands, the original wrapping when the $50,000 ransom package was made up in Chicago. The $14,000 and $6,000 missing comprise Gray's share of the ransom.

Career Long Planned.

Anders has said frankly that he and Gray decided upon careers as kidnapers last June. At that time they discussed sites of hiding places which were secluded and safe, but at the same time not too far from larger middle western cities.

They chose northern Wisconsin as the ideal place for their main hideouts and drove to Spooner in July. After choosing the place where the bodies of Ross and Gray were found they excavated a pit six feet square and four feet deep.

This they lined with pine boards bought near Spooner. Examination of the dugout by Sherif Robert Willis proved that the timber was cut by a nearby sawmill, although it has not been learned where the boards were bought.

Second Hideaway in Minnesota.

The second, smaller hideaway constructed near Emily, 25 miles northeast of Brainard, Minn., where Ross was kept from Sept. 25 until Oct. 9, when he was moved to the Spooner dugout, was constructed in the same way. Anders, the woodman, had chosen the two spots with care, knowing that they would be well out of the sight of prying eyes.

Anders has been questioned rigorously on his story that Gray was shot in a struggle that followed a quarrel. He has told several versions of this story, but never has explained how the quarrel started, federal men say.

U. S. GETS READY TO GIVE ANDERS A SPEEDY TRIAL

Verdict Expected by End of Next Week.

Federal officials in Chicago prepared yesterday for the trial of Peter Anders, confessed kidnap-killer of Charles S. Ross. Indications were that a verdict may be returned by a jury before the end of next week.

Assistant United States Attorney Martin Ward reviewed the laws bearing upon Anders' case. Assigned to the trial of kidnap and extortion defendants, he will aid District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, who returns to Chicago from Washington today to take charge of the prosecution.

May Skip Preliminaries.

Ward said that if the department of justice requests it Anders' case will be taken directly before the federal grand jury without having him appear for a preliminary examination before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Anders' twenty-seven page confession of the kidnaping and murder of Ross and Anders' accomplice, James Atwood Gray, will be presented to the grand jury.

The case will be assigned by the clerk's office to one of the five federal judges, according to the rotation system in use. Mr. Igoe then may ask the presiding judge for an immediate trial. Mr. Ward expressed belief that presentation of the evidence should not take more than three days.

Under the Lindbergh anti-kidnaping law the death penalty may be imposed only upon recommendation of a jury. If the jury recommends the death penalty United States Marshal William H. McDonnell will make the arrangements for its execution. The law permits him to use state or local facilities or to employ some one of his own choosing.

Sherif Ready to Help.

Marshal McDonnell said that if Anders is sentenced to die in the electric chair he will call upon Sherif John Toman to carry out the order.

"I won't charge the government a nickel," Sherif Toman said. "And we do the job faster than any other state in the Union. Since we've eliminated all straps and buckles on the electric chair a condemned man can be fastened in four and one-half seconds—almost before he knows it. I'm always glad to be of help."

352 AUTO UNION AGENTS SEIZED AT FORD GATES

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Police of suburban Dearborn arrested 352 members of the United Automobile Workers of America who attempted to distribute union literature at the gates of the Ford Motor company's Rouge plant today. Those arrested were chargod with violating an ordinance that designates the road in front of the Ford plant as a congested area and prohibits the distribution of pamphlets there.

Union officials said 1,128 persons had registered at U. A. W. A. headquarters for the distribution, the fourth attempt by the union to give its literature to Ford workers. The distributors massed in front of the gates and sang union songs while urging workers to take copies of the United Automobile Worker. Few accepted them.

Dearborn police used rented buses and patrol wagons to take the unionists to jail, where they were registered and released.

EMERGENCY LIGHTING SYSTEM FRUSTRATES ESCAPE FROM PRISON

Lansing, Kas., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—An emergency light system helped to frustrate an attempt of eight convicts to escape in a fog last night from the Kansas prison. A young life term murderer was killed, another convict was shot in the abdomen, a third was slightly wounded, and the other five surrendered peaceably.

Cecil Thornbrugh. [A.P. Wirephoto.]

Two of the felons gave the signal for the break when they pulled and padlocked the main light switch in the prison power plant where they worked. But prison officials immediately cut in an emergency city power switch, flooding the yard with searchlights.

Cecil Thornbrugh, 25 years old, serving life for killing a county jail guard, was shot as he stood on the roof of a cell house he and five others had scaled. He died. Clifford Ottinger, 21 years old, was critically wounded. Five knives and a dagger were found on the cellhouse roof.

WOMAN VICTIM OF ANDERS WILL AID U. S. AGENTS

Tells of Long Trip with Kidnaper.

Mrs. Olive Borcia, a night club entertainer, who was kidnaped last fall by Peter Anders, confessed killer of Charles S. Ross, returned to Chicago yesterday after an absence of three weeks, ready to help government men prosecute Anders. Since Anders voluntarily has admitted abducting Mrs. Borcia, her expected identification of the man in person will be more or less of a formality. Her husband, John, a former gambler, who is now in Albany, N. Y., has already said Anders is the kidnaper.

Mrs. Borcia was kidnaped a few minutes before midnight Sept. 2. She and her husband were driving to her mother's home in Lake Geneva, Wis., when, not far from that city, two men forced their car to the curb.

Wife Taken Away.

They robbed Borcia, then asked him if he could raise a large sum of money for ransom. He protested he could not, but they took Mrs. Borcia in their car.

The kidnapers drove Mrs. Borcia northward all night, stopping near what she thought was Eau Claire, Wis., but later said might have been Spooner, Wis. In any event, the kidnapers decided she was not the victim they wanted and they drove her back to Lake Geneva. She was freed unharmed after twenty-six hours.

Husband's Story of Kidnaping.

Borcia's story in Albany confirmed parts of his wife's account, except that he believed there were two men with Anders in the kidnaping. He also said he was kidnaped with his wife, but released to raise ransom. Borcia said the kidnapers first demanded $10,000, but reduced the figure finally to $5,000.

Borcia is being held in the Albany county jail on a charge of carrying a gun. He told police there he carried the gun for protection against the kidnapers who, he said, had threatened him.

LOCK UP JURY IN OIL TRIAL AFTER 10 HOUR DEBATE

Deadlocked on Fate of 30 Men and 16 Firms.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The jury in the oil conspiracy case was locked up at 11:30 o'clock tonight without having reached a verdict. The case, which has been on trial since Oct. 4, was given to the jury of farmers and small town business men at 1:33 o'clock this afternoon.

The only word that came from the courtroom where the jurors were deliberating was that they were studying some of the 1,200 exhibits. No sounds of debate were heard in the corridors, which were kept clear by bailiffs.

Judge Patrick T. Stone told the jurors in his instructions not to hurry over their decision and to give careful consideration to the case of each of the thirty defendants, presidents and high officers of oil companies, and to each of the sixteen companies involved. They are accused of conspiracy to fix gasoline prices.

Outcome Held Important.

This is the most important anti-trust litigation of the government in many years. The outcome will decide federal policy regarding the oil and possibly other industries.

Defendants and their lawyers were plainly gloomy about the outlook. Edward G. Seubert of Chicago, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in whose territory the alleged conspiracy to raise prices occurred, and Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company, are among the company presidents wondering what will happen.

The possible penalty for the individuals is a year in jail or a fine of $5,000, or both, and that for the companies is a $5,000 fine. The trial has cost the defense and government together around 3 million dollars.

Judge's Jury Instructions.

While much of the defense hinged on the contention that the government in NRA days had fostered the activities of the oil companies which led to the indictment, Judge Stone instructed the jurors that as a matter of law no such written approval had been shown and that officials in Washington would have no right, anyway, to approve actions that violated the Sherman anti-trust law.

The violation charged is that the oil companies combined under the shadow of NRA to raise the price of gasoline, and made an alleged profit of $70,000,000 during the period in 1935-'36 covered by the indictment.

Judge Stone's instruction to the jury took more than an hour to read. The jurors were told that the case against each individual defendant and company must be weighed separately and carefully, that the jurors could convict or acquit any or all, but that if a conspiracy had been proved and the individuals had entered into it, the actions of one bound the others.

Crawford Closes Arguments.

William P. Crawford, noted Wisconsin jury lawyer, closed the case for the government this morning in a low, heart to heart talk with the jurors in which there was much of good natured fun and homely comment, interspersed with some hard jolts at the defense contentions and arguments.

Crawford took each defense attorney over the coals after admitting they were good fellows and telling the jurors that the defendants themselves, or those whom he had met around the drinking fountains, were also good fellows—nice, intelligent, generous, smart people, as he called them. It seemed like a love feast until Crawford began to refer pointedly to the support of this prosecution from officials in Washington.

Defense Attorneys Object.

Defense attorneys interrupted him at this time and at several other points where he stated that Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes stood behind the prosecution. It had been the defense claim that Secretary Ickes had practically authorized their activities.

"It is all right to assume that this case is here under instructions of the attorney general," said the court.

"The eyes of the people of the nation are upon you," Crawford continued, "also the eyes of the people in Washington who administer the affairs of this government. If you say these people are not guilty after this overpowering evidence, then you take the responsibility, you get an alibi—I won't."

ARREST OF CONCERT PIANIST IS ORDERED; OWES $10,675 ALIMONY

Sylvio Scionti.

Attorney Benjamin B. Davis said that Scionti owes $10,675 in alimony and support to his first wife, Mrs. Adele Scionti, a pianist, now living in Paris. They were divorced here eight years ago, Mrs. Scionti being awarded $300 a month for herself and three children.

At that time, Mrs. Scionti charged, her husband said he thought she was a wonderful woman and mother, but that the heart of a music pupil was his temple. In 1935 Scionti, who is 50 years old, married a pupil, Miss Isabel Laughlin.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21.—Lieut. Col. John Rudolphus Booth, multi-millionaire sportsman of Ottawa, went into the city clerk's office yesterday and demanded a license to marry Betty Jane Smith of Merion, near Philadelphia, Pa., it was learned today. City Clerk Nelson R. Ogilvie was agast. Betty Jane Smith, a beautiful golf enthusiast, is and has been Mrs. John Rudolphus Booth since July 15, 1933.

But there have been complications since their fashionable wedding in the Overbrook Presbyterian church in Philadelphia. Many persons have said Booth, a world war aviator and still an ardent pilot, never was married legally to Betty Jane Smith.

Wed After He Goes to Reno.

The colonel and his lady married after he had obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev. His former wife—and Canadian courts—did not recognize the American divorce, and the first wife, Mrs. Ida Evelyn Woods Booth, sued in Ottawa and obtained a divorce last year. She named Betty Jane Smith as co-defendant and charged desertion.

All this was too complex for the clerk who issues marriage licenses. He told Booth that he already is married to the woman in question.

"I know that!" thundered Booth. "I want to marry her again in Canada. Then there will be no question."

Now It's Up to Nixon.

But the clerk was adamant. "How," he asked, "can a man marry his own wife? I doubt my authority in this matter."

City Clerk Ogilvie said he would refer the matter to Harry C. Nixon, provincial secretary at Toronto, and that is how the matter rested today.

Betty Jane Smith Booth's first husband was George Joseph Biles, son of George H. Biles, a candidate for mayor of Philadelphia in 1930. Their marriage was terminated in Reno on Oct. 4, 1932.

Chicagoan to Be Honored by Junior Trade Chamber

G. Lyle Belsley of Chicago, executive director of the civil service assembly of the United States and Canada, tonight will be presented with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce's 1937 distinguished service award at a banquet in the Mayflower hotel in Washington, D. C. The award is made annually to the man less than 36 years old regarded by the chamber as having made the most outstanding contribution to his country. Belsley was chosen for efforts to improve government administration by development of the merit system.

DYNAMITER GETS PRISON SENTENCE WHILE WIFE SOBS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Sarlos Dimitris, crime against nature, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Clarence Kowalski, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

His wife, an expectant mother, sobbed and pleaded in vain yesterday when Charles Karovich, 27 years old, was sentenced to serve from one to twenty years in the penitentiary for dynamiting the home of Mrs. Patricia Davis, 21 years old, 2536 South Troy street.

Charles Karovich.

Mrs. Davis, a divorcée with whom Karovich had quarreled in a tavern, did not appear in court. A statement given to police by Karovich was read to Judge Francis Allegretti in the Criminal court. It told how Karovich became angered when other men were attentive to his companion, and how he got two sticks of dynamite from his home at 1733 West 18th place while his wife slept. An hour later, at 4 a. m. Nov. 20, he exploded these on the windowsill of Mrs. Davis' bedroom. She was not injured.

FOND MATE TOLD TO SUE AGAIN FOR WIFE AND TAVERN

After court was over yesterday Kasimer Tomasaitis, the lovesick tavern owner, still did not have his wife, his $1,300 savings, the quitclaim deed to his tavern at 1900 West 63d street, or his stock of liquor. All he had was the advice of Judge George B. Weiss of the Municipal court to air his troubles in a civil suit.

Judge Weiss also dismissed a disorderly conduct charge against John King, 44 years old. Tomasaitis charged that King introduced him to a comely, buxom widow, Mrs. Cecilia Douglas, whom he married two days later. Then they induced him to give up his money and his tavern when he went to the hospital, Tomasaitis said.

Mrs. Tomasaitis, 45 years old, 6 feet tall and 280 pounds, declared she still loved her husband, who is 55, 5 feet 7 inches tall and 145 pounds. Mr. Tomasaitis said nothing. His silence deepened as Mrs. T. and King left the court arm in arm.

Two Loan Office Robbers Strike Again; Get $500

Two gunmen held up nine employés in the Citizens' Loan association on the third floor at 7 South Dearborn street and escaped with $500 yesterday afternoon. L. J. Nash, one of the employés identified the robbers as those who locked fifteen persons in a vault of the Tower Finance corporation, 40 North Dearborn street, on Jan. 5 and took $1,500. Nash was one of those locked in the Tower corporation vault, having been visiting that office on the day of the hold-up.

POLICE OFFICER ADMITS SPYING ON BOMB VICTIM

Explore Plot Against Vice Investigator.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Detective Captain Earle Kynette admitted today he was shadowing the activities of Harry Raymond when the vice investigator was seriously injured a week ago by the explosion of a bomb that had been planted in his automobile.

Kynette and Lieut. Dan M. Draper, a member of Kynette's special police intelligence squad, are held under bond on suspicion of wire tapping at Raymond's home. Wire tapping is a felony in California.

District Attorney Buron Fitts ordered the arrest of the policemen and questioned five others in his inquiry into the bombing. It has been hinted that the attack on Raymond was an attempt to prevent him from completing an investigation which might have affected persons in public life.

Differ on Raymond's Employer.

It has not been disclosed who had been paying Raymond for his activities. Clifford Clinton, a crusading grand jury member, who as a private citizen organized the Civic association, a vice investigating committee, said Raymond was employed by him. Raymond denied this, as did A. Brigham Rose, Clinton's attorney.

Capt. Kynette admitted authorizing the rental of a house near the Raymond residence, from which a surveillance of the vice investigator was maintained for several months by the police intelligence squad.

"This man's contacts were assertedly not of the best," Kynette said. "We had reached a point in our investigation where we were prepared to take action when this unfortunate interruption, the bombing, occurred."

Tells of Movements.

The detective captain said he was mystified when he was called before District Attorney Fitts Wednesday night for questioning about the explosion.

"But now that I know definitly that they were attempting to link me with the bombing of Raymond," he said, "I will not hesitate to give an account of my activities on the night of the explosion."

The officer declared he arrived home at midnight Thursday, Jan. 13, and did not leave until 11 o'clock Friday morning, at least an hour after Raymond was critically wounded when the bomb exploded as he stepped on the starter of his car in his private garage.

Neighbor Charges Beating.

The district attorney's investigators said they wanted to question Kynette's absent squadsman, Lieut. Roy Allen, about beating one of Raymond's neighbors. George Sakalis, the neighbor, said he was beaten last Wednesday and warned to keep quiet about the Raymond case.

Several neighbors and Raymond's wife, Mrs. Beulah Raymond, said they saw Kynette and other policemen boring holes in the house they occupied and subsequently stringing wires, Fitts said. The district attorney asserted the wires were arranged to tap Raymond's telephone.

Judge Sets Aside $7,000 Verdict Against Dentist

Judge John T. Cummings of Kewanee, sitting here in Circuit court, yesterday set aside a jury verdict of $7,000 against Dr. William G. F. Schmidt, 1431 Glenlake avenue, a loop dentist, and granted him a new trial, set for Feb. 23.

The award was won by Miss Margaret Moore, 28 years old, 1621 Columbia avenue, who accused the dentist of raping her two years ago when she was employed by him. Judge Cummings held that the remarks and conduct of Miss Moore and her widowed mother, Mrs. John Moore, were prejudicial to the jury.

Mrs. Sarah Sandt of Oak Park and Joseph McCombs, who stole her purse. A policeman chasing McCombs was killed when he ran in front of train.

Policeman Chauncey B. Esch of Oak Park was fatally injured early last evening when he was struck by a Chicago and North Western passenger train as he pursued a youthful thief across the tracks at Marion street in Oak Park.

Chauncey Esch.

Esch, standing in Marion street, saw the youth seize the purse of Mrs. Sarah Sandt, 208 Clinton street, Oak Park, and flee up the stairs leading to the railroad station. He followed. From the platform the boy ran across the tracks. Apparently failing to see the train, which was being backed in from the west, the policeman leaped directly in its path. He died shortly afterward in the Oak Park hospital.

Other policemen caught the thief later and recovered the purse. The prisoner is Joseph McCombs, 17 years old, of Sterling. He said he was with his uncle, Richard Quinn, alias Ross, 39 years old. Quinn was nabbed a few hours later alighting from a train in Sterling. Policeman Esch was 37 years old and the father of two children. He lived at 429 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park.

MORE WITNESSES DESCRIBE TAYLOR SALES METHODS

Several more witnesses testified yesterday in the Felony court to the high pressure sales methods used by the Taylor Washing Machine company. Ellis R. Taylor, president, and four other officials and employés of the company are charged with conspiracy to defraud customers and prospective customers.

Vito Badalemente, 1473 Grand avenue, said he and his wife signed a contract last July to buy a washing machine, understanding that the price included an electric pump. When the machine arrived without the pump, Badalemente refused to take it. Later, he said, Taylor told him: "The only way you can get out of the contract is to go back to Italy or shoot yourself." Badalemente's wages were then garnisheed although he did not have the machine, he said.

Mrs. Bertha Driessler, 807 West 51st place, testified that she lost her job with the Inland Glass company after she became involved in garnishment proceedings brought by the company. She said she thought she was only taking a machine for a trial period.

AUTO BUILDERS, FINANCE HEADS SEE ROOSEVELT

High Pressure Instalment Selling Opposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Leading automobile manufacturers and financiers this afternoon expressed hearty agreement with President Roosevelt's stand against high pressure instalment selling and forecast a marked spring upturn in sales that will lead business toward improvement.

The representatives of the auto industry came to the White House as the fourth group the President has summoned to consider means of combating the present depression. In the near future Mr. Roosevelt plans to hold one conference with small business men.

President Sees Progress.

At his press conference earlier in the day Mr. Roosevelt asserted his parleys are proving successful in that they are bringing about coöperation between business and the government against the recession. Out of the series of conferences the President hopes to name an advisory group, which will embrace all the interests within the country, for the purpose of developing a government legislative and administrative policy for business.

The automobile group was headed by Alvin Macauley, president of the Automobile Manufacturers' association and Packard Motor company. Others who attended were Edsel Ford, president Ford Motor company; A. E. Duncan, president Commercial Credit company; Henry Ittleson, president Commercial Investment trust; K. T. Keller, president, and B. E. Hutchinson, vice president, Chrysler Motor corporation; William S. Knudson, president, General Motors corporation; John J. Schumann Jr., president, General Motors Acceptance corporation, and Senator Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.].

Macauley Makes Statement.

The conference continued for an hour and a half. At its conclusion Mr. Macauley acted as spokesman. He said all those present concurred in his statement.

"We had a broad discussion of the factors affecting business and government," he said, "and we believe it was helpful. We reported to the President we are hopeful a seasonal increase in sales in the spring will bring an improvement in business.

"We found ourselves in hearty agreement with the President's principles on the subject of instalment selling. Properly used, instalment buying will continue to help millions of families to a higher standard of living, with a corresponding increase in employment.

"But high pressuring customers or permitting their desires to take them into debt beyond their means is bad business all around. We agreed to meet and discuss among ourselves any possible improvements relating to the subjects discussed and to report back to the President."

Financing Methods Discussed.

Asked for an explanation of what good or bad practices were brought up, Mr. Macauley said various selling and financing methods were discussed but no agreement was reached on methods of limiting such practices. The President, he said, is aware how far-reaching any decision on limitation may be because the entire instalment buying field might be affected.

Don M. Burrows, business agent of the Auto Mechanics' union, has been elected president of the Machinists society to succeed Charles W. Fry, former member of the Board of Education, who died Dec. 7. The society, which operates the union hall and office building at 113 South Ashland boulevard, is controled by the International Association of Machinists.

In Custody Battle

MRS. EDITH MILLER.

Stephen Larrabee, 44 years old, a patient at Hines hospital, failed yesterday to obtain sole custody of his son Albert, 15. Through his attorney, Thor Christensen, he filed a petition alleging that his ex-wife, Mrs. Edith Larrabee Miller, 6151 Winthrop avenue, has remarried and plans to take the boy to Phoenix, Ariz. When her attorney, Dan Covelli, said Mrs. Miller has no intention of leaving Chicago, Judge Philip J. Finnegan refused to change the order which gives her custody of the boy ten months a year.

WILD BELLS RING OUT TO A WILD NEIGHBORHOOD

The mystery of the chimes that pealed forth hymn after hymn at 4:14 a. m. yesterday from the First Presbyterian church, 64th street and Kimbark avenue, has not been entirely dispelled. The church office wasn't interested yetserday, but the sexton, Paul Creamer, was authority for the statement that something went wrong with the electrically operated carillon, so that it repeated the previous evening's program. That's what he told police who roused him when residents in the neighborhood began calling in. They had listened meekly to about six hymns but they were finally roused by this passage from "Safely Through Another Week":

"May the gospel's joyful sound
Conquer sinners, comfort saints,
May the fruits of grace abound,

RULING IMPERILS $6,000,000 SALES TAX COLLECTIONS

Illinois may have to refund $6,000,000 in sales tax collections from contractors and builders under a recent state Supreme court ruling, Assistant Attorney General Mortimer Porges said yesterday. The decision, on which a rehearing is being sought, was made on Dec. 21 and ruled that contractors and builders are not subject to the retailers' occupational tax.

"If the decision stands," Porges said, "the state will have to pay back about 6 million dollars in taxes collected before and after December, 1937."

Three more investigators for the Chicago sales tax division were discharged yesterday, bringing the total to twenty-one dismissed in the drive on sales tax fraud, according to Robert Stowers, head of the Chicago office.

AGED MAN IS MISSING.

The Maxwell police were searching last night for George Spirides, 96 years old, who has been missing from his home at 912 Lexington street since Thursday. His son, Andros Spirides, said his father failed to return from a walk.

CALLS FOR CHECK ON ROOSEVELT'S GROWING POWERS

Senator Burke Tells Bar Members of Danger.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A warning that administration attempts to cow congress and subjugate the judiciary must be checked before constitutional government is destroyed was sounded tonight by Senator Edward H. Burke [D., Neb.] in an address before the sixty-first annual meeting of the New York State Bar association.

While the senator from Nebraska, who was one of the little group of resolute Democrats which blocked President Roosevelt's court packing scheme, recited the dangers of the increasing powers in the hands of the executive, the association also discussed the spread of communism as an imminent danger to the American form of government.

Assail Red Fomenters.

A special committee of the association, which has 5,000 members, brought out a sweeping indictment of those directing the infiltration of Reds into the labor movement, of pseudo democratic organizations used for propaganda purposes, and of critics of American institutions garbed in professorial robes.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed, President Roosevelt's new Supreme court appointee, will speak before the association tomorrow night. Because he accepted the invitation to speak before his appointment, and since the senate has not yet confirmed his selection, his address is said to have undergone drastic change.

Cites President's Weapons.

Senator Burke told his hearers that the President, under present day circumstances, has potent weapons for mobilizing public opinion and arrogating power, weapons which the legislative and judicial establishments do not possess.

"It is always open to him [the President] to hold himself out as speaking and acting for the masses," asserted the senator. "Arraying himself on the side of the unfortunate, the underprivileged, any President can inflame them with the conviction that a selfish few are depriving them of the good things of life, and that all they need to do is to follow him implicitly and he will lead them to the promised land."

Salesman for Chemical Company Dies on 'L' Train

Omar L. Pflueger, 60 years old, 1810 Touhy avenue, a salesman for a chemical company, died, evidently of a heart attack, on a south side "L" train last night. He was removed at the 58th street station and was pronounced dead by a physician who was aboard the train.

BOY, 2, HAS HIS HEART WASHED DAILY AND IS EXPECTED TO LIVE

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Geoffrey Knight, 2 years old, whose case appeared hopeless a week ago, has his heart washed twice daily—and a fighting chance to live.

Lying in Guy's hospital, the little blue eyed son of a Dover miner is puzzled by the parade of white coated surgeons past his cot. They believe he will live.

The boy was suffering from pneumonia when it was discovered that fluid pressing on his heart had enlarged it to three times normal size and that only complete drainage could save his life.

Saturday a surgeon whose name was not announced cut away two of the child's ribs, split the pericardium sac inclosing the heart, and stitched the severed portions to the chest wall to permit drainage and daily washing with warm salt water.

12 COOK COUNTY CONVICTS AMONG 23 GIVEN PAROLE

Twelve of the twenty-three convicts paroled from Illinois prisons this month were sentenced from Cook county, it was disclosed yesterday. Five of the Chicago convicts were freed by the state parole board from Pontiac reformatory and the other seven from Stateville penitentiary.

One of those paroled from Pontiac was Roy McArthur, 23 years old, who served a year and 17 days for receiving a stolen automobile. The others were Charles Varkalis, Edmund Faltman, and Julius Pollack, each of whom served three years for automobile thefts, and Joseph O'Brien, who served a year and five months for the same crime.

Thomas J. Smart, who was convicted of embezzling $20,000 from Swift & Co., where he was employed as a voucher clerk, was released from Stateville after serving two years and eleven months. Henry Hines, colored. Owen Brent, and Walter Zielinski were paroled after serving 6 years each on charges of robbery with a gun. The three other Chicagoans released from Stateville were Alvis Fitzpatrick, Fred Stanley, and Roby Conn.

STATE ATTACKS PHONE REFUND RESIDUE AWARD

Attorney General Otto Kerner yesterday attacked the federal court ruling which awarded the Illinois Bell Telephone company $1,600,000 residue in refunds not claimed by subscribers. The company returned $18,400,000 overcharges on coin box service dating back to 1923.

The petition filed with the court asserted that the state is the only representative of the subscribers and its claim is founded upon its right as a sovereign and exists independent of statutes. Kerner asked leave to reargue the state's claims. The city of Chicago also sought the balance.

IERC MEMBERS FLAIL POLITICS IN ILLINOIS RELIEF

Say Township Plan Used for Patronage.

Politics in the administration of relief, arising from the present system of township supervisors doling out relief funds, was assailed yesterday by members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission meeting here. The commission is the body which allots state relief funds to local administrators each month.

Omar H. Wright, a member from Belvidere, said that relief rolls began to climb soon after the administration of relief was taken from the IERC in June, 1936, and turned back to the local authorities. He agreed with Martin that township supervisors in some instances have used relief funds to build up their own political patronage.

Question Value of Surveys.

Members questioned the worth of surveys made by their staf in some townships, at the request of the township supervisor in each case. It was pointed out that while the commission may purge the rolls, there is nothing to prevent a supervisor from restoring names after the commission moves out.

"Politics means increased relief rolls," Martin said. "I think we have been 'used' in at least one of these surveys. A man loaded up the rolls and when the strain became too great from a financial viewpoint he called on us to purge the rolls."

The commission voted to make surveys in three townships of Madison county where supervisors have requested investigations and Gov. Horner has urged that surveys be made. The townships are Granite City, Nameoki, and Venice. Cost of the investigation will be $9,000.

Condemn IERC Tactics.

Township supervisors throughout the state have condemned the IERC and have asked the state legislature to abolish the commission. The supervisors contend IERC does not allot the state funds fairly.

After the meeting H. K. Seltzer, Chicago director of WPA, said the city's quota of WPA workers was increased from 67,000 to 69,000 yesterday by Harry Hopkins in Washington. Seltzer said the quota will be filled next week and that he will have a report on the number of reliefers who fail to appear on the job by next Thursday night.

VETERAN HANGS HIMSELF.

John Heiden, 45 years old, a war veteran, hanged himself in his room at 3555 Irving Park road last night. He left a note asking that the army captain under whom he served be notified. He formerly worked as a piano mover.

TWO ILLINOIS RELIEF AIDS TELL NEEDS TO SENATE COMMITTEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Two Illinois relief officials told the senate unemployment committee today that unemployment and relief requirements in that state are steadily increasing.

Unemployment in Illinois was estimated at 850,000, including 120,000 agricultural workers, by Leo Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Charles E. Miner, Works Progress administrator for Illinois, recalled that the federal unemployment census placed the estimate at 638,000 as of Nov. 16, but that preliminary figures of the bureau of labor statistics indicated an increase of 125,000 from Nov. 16 to Dec. 15.

"It is clear that Illinois is suffering severe unemployment, with evidence that it is becoming worse," said Mr. Miner. "What is of utmost importance is that the peak of demand for relief has not yet been reached and probably will not be until late in March."

PRESIDENT PLANS HANDS OFF STAND ON SENATE RACE

Fails to Openly Support Dieterich in Contest.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will maintain a hands off policy in the Illinois senatorial primary next April 12. This was learned today after Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois conferred with the President on the state political situation for the second time within twenty-four hours.

Because the President is indebted to Senator William H. Dieterich, who will be a candidate for renomination on a pro-Roosevelt platform, White House intimates said Roosevelt has decided to do nothing which would injure the senator's cause.

At the same time, however, he will not actively campaign for the man who was one of his leaders in the unsuccessful fight to pack the Supreme court and who cast the vote that made his candidate, Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], senate majority leader, it was reported.

Doubt Dieterich Can Win.

The President is apparently convinced that Dieterich has no chance against the combined opposition of the embattled factions of the Democratic party in Illinois and has no desire to throw away his prestige on a lost cause. Nor does he wish to leave himself open to a charge of ingratitude by deserting Dieterich, it was said. Some Democrats feel Dieterich has been amply paid for his loyalty in the federal district and Circuit Court of Appeals judgeships given him a year ago.

Gov. Horner declared Dieterich's candidacy was obnoxious to him when the senator tossed his hat into the ring early in the week. Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Democratic National Committeeman Pat Nash, who are at war with Horner, expressed similar sentiments when they came here to discuss the state senatorial race with the President Tuesday.

Horner Sees President.

Gov. Horner had a fifteen minute conference with the President this afternoon. He was a guest at the White House dinner to the Supreme court last night and was also an overnight guest. He chatted with Mr. Roosevelt before retiring.

At the conclusion of the conference this afternoon the governor said the President is fully cognizant of the political situation in Illinois. He quoted Mr. Roosevelt as saying: "You have quite a controversy out there."

M'HALE CHOSEN IN INDIANA AS COMMITTEEMAN

French Lick, Ind., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Thomas Taggart submitted his resignation as Indiana member of the Democratic national committee here this afternoon and Frank McHale was selected as his successor.

McHale has been the political sponsor of Paul V. McNutt ever since he began his political career, which has won for him successively the offices of Indiana commander of the American Legion, national commander of the American Legion, and governor of Indiana from 1933 to 1937. McNutt is now United States high commissioner to the Philippines.

McHale is expected to campaign for Mr. Nutt for the Democratic nomination for President in 1940.

ILLINOIS COUNTY G. O. P. CHAIRMEN MAP CAMPAIGN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Republican county chairmen of Illinois formed a permanent organization here today, less than three months in advance of the April primaries, and adopted an open door policy of inviting all who subscribe to Republican principles to aid in the restoration of the party.

Ruffled feelings between downstate and Chicago disappeared beneath an avalanche of coöperative declarations. In Chicago's behalf these were tendered by Edward F. Moore, Cook county chairman. They were echoed and returned by Benjamin H. Miller, Lake county chairman, as the spokesman for downstate.

Charles A. O'Connor, state's attorney and Republican chairman of Kane county, was unanimously selected to head the new organization. Moore was named chairman of the powerful executive committee which, among its other duties, was charged with examining candidates for state offices and, if it desires, can make recommendations of primary candidacies to the parent body.

The executive committee will meet in Champaign Feb. 7, two days after the first day for candidates to file for state office.

Helena's Temblor Total Since 1935 Reaches 2,441

Helena, Mont., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Two weak earthquakes were felt here today. The first tremor occurred at 1:53 p. m., and was followed immediately by the second shake. Each lasted about 1 second. The shocks were the 2,440th and 2,441st in a series which began in the fall of 1935. No damage was reported.

GOVERNOR BACKS CHICAGO WATER DIVERSION PLAN

Horner Asks Committee to Approve Bill.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Illinois' right to share Lake Michigan water with other states was defended today by its governor, Henry Horner, who pleaded with the house rivers and harbors committee to approve the Chicago water diversion plan under the Parsons bill.

The governor contended this diversion would not affect lake levels and would be consistent with army engineers' recommendations for sufficient water for a practical waterway from the lakes to the gulf. Otherwise, he said, the waterway would be impracticable.

"It is difficult for Illinois to understand its actions being condemned when it is trying to improve the great maritime system of the country," the governor protested.

Calls for 5,000 Cubic Feet.

A red carnation dotted the lapel of his dark business suit as he testified in behalf of the Parsons bill to authorize diversion of an annual average of 5,000 cubic feet of Lake Michigan water a second through the Illinois-Mississippi waterway and the Chicago sanitary district.

A Supreme court decision, effective Dec. 31 next, limits this diversion to 1,600 cubic feet. Horner in a prepared statement read to the committee said "without the Illinois waterway the inland waterway system is shut off from communication with Chicago and the great lakes.

Cites Navigation Needs.

"The Supreme court decree takes no consideration of navigation needs over the route," he declared. "United States army engineers have consistently urged diversion of from 5,000 to 10,000 feet a second for the lakes to the gulf waterway. Unless at least 5,000 feet are diverted, the waterway will be impracticable.

"It is not Illinois alone that is asking you to act favorably on this. It is the entire Mississippi valley."

Representative Dondero [R., Mich.] asked Horner if he thought it would be right for Canada to divert great lakes waters if there were a treaty between the two countries. Horner replied he didn't think any friendly nation would do that.

2 ENGINEERS BLAME FLUTTER FOR CRASH OF PLANE KILLING 10

Bozeman, Mont., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Two aircraft engineers testifying today before a federal board investigating the crash of a Northwest Airlines plane Jan. 10 agreed that flutter set up by vibration caused the accident which took ten lives. The engineers, James Gerschler, assistant chief engineer of the Lockheed company, builders of the plane, and K. O. Larson, chief engineer of Northwest Airlines, said the flutter caused a left vertical fin and rudder to leave the plane in flight before the ship crashed in flames.

ARIZONA'S RIGHT TO RULE PRESS BY TAX UPHELD

Way Opened for Control by Politicians.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A federal court of three judges today upheld the right of a state legislature to levy a gross receipts tax on the business of a newspaper—a power that has been charged could control and even destroy the press.

The judges overruled the contention of the Arizona Publishing company that a state law under which the tax commission sought to assess newspapers in Arizona was unconstitutional.

Officials of the company, which publishes the Arizona Republic and the Gazette in Phoenix, said the decision will be appealed to the United States Supreme court.

Must Pay Tax Monthly.

The statute levies a 1 per cent tax on gross incomes of newspapers. It provides that a newspaper cannot operate beyond the twentieth day of each month without paying the tax for the preceding month. A required license can be revoked if the tax is not paid.

At a hearing before the federal judges last November, Elisha Hanson, attorney for the American Newspaper Publishers' association, attacked the law on the freedom of the press issue. He told the tribunal that the newspapers were not attempting to escape the burden of taxation, but were defending the right of the people to a free press.

The attorney declared the severe conditions of the law would grant to the legislature, if the law is upheld, the power to control the press of the state, even to the point of destroying it. He said the privilege sales tax, such as the one in effect in this state, is a condition precedent to the publication of a newspaper. If it is valid, he said, the legislature can impose any other condition it desires.

Might Take Gross Income.

Hanson explained that the rate might be increased to the extent of confiscating the entire gross income of the press. The courts would have authority to review only the question of power, not the justice of the tax, in such an instance, he said.

The hearing was on an original petition of the Arizona Publishing company for an interlocutory injunction restraining the state tax commission from collecting the levy.

Judges who handed down the decision were Clifton Mathews of the San Francisco United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Federal Judge Dave W. Ling of Phoenix, and Federal Judge Albert W. Sames of Tucson.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

MEN'S CLOTHES

By CALEB

SOMETIMES it seems to us that men, so practical in many things, are a little impractical about their clothes.

For instance, a man's vest is not altogether practical. Despite the conscientious efforts of manufacturers and clothiers, it is our observation that many vests seem a little estranged from the pants they are supposed to overlap. No one would reason that vests are worn for comfort. It is probably only to satisfy tradition and for neatness' sake—or for the pockets!

At a high percentage of social functions, women are chilly and men are too warm. The more vigorous and robust animal, the male, needing less covering, is warmly clothed. The less active, more languid creature, the woman, needing more covering, is scantily clad. Like the weather, men talk about this, but do nothing about it.

Meanwhile, although we all wear what the clothing industry continues forevermore to make, our restiveness has brought about some changes and a small degree of increased comfort. The narrow calf-choking pant-legs of yesteryear seem gone forever. Fifteen years ago, a man going west to San Francisco with today's trousers on was dubbed "sailor."

Now, clothes are fuller, freer, and easier to wear. Even the vest has become a garment instead of a strait-jacket. Coats are skeleton-lined. Fabrics are softer. I remember an early full dress suit. The heavy coat with heavy satin lining would almost stand alone on its tails. Progress has been made away from such "wooden" clothes.

Soft shirts are good nowadays for almost all occasions. Thin, cool summer suits were once worn only in the south, while northern men, in infinite dignity, clung to medium weight woolens. Now anything goes up here, just so it's cool and can be kept neat.

Neatness! That is today's keynote. Therein is the greatest change in men's wear. If you want a good chuckle go back through news illustrations of a generation or two ago. Pictures of the city's leaders cutting ribbons to open bridges or leaning on umbrellas awaiting the arrival of a mustachioed president, look like a hard times party or a hobo convention. Today it's different. At least the baggy knees are gone, and wrinkled and misfitting coats.

In connection with such reforms as have come about, our Store for Men has played a leading part. One of the most important: we pioneered the drape model suit designed for comfort—and now almost universally worn.

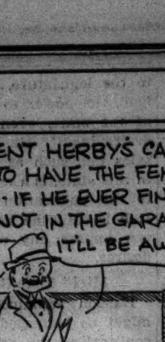
NAZIS TO BUILD GERMAN DETROIT; PLAN $400 AUTOS

Workers Will Get Aid in Buying Cars.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—To fulfil Reichsfuehrer Hitler's order for the manufacture of a cheap car which big groups of the German population can afford, the German Labor Front has started construction of a new model plant and workers' settlement in the sleepy little town of Freienwalde, about 40 miles north of Berlin. Nazis assert the town is destined to become the "Detroit of Germany."



Arrow points to location of Freienwalde.

Hitler ordered that the factory be built for annual manufacture of 450,000 cars costing under $400 each.

15,000 to Start Work.

The cornerstone of the factory will be laid during the next two weeks. The plant will begin operations with 15,000 workers, for whom special homes will be built. Their families are to join them soon, and plans are completed for the creation of a new model city for 60,000 persons, with its own postoffice, swimming pool, sports centers, and a tryout track for the new cars.

To provide the raw material needed for the cars, authorities curtailed the allotment of material for the plants manufacturing other types of small car.

Driving Lessons Planned.

Because the $400 price of the new low priced car is more than the average German citizen can afford, the Labor Front will start a special saving system for prospective owners who are members.

With the first down payment they will be entitled to take a course in driving to make them perfect drivers when finally they receive their cars.

Special plans are being worked out to enable persons with small incomes to finance the upkeep of their cars once they have made all the necessary sacrifices for the purchase.

Nazis to Print 'Honor Roll' in Drive for More Babies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—A free advertisment announcing the birth of the fourth, fifth, and all following children to a family was promised today to all families in Solingen, Prussia, Germany's famous steel manufacturing town. The names will be printed in a "roll of honor of big families for contributing to racial development," the newspaper Tageblatt said.

SON, 24, TO MEET MOTHER HE HASN'T SEEN SINCE AGE 3

Pocatello, Idaho, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A Pocatello grocery clerk, 24 years old, and a mother he does not remember seeing will meet here this week-end because of a hunch letter written to an Iowa sheriff.

"It's a feeling you can't describe," said Dale Yarnal, whose mother, Mrs. Jennie Rose of Oakland, Cal., sent him to an Omaha, Neb., children's home when he was 3 years old. Adopted by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Yarnal of Kearney, Neb., Dale learned in 1924 that he was not their own son. Years of writing to newspapers and magazines in an attempt to find his mother followed.

"I had a hunch recently and wrote the Humboldt county, Ia., sheriff about my mother," he said. "Mother was in Eagle Grove attending a sister's funeral and received the letter."

JUDGE DISAVOWS LENITY PLEDGE TO ACCUSED KILLERS

Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington in Criminal court yesterday warned three youths charged with murder that he would not be bound by any promises that may have been made to them should it become necessary to inflict the death penalty.

They are Russell Grant, 23 years old, who has made no plea; Jeffrey Gilleas, 17, who has pleaded guilty, and Joseph D. Suddeth, 18, who has pleaded guilty and waived a jury trial. They are alleged to have confessed the slaying of William Hendele, on Nov. 20, in his filling station at 6071 Wentworth avenue. Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle said he knew of no promises made to the youths. The case was continued to Feb. 8.

Joseph's Bat Is Enough Punishment; He's Freed

Charges of assault with a revolver and carrying a concealed weapon against Joseph Rainey, 35 years old, 4536 Sheridan road, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Eugene J. Holland in South State street court. Rainey was arrested Dec. 24 after he flourished a pistol in a tavern at 941 Wilson avenue. The tavern owner, George Gardner, a former light heavyweight boxing champion, and his bartender, Martin Connor, subdued Rainey with a baseball bat. The judge held he had been punished enough.

MAMMOTH CAVE SPLENDOR AWES TRAILER TOURIST

Four Hour Hike Just a Look-in.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mammoth Cave, Ky., Jan. 21.—Special.]—The Tribune trailer, hurrying homeward, was halted for what was to have been a quick glimpse underground. It developed into a four hour hike in a nether wonderland carved by chemistry through geological ages. And it still was only a glimpse.

Motorists in the southbound seasonal migration through these Kentucky knobs are impatient to reach a warmer climate and northbound are pressed for time to reach home before the end of vacations. They see a clutter of cheap roadside billboards competing for cave patronage.

Caves Known Throughout World.

In their hurry they pass by or over more grandeur for the eye and for the imagination than they will find at their destinations. These caves, within one long day's drive of Chicago, have an international reputation that has attracted appreciative travelers from abroad.

We entered the one natural entrance to Mammoth cave with a party, each of a half dozen men carrying a lantern. We saw where saltpetre was mined for gunpowder during the war of 1812. We went deeper, through passages with grotesque walls shaped by the dissolution of limestone by water before the geography of this region assumed its present form.

Domes 100 Feet High.

In a four mile walk on five subterranean levels we gazed into pits more than 100 feet deep up into domes more than 100 feet high, carved by rain water dripping through the roof of limestone.

The Mammoth cave management, with accounts audited by the national park service, reported that 83,339 persons entered this cave in 1937, a 30 per cent increase over 1936. They came from all states of the union and from twenty-eight foreign countries.

The limited trailer accommodations here are being expanded.

Fears Michigan May Pile Up Deficit of 10 Millions

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Harold D. Smith, state budget director, expressed fears today that Michigan may incur a deficit as great as 10 million dollars in the current fiscal year. Smith said revenues are shrinking while welfare needs are boosting operating expenses of the government daily. "We are in much worse financial condition than in the late fall," Smith said.

Life Saved When Coat Catches in Bridge Rail

Moline, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Archie Pitt, 25 years old of Moline, was walking across the bridge over the Rock river near here today when a truck knocked him over the railing. His coat caught in the railing and suspended him 75 feet above the river ice. Two state patrolmen who happened to be passing rescued him. He was taken to the Moline City hospital with both legs fractured.

3 MEN INJURED AS AUTO AND 3 TRUCKS CRASH

Three men were injured, one of them seriously, and thirty WPA workers were shaken in a series of collisions involving an automobile and thre trucks last night in Cicero avenue near the old Sauk trail, southwest of Chicago Heights. Driving south in Cicero avenue in a heavy fog, Hugo O. Wendling of Altamont, Ill., tried to pass a truck and crashed into another truck and trailer carrying lumber.

The trailer telescoped into the truck, pinning the driver, James Loudermilk of Lawrenceville, Ill., beneath the lumber. Loudermilk's helper, George Lyle, and Wendling were slightly injured.

Two trucks, each carrying fifteen WPA workers, were behind the trailer and as the first truck stopped, the second crashed into it, jolting the workers. They extricated Loudermilk after having to unload lumber for an hour, and took him to St. James hospital in Chicago Heights.

Jacob Jensen, 59 years old, 1007 North Parkside avenue, a tailor, died last night in the County hospital of injuries suffered Christmas night when he was struck by an automobile at Cicero and Wrightwood avenues. The driver was Donald Perry, 19 years old, 3109 North Keating avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 70 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 55 were killed in Chicago, where 894 were injured in the same period.

ASK DISBARMENT OF 2 LAWYERS IN RACKET INQUIRY

Bar Assn. Makes Report to Supreme Court.

The disbarment of two Chicago attorneys and the censuring of two others was recommended by the Chicago Bar association in reports filed yesterday with the Illinois Supreme court at Springfield.

The findings of the association were the result of an investigation begun three years ago by Federal Judge John P. Barnes after he became incensed at what was termed a racket by which attorneys and "procurers" were engaging in bankruptcy and receivership litigation in his court.

Former Judge Named.

The two lawyers recommended disbarred are:

Charles A. Williams, who was a judge of the Cook county Circuit court in 1921 and has practiced in Chicago since 1888. It was disclosed that Williams, on his own motion, was stricken from the roll of attorneys by the Supreme court last Dec. 7. He is not to be confused with Judge Charles A. Williams of the Superior court, to whom he is not related.

Walter V. Fackler, a practicing attorney since 1917, who engaged mostly in real estate reorganizations.

The recommendations for censure were made against:

Barratt O'Hara, who has been practicing since 1911 and was lieutenant governor of Illinois from 1913 to 1917.

Charles B. Haffenberg, who has been practicing since 1899.

The findings of the bar association were that Williams was guilty of extremely unprofessional conduct and that the actions of Fackler denoted a lack of good moral character. As to O'Hara, who is a director of the Circle of Rebuilders, an organization composed of the owners of defaulted real estate bonds, the association held he was guilty of unprofessional conduct and actions tending to bring the courts and the law profession into disrepute and contempt.

Haffenberg was reported to have assisted O'Hara and the Circle of Rebuilders and "used the organization for purposes of advertising and financial gain to himself, his conduct being unprofessional."

Based on Bankruptcy Cases.

The investigation into the activities of the attorneys was the aftermath of a hearing in September, 1935, before Judge Barnes on the reorganization of the Northwest Building corporation under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy laws. This broadened into a general inquiry into conduct of lawyers in these reorganization cases.

Judge Barnes requested that the conduct of thirteen attorneys be investigated. The hearings before members of the bar association grievance committee acting as commissioners of the State Supere court began Aug. 26, 1936, and were concluded Aug. 3, 1937. Complaints against six attorneys were dismissed and complaints against three others were placed on file, no recommendations being made.

Jones School Applications Exceed Capacity Five Times

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, announced yesterday that more than 2,500 applications for registration have been received at the new Jones Commercial High school, 615 Plymouth court, which will be opened Jan. 31. The capacity of the school is less than 450 pupils. The school will offer specialized courses in business training and office work.

SCHOOL BOARD ATTORNEY OPENS GAMBLING QUIZ

Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the board of education, began an investigation yesterday into coin machine gambling by public school pupils. Principals will be asked to determine whether owners of stores near their schools have converted candy and gum vending machines into gambling devices.

"If we find the practice widespread our only recourse is to ask the city authorities to act in the matter," Mr. Folsom said.

According to many complaints the machines lure from the children pennies given them for lunch and milk money and teach them their first lessons in gambling.

SPANISH REBELS OPEN NEW DRIVE TO TAKE TERUEL

Continue Bombing Raids on Eastern Coast.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The insurgent army drove down the banks of the Alfambra river toward Teruel today in a new offensive which insurgents said might decide the future course of Spain's civil war. Military advices from the front said Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel forces were staking everything on recapture of the city.

Large infantry, artillery, and airplane concentrations have been made for the battle, and Teruel was reported already under the fire of insurgent guns. The city is a strategic provincial capital of eastern Spain, and has been in government hands since Dec. 21 when it was wrested from the rebels in a surprise offensive.

Attack River Positions.

Insurgent advices said Franco's troops were cleaning up river positions north of Teruel where the government fighters had been strongly entrenched. Government counterattacks were reported repulsed by the insurgents at Pedrizas plateau. It was there that the rebels were reported to have consolidated their forces after routing government troops from the river strongholds.

The government acknowledged that fresh advances had been made by the insurgents, including complete occupation of El Muleton hill, west of Teruel. Government controled highways into Teruel were blasted continually by insurgent artillery.

47 Killed by Bombs.

BARCELONA, Jan. 22 [Saturday].—(AP)—A Spanish government communique said today forty-seven persons were killed by insurgent air raids in eastern Spain yesterday while government war planes bombarded Salamanca, insurgent capital, in reprisal.

[A dispatch from Salamanca said at least nine persons were killed and more than twenty wounded in the government attack, said to have been the worst the city had suffered in the eighteen month civil war.]

The loyalists' comunique said nearly nine tons of explosives and shrapnel were dropped on Salamanca by twenty large bombers.

The principal insurgent attacks were at Reus and Castellon on the east coast, where forty persons were reported killed, and at Cuenca, half way between Madrid and Valencia, where seven were killed and nineteen wounded. The insurgents also raided Prat, Moncat, and Hospitalet, near Barcelona, but the government reported there was little damage.

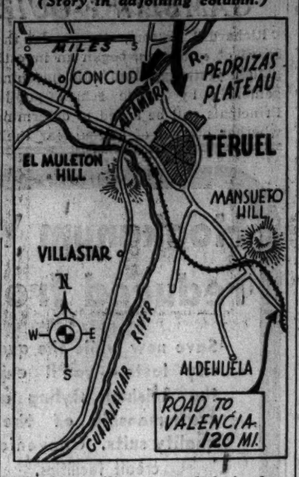
Several persons wounded in Wednesday's and Thursday's heavy raids on Barcelona died in hospitals, swelling the officially announced death toll of 138.

U. S. Crew Safe.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The crew of the Nantucket Chief, American tanker seized by Spanish insurgents, is safe, officials of the company operating the ship said today. Henry Schrieber, representing L. J. Walsh, an official of the Nantucket Gulf Steamship company, said a message from the company's New York office indicated the crew was "all right and would be released within two or three days." The Nantucket Chief was seized Tuesday near a loyalist port and taken to Palma, Mallorca.

Rebels Drive on Teruel

(Story in adjoining column.)



While artillery pounded the loyalist conquerors within Teruel, rebel troops drove down the Alfambra river yesterday in a new offensive designed to recapture that strategic city of eastern Spain. The insurgents reached the Pedrizas plateau northeast of the city and occupied El Muleton hill to the west. The map of Spain (below) indicates the approximate battle lines and the territory held by the government (lined portion) and the rebels.

BRITISH EYE U. S.; DROP PLAN FOR ETHIOPIAN DEAL

London Anxious Not to Displease Washington.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The steadfast refusal of the United States to recognize the Italian conquest of Ethiopia has made such an impression on the British government that it has dropped a plan to recognize Ethiopia as Italian territory in the hope that the United States will be properly impressed. This was disclosed today by diplomats.

A few months ago the British government was ready to recognize Italy's rule, but could not get public opinion to support it in the initial move. While waiting for some one else to make the first gesture before the league of nations, the situation changed.

The United States turned down Italian bids for recognition. The Italians showed renewed hostility toward England. The chief thing the British want right now is American support and American faith in Great Britain as a supporter of democracy and a champion against world bullies.

As a result Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and other British delegates will go to Geneva Tuesday for the meeting of the league of nations council with instructions to hold off on the question of recognition unless a refusal would make them appear hostile to Italy.

Italy's hostility to Great Britain was one of the most upsetting points made by Paul Van Zeeland, former Belgian premier, in a confidential report to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain on Jan. 6. The Italians are waging a radio propaganda war against England in the near east, which has annoyed the British considerably.

Belgium is expected to suggest recognition of Italy's conquest, with the support of several other governments. Unless most of those countries that count politically support Belgium, the British will not agree.

BURGLARS TAKE RARE COINS FROM HOME OF EX-PREMIER BALDWIN

STOURPORT, England, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Burglars entered Earl Baldwin's country home, Astley Hall, today and were reported to have stolen the former prime minister's valuable collection of old coins. Earl and Lady Baldwin were away, but their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Arthur Wyndham Baldwin, and her baby son were in the house. The younger Mrs. Baldwin was Elspeth Tomes, daughter of the late C. A. Tomes, New York banker, before her marriage in 1936.

WILLIAM WAITS IN VAIN FOR MA AND HER DOUGH

William Carroll missed the help of his mother, Mrs. Julia Reilly, and her pan of bread dough in court yesterday, when Judge Charles A. Williams sentenced him to the county jail for six months for contempt of court.

His ex-wife, Mrs. Eileen Carroll, 4203 Washington boulevard, told the judge Carroll hadn't paid a dime since last May when he escaped a jail term by fast talking and a promise to support her and their daughter, Mary Eileen.

When a deputy sherif sought to arrest him at his mother's home, 4451 Jackson boulevard, at that time, Mrs. Reilly, a silvery haired woman, dumped a pan of dough over the deputy, delaying her son's court appearance three days.

Two Army Flyers Killed; Plane Crashes and Burns

Fayetteville, N. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Two army flyers were killed near here today when their plane crashed and burned. The victims were Lieut. Lewis E. Countway, Quincy, Mass., and Lieut. Earle T. McArthur, Paris, Tex. Both were stationed at Fort Bragg. Although there were no witnesses to the accident, McArthur was believed to have been the pilot.

IL DUCE BOASTS OF PERFORMANCE OF ARMY IN SPAIN

MILAN, Italy, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia, said today the performance of Italian troops in the capture of Santander, Spain, last August was the answer to those doubting military qualities of the Italian people.

The editorial, which was said to have been written by Il Duce himself, referred to an article by Gen. Maurice Duval of France in the Revue de Paris crediting Italians with having played the main rôle in the capture of Santander from Spanish government troops.

"This explicit recognition of the part played by the Italian command and legionnaires in the battle of Santander is important and worth consideration by friends and enemies who recently have been caviling over military qualities of the Italian people," Il Popolo D'Italia said. "Friends and enemies, we say to you—and the history of the past 25 years confirms it—that these qualities are of the highest order, and perchance you may come to find it out."

CANDY FAMILIES MELT BARS TO A HAPPY MARRIAGE

Judge Harry M. Fisher learned yesterday that Louis J. Phillips, son of a Cicero candy manufacturer, and his secret bride, the former Clara Pavlios, had been reunited and were prepared to live happily ever after. Family peace was established at a gathering Thursday night. Accordingly Phillips' attorney, Ernest Lambesis, dismissed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Phillips alleged that his father-in-law, Sam Pavlios, also a candy manufacturer, held Clara a prisoner after learning she had married Phillips on Nov 7, 1936. The young couple will make their home with Pavlios at 2212 South 52d avenue, Cicero.

TOKIO ANGERED AS SOVIETS JAIL 24 MORE JAPS

Nippon Charges Campaign of Persecution.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 21.—The Japanese government, disturbed by the alleged persecution of Japanese subjects by soviet Russia, was angered further today by revelations of new detentions.

The Japanese foreign office issued a statement in which it was alleged more Japanese subjects had been seized and unlawfully detained in North Sakhalin Island and in Vladivostok.

Lists 24 Japs Held.

Five members of the staf of the North Sakhalin Oil company, eight members of the North Sakhalin Mining company, eight residents of Vladivostok, and three other Japanese are being unlawfully detained, it was charged.

"Several of these Japanese have been sentenced to three years' imprisonment for alleged infractions which cannot possibly be proved against them," the statement said. "They are victims of a soviet policy which seeks to suppress Japanese enterprises in soviet territory."

The foreign office frequently has called attention of the Moscow government to such arrests and demanded the release of the Japanese, but without avail. It was pointed out that the soviet government some time ago notified Japanese officials formally of its intention to expel eight Japanese, but has not acted yet.

Sees "Ulterior Motive."

It seems that the soviets are holding these eight Japanese in retaliation for the Japanese detention of soviet vessels for venturing into a closed port in Japanese territorial waters," the statement said. "Six GPU [soviet secret police] agents and arms and ammunition were found aboard."

The statement cited the case of a Japanese who had been examined over a period of two months for trespassing across the soviet border. He was then sentenced to three years in prison.

"Such actions can only be construed as prompted by some ulterior motive," the statement concluded.

Japs Send Up More Troops.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 22 [Saturday].—(AP)—Twenty thousand Japanese cavalrymen and artillerymen were reported today to be moving up to the lower Shantung province front to bolster an offensive virtually stalled by sleet, snow, and Chinese resistance.

Chinese sources said the reinforcements were taken from the Peiping-Hankow railway and the Shansi province fronts to augment the army of 60,000 that had been trying for days to smash through to the Lunghai railway across central China.

From north and south Japanese arrayed on two weather-harassed fronts, 170 miles apart, fought to effect a junction at Suchow, northwestern Kiangsu province, where the Lunghai crosses the north-south Tientsin-Pukow railway. About 400,000 Chinese soldiers confronted the Japanese.

Chinese Drive Slowed Up.

Chinese advices said the Chinese counteroffensive aimed at Wuhu, on the Yangtze river 60 miles southwest of Nanking, had been slowed up by "superior Japanese artillery."

On a fourth front the Japanese reported they were "liquidating" a Chinese threat to recapture Hangchow, 125 miles southwest of Shanghai. The Chinese forces were said to be falling back to the west.

It was reported that Lieut. Gen. Kenji Doihara, political undercover man for the Japanese army, had set up headquarters in Shanghai to put "acceptable" northern Chinese in civil control of the captured Shanghai and Nanking areas.

Japs Seize Relief Committee.

Japanese authorities at Nanking took over the activities of the international relief committee. The organization, composed of American missionaries and German business men, was characterized by a Japanese spokesman as "really a semi-official Chinese government organ." It had been caring for 250,000 refugees.

What the Japanese termed an "autonomous commission" took over the administration of Mokanshan, a mountain resort about 20 miles northwest of Hangchow. The situation there was similar to the local "self-government" committee set up to rehabilitate Soochow, 50 miles west of Shanghai.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A father and daughter were happily reunited today after a lapse of twenty years. Charles F. Williams noticed the name of his wife's brother in an Omaha, Neb., telephone directory and traced his daughter, now Mrs. Margaret Williams Dunne, from whom he had been separated since the daughter was 18 months old. Mrs. Dunne had believed that her father was dead.

ASSAIL REPRIEVE FOR WOMAN AND HIRED ASSASSIN

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The week's reprieve granted by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle to Mrs. Marie Porter and Angelo Ralph Giancola, convicted slayers of William Kappen, Mrs. Porter's brother, was called unjustified today by Louis P. Zerweck, state's attorney.

Saying he is positive there can be no new evidence, Zerweck pointed out that Giancola has admitted his guilt. Judge Dick Mudge, who presided at the trial from Nov. 1 to Nov. 5, describes Mrs. Porter as more guilty than Giancola or his younger brother, John, now serving a 99 year sentence.

Harold Bandy, attorney for the Giancola boys, was reported to be in Chicago today. He says he will try all possible methods of keeping his client from the electric chair Jan. 28. Edward Bareis, attorney for Mrs. Porter, said he knows of no new evidence to present in a request for leniency.

BOMBING OF JAP SHIP PREVENTED BY WET POWDER

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—A bomb containing enough explosives to blow up two ships was found today under the Great Northern dock near the Japanese liner Hiye Maru. Water had prevented the bomb from exploding.

Police said a suitcase they pulled from the water was filled with 200 sticks of dynamite, 28 fuses, and a mechanical device for setting it off. The timer was set for the blast at 1:30 a. m. yesterday.

Investigators said that George Partridge, 22 years old, had reported to them that his companion, Ralph M. Forsyth, planned to explode the bomb beside the Japanese liner at that hour. Forsyth drowned.

Jap Labor Bans Celebration of May 1 Because It's 'Red'

TOKIO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Japanese labor, swinging far to the right under the influence of wartime patriotism, announced today it would stop celebrating May 1, the international labor holiday, because of its connection with soviet Russia. Instead, said the All-Japan Federation of Labor, Feb. 11, anniversary of the legendary foundation of the empire by Jimmu Tenno in 660 B. C., will become labor's holiday as well as the national holiday—Japan's 4th of July.

Rear Admiral Le Breton New Yangtze Patrol Head

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The navy shifted Rear Admiral David McD. Le Breton to the command of the Yangtze patrol today, succeeding Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart. Admiral Marquart, who was in command of the China river squadron when the gunboat Panay was sunk in December, will take advanced instruction at the naval war college at Newport, R. I. The transfer, described by the navy department as routine, is scheduled for early March.

Ernest Lindberg, 55 years old, 3024 Seminary avenue, collapsed of a heart attack as he was walking in front of 515 North Clark street yesterday morning and died a few minutes later.

POLES BAN PANAY PICTURES; FEAR TO OFFEND JAPAN

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 21.—Films showing the sinking of the United States gunboat Panay by Japanese airplanes were forbidden by the censor today on the ground they might raise unfriendly sentiment against a friendly nation. The Gazeta Polska expressed the official Polish view on the far eastern conflict when it said that a victory for the Chinese "popular front" government of communists and the Kuomintang [Nationalist party] would constitute a far greater danger for western powers than Japanese rule in China.

GOES SOUTH WITH $150.

THE ROAD TO RUIN.

Whenever the self-sustaining, economically competent, and independent people of a country, the people with a stake in it, have lost political independence and political responsibility, some destructive result has followed.

Here in the United States the people without whom a free, representative democracy and a government serving it cannot exist are growing weaker politically. It is consequently harder for them to maintain themselves, and along with themselves the administration of their public affairs. If it is to be conceived as a probability or even a possibility that they can be destroyed, then extreme revolutionary consequences must be taken for granted.

If conditions are to be created in which it is improbable that a great majority of the population can rely upon their own ability to work and support themselves and a government by their own labor, the end of the American social and political order as we have known it must be conceded as an inevitable consequence. Such conditions naturally would be created if these people cannot maintain a government considerate of them, if they must submit to governmental processes which take from them their ability to sustain themselves and which constantly increase the number of people who look to government for their sustenance and means of livelihood.

It is no doubt unfortunate that some Americans have come to think of Fascism and communism as bogey words used to distract attention and confuse thought rather than to describe in definite terms the product of certain forces when they have gained control. Fascism, for instance, is not a malignancy which sprang out of the designs of a single man. Mussolini did not just pop out of the Adriatic nor was Hitler washed up by the Rhine.

Forces had been at work in both Italy and Germany to break down the self-reliance of the only part of the population which could have preserved such liberties as were enjoyed or promoted such as might have been in prospect. When self-reliance had been turned to impoverishment and when courage had been dissolved in despair, the way was open for the boldest adventurer, the most flaming firebrand to take command, and when that was done the fate of the land was determined for more generations than any one can foresee.

Revolutionary France has had many experiences in which it almost destroyed the recuperative ability of its self-sustaining people, and at the present moment France is shaken by events which make these same people doubtful of their ability to weather the storms.

The politically important people now are the people who expect subsidies, grants and doles. The people who must provide the money for the subsidies, grants and doles steadily lose representation in their government. The attacks upon them are in waves of military rushes. They lose heart as they lose ground politically.

If they are beaten down by force and pinned down by taxation, destroyed as self-reliant and self-sustaining people, an inferior, a brutalized social and political order will take the place of the American system. There will be no avoiding it. It then must come.

AND HAPPILY EVER AFTERWARDS.

The king and the princess were married in Cairo the other day and, the event being the first regal affair of a truly romantic nature since the Great Crisis in Great Britain, it was good for page one. The youth of young Farouk of Egypt and the Circassian beauty of his still younger princess, Farida, were in themselves the proper warant for setting all Egypt ablaze and making the first page in occidental countries where the previous impression might have been that the king of Egypt was some admiral of the British navy.

From the pictures of the young queen it is to be seen that, as was true of Cleopatra, her nose is not longer and, therefore, its effect upon the world has yet to be seen. Egypt's polyglot populace of many creeds and races has found an occasion, at least temporary, for manifestations of loyalty to the throne, and if the populace comes out of its celebrations feeling next month the way it felt last week, Egypt may increase its importance in the troubled scene of the world in which there is the spectral resemblance of a Roman empire [Mex.] even if it cannot be conceded a first-rate and wholly valid Cæsar.

Occidental readers, for the first time learning how a Moslem wedding is conducted even in modern days, will take notice that not only was the bride not present at the ceremony but that the groom might be said to have married his father-in-law. At least the pledge of love and fidelity was given in the ritual when the bridegroom clasped the hand of his bride's father, both turning their thumbs upward and pressing them together.

What the thumbs up may mean in the Moslem ceremony was not explained, but the occidental will recognize in the wedding of the groom to his in-laws a significance which may cause him to brood. All he could say would be that he hoped it would be an auspicious omen of an event which has a great deal of reality. In the Moslem it is apparently considered unnecessary that the groom should also go through a ceremony with a judge who might later soak him for separate maintenance.

In this country that might not be regarded as an undue peering into the future. The lady reformists of Egypt are said to be dismayed that the beautiful and modern young bride could not when she finally appeared in the picture discard the veil but was compelled, possibly against the inclinations of herself and husband, to yield to the Moslem traditions. In Turkey the great reformer, Kemal Pasha, has been able to fly against the winds of tradition, but it is not without significance that his name is Ataturk.

HOW TO DEAL WITH CRIMES.

With the clearing up of the Ross kidnaping and murder J. Edgar Hoover and his G-men have scored another marked success. It is to be hoped it will contribute to the public safety. If it is followed by prompt prosecution, conviction, and severe punishment of the criminal and any accomplices he may have had, it ought to discourage criminal enterprise in this line. Its effect will be in proportion to the advertisment given the crime and its solution by the press, a fact which we commend to the attention of well meaning citizens who criticize newspapers for giving so much publicity to crime. The war on crime would be hopeless without the help of publicity and plenty of it.

An equally important inference from Mr. Hoover's success in this and other cases is that where there is a determined and persistent effort to clear up a crime it will almost always succeed. With regard to kidnaping this is especially true, for kidnaping is a crime which requires preparation and complicity. It is complicated and therefore it is open to various approaches and likely to break at one point or another. We have said repeatedly that if a kidnaping is not cleared up it is because there is something wrong with the police or other authorities. If there is a real will to discover and punish, it will prevail. But too often even where there is no influence checking thorough and competent handling, effort relaxes after pressure of public interest fades out. The G-men are not more competent than police in many communities are. But they keep going until they finish the job.

It is an immense aid to successful police work to acquire the reputation of "getting your man." It is an immense aid to respect for law and discouragement of crime to establish through competent and faithful enforcement as near a certainty of punishment as honest and energetic administration can produce. There are very few, if any, crimes that cannot be cleared and punished where there is real and persistent effort to do so.

EXPORT GRAIN REVIVES.

Following substantial advances in commodity prices and the resumption of international trade that occurred during the year 1936, the charter cost of ocean tramp vessels advanced to a point almost comparable with war years. Ocean shipping became profitable all over the world, and the price of shipbuilding moved sharply upward. Following the collapse of business in the 1937 recession, ocean rates receded.

Within the last month, however, there has been a noticeable stiffening in charter quotations. In searching for causes it has been discovered that the demand for tramps to load corn at Gulf of Mexico ports for European destinations has been a definite factor. Not in ten years has there been so much grain activity at these southern ports.

Logically, this should be cause for alarm in administration circles. The "ever normal granary" is apparently overflowing, and the crime of "shipping American fertility abroad" is again rampant, or at least beyond control of those who would woo prosperity through scarcity. Nevertheless, the thousands of men who will have been reemployed along shore, in the elevators and by the various transportation companies that reach the gulf ports, can hardly be expected to find cause for alarm or to recognize anything criminal in selling American products to foreigners who may wish to buy.

MOONLIGHT IN THE GARDEN.

The English have long been fond of the small garden. The fairly well to do fellow, when he possessed the premises he wanted, had a walled inclosure with a garden in which he and his wife could raise chiefly, it would seem, jokes for Punch. It would be hard to say what Punch would grieve most to lose, the small garden and its cultivators, the retired colonel, the Nile guide, the middle aged golfer, the family type burglar, or the village octogenarian.

The small garden now has new uses and new value. Noel Carrington, a soldier who learned about air raids and gas in Flanders, offers suggestions to the householder with a tillable back yard. He writes for the London Spectator an article called "Design for Air Raids," suggesting that the domestic dugout or bolt-hole which could be reached in three jumps is as simple of construction as the garden pool or rock garden. Corrugated iron with a few inches of turf would be sufficient for anything but a direct hit. There could be concrete walls and, as he says, "heat and light with electricity are refinements which might be appreciated by any one."

The gardener could work out his own individual ideas in the natural neighborhood competition with his fellow gardeners. Many neat designs of the rock garden variety could decorate the bolt-hole. The suburban dweller has many advantages over the person in the more concentrated metropolitan areas and his problem is much simpler.

Editorial of the Day

"CARELESS STANDERS."

[Providence (R. I.) Bulletin.]

In Sweden two women of Kariskrona have been fined for "careless standing." There they were right in the middle of the street gossiping as only women can when they've got hold of a good subject. And along came a telegraph boy blithely riding, as only telegraph boys can, and bowled them over.

There was great interest in the case throughout Kariskrona; for apparently this wasn't the first time that good gossips, not to say careless standers, had got in the way of trafic. The courtroom was filled when the case came up, and every one in the room, except the two gossips, was delighted when the judge fined them $1.25 each. The cup of joy ran over when the judge also fined the telegraph boy for riding too fast.

The Swedes take a much more simple path to justice than we do. This case, for example. There's something plain and direct about fining gossips and young Cossacks on bicycles. Looked at with more profound regard there seems to be an element not only of Swedish but of abstract justice in a collision between these two dangerous elements of society.

AMERICANA.

It is noon in the busy suburb of Aurora. We follow the crowds around the corner from Main street to the little bakery. No painting of Pilsudski adorns the walls. No orchestra is playing European melodies. No waitresses in peasant costume. No beef à la Cracow, no smörgasbord, no chicken Dubonnet, no green spaghetti.

The knotty pine walls, the copper sconces, the Martha Washington curtains, the curvex mirror decorated with the American eagle and the thirteen stars put the luncheon guests in the mood for Virginia ham, Boston brown bread, chicken, southern pecan pie, Wisconsin cheese and crackers and coffee.

We see no David Beckers, George Melville Smiths, or Vogelgesangs grouped about the colonial pine table. But we have the Fox street dentist, snowy-haired and immaculate; the bank stenographer, in pussy willow wool; a group of Aurora college students, and the black-eyed beauty from the local millinery shop. In the pine paneled booth we see the two high school boys who count their pocket money before consulting the menu; Edna, the society editor of our local paper, with her friends; the Robert Taylorish boy from the haberdashery across the street; the druggist, the pediatrician, the beauty operator, and the middle aged business woman eating with her school-age children.

Main Street Americans lunching in a truly American atmosphere. The college students speak of Ogden Nash and Dorothy Parker and Dale Carnegie. The bank stenographer renews her Cupid's bow after sipping her coffee. . . . The eagle looks down, from his perch on the mirror, at the snowy-haired dentist reading "This Troubled World," and the thirteen stars seem to twinkle on the pretty school teacher as she reads "I Dare You" and smokes an American cigaret.

IN MEMORIAM.

Who remembers Ring Lardner's remark when he first saw the Grand Canyon? "What a wonderful place to throw razor blades!" Last week we visited the big hole. Thick fog filled it from rim to rim. We waited a day, but still thicker fog! The evening before departure I stepped to the edge and with a prayer of "you know me, Al," I threw four old blades into the Stygian gloom. I never saw the canyon, but felt that I had honored the memory of old Ring.

A PIECE MIGHT BE WRITTEN about the enchanting Chinese pageant given at International House last night for the benefit of Chinese war refugees. Lovely Chinese girls in historic robes swayed like young willow trees in a dance in which they gracefully manipulated long white sleeves that hung to the floor; and an ancient Chinese love tale of a beauty at the emperor's court was enacted. But we went away from the pageant remembering that a Japanese student living at International House had helped the Chinese students address the announcements of the affair that had gone out earlier in the week. And the Chinese had graciously accepted his aid.

LOOK FOR INFECTION IN CROUPY CHILDREN.

WHEN a child awakens in the night breathing loudly and harshly, the situation is alarming, especially if the disturbance is increasing rapidly. Obviously some obstruction must be present in the larynx—either an acute swelling which shuts off air or a fast growing membrane, such as may come from diphtheria.

This disorder is called croup, or catarrhal laryngitis, and many boys and girls who are routinely subject to colds and acute infections are susceptible, particularly during the winter months. After about the age of 5 the condition disappears. The attacks generally come at night and after recovery the victim is perfectly well—as a rule—although a slight cough or hoarseness may persist the next day. But the following night the same episode may be repeated and the essential thing then is to look for the cause promptly.

Even physicians are hard pressed at times in distinguishing a catarrhal laryngitis from that which is occasioned by diphtheria. We must recall that years ago this latter disease was called the "choker," because of the characteristic sign—inability to obtain air—and in 1662 the general assembly of Connecticut declared a day of thanksgiving for deliverance from an epidemic of cyanche trachealis—which was laryngeal diphtheria.

The typical case of croup may be recognized when a terrified child awakens gasping for breath. The face becomes congested and unless the difficulty is remedied immediately the skin assumes a marked bluish shade because too little air is able to reach the lungs. If the struggle becomes aggravated the sufferer may become unconscious, whereupon the spasm relaxes and the breathing quickly returns to normal. But one seizure does not mean freedom from another and if relief is not afforded the incident may recur within an hour.

If diphtheria is responsible, the onset is much more gradual and the element of straining is usually absent. This means that in every instance careful examination of the throat must be made and if whitish or grayish patches are observed on the mucous membrance no loss of time should be brooked before antitoxin is given. Sometimes the disease is present even though no growth can be seen. Most cases, however, will be catarrhal in character in view of the present day widespread immunization against diphtheria through the use of toxoid.

With the spasmodic type—croup—the child should be plunged into a hot bath. This may contain a tablespoonful or two of ground mustard. Lacking the bath, a towel wrung out of hot water may be wrapped about the throat and the upper chest. In the meantime the air of the room should be filled with moisture and the youngster induced to inhale steam from a croup kettle. Tincture of benzoin compound may be added to the boiling water. Most of these attacks will cease rather abruptly if the youngster can be made to vomit, and for this purpose sirup of ipecac or a half teaspoonful of ground mustard stirred into a half glass of warm water may be employed.

Then comes the question—how can repetition be avoided? Search must be made for a possible focus of infection. Perhaps tonsils or adenoids are at fault and if they are removed few effects of this sort will be seen. The offending cold should be guarded against and the body reserves raised by appropriate vitamin feeding.

Another malady which may give rise to similar symptoms is known as tetany. This occurs because of imperfect absorption of calcium. The parathyroid glands may be secreting insufficient hormone or there may be too little lime in the diet. Lack of vitamin D is another important factor. Here the cure is dietary with the giving of acid producing salts such as ammonium chloride or calcium chloride. But this trouble may be diagnosed easily, because the patient probably will have exhibited earlier muscular twitchings and contractions which come on spontaneously. For example, the hand at times will become stiff with rigid fingers.

Nine cases of croup out of ten, however, will be catarrhal in origin and the treatment outlined above will prove effective.

ONE AMONG THOUSANDS.

B. F. writes: I read with great interest your article on chronic alcoholism. I am 72 years old and drank only occasionally until past 50, and not to excess until 60. I gradually reached the point where I could consume a pint daily between 5 and 8 p. m. I was and still am in business. One afternoon in the early spring of 1935 I decided that I would quit the habit and I have not touched a drop since. I have not had the slightest inclination or desire for a drink since I stopped. I have no difficulty mingling with friends who indulge. Don't you think this is a remarkable experience?

REPLY.

You are one among thousands in being able to break off the use of liquor so abruptly. I take my hat off to you. In my opinion, the explanation lies in the fact that your nervous system was well matured before you began to use alcohol. In other words, the craving which you were able to combat so successfully was not as desperate as it would have been had you consumed a pint a day beginning about the age of 25. In my experience, those who drink excessively as young men encounter the greatest difficulty when it comes to cure.

IT'S ALSO HAY FEVER.

C. R. writes:

1. What is vasomotor rhinitis?
2. What is its cause?
3. What, in general, is the treatment suggested?
4. Is it communicable?

REPLY.

1. Vasomotor rhinitis is hay fever.
2. The condition usually is attributed to a state of hypersensitiveness to proteins. Over one-half of the hay fever patients show sensitivity to more than one substance.
3. Avoidance of the offending substance by change of environment, or immunization by injections of extracts of this substance. The offender can frequently be ascertained by scratch tests on the skin.
4. No!

LEAFLET ON DEMENTIA PRECOX.

F. D. writes: I have noticed several times that you say the main symptom of dementia precox is separation of the emotional from the intellectual. That seems to call for an explanation. It should be quite interesting. What is meant?

REPLY.

Dementia precox is characterized by the patient's withdrawing from reality [as experienced by the intellect] in the direction of fantasy and day dreaming [emotional desire]. The individual refuses to face real life, shuts his mind to an understanding of his difficulties, and loses himself in emotional states. We have a leaflet explaining this disorder more thoroughly. Send a stamped, addressed envelope if you wish this.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY W. A. O'CARROLL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia—Having determined that speed was the major cause of the mounting list of motor car accidents and fatalities and that there were on the highways of New South Wales "far too many eighty mile per hour cars in the hands of forty mile per hour drivers," Lieut. Col. M. F. Bruxner, state deputy premier and minister of transport, has had parliament amend the motor trafic act.

The new law provides a speed limit of thirty miles an hour in built up areas and fifty miles an hour in areas not densely populated. In the latter case a driver will be guilty of an offense if he exceeds the thirty mile an hour limit, should he become involved in an accident, unless he can prove that the speed at which he was driving was not dangerous to the public.

Regulations are included in the measure to empower the fixing of governors to cars to prevent them from exceeding the speed limit in cases where the drivers have been convicted of a trafic offense serious enough to disqualify them from holding a license.

The bill provides that a person who drives under the influence of liquor or a drug, or who fails to stop after an accident, will be liable to a fine not exceeding $500 or twelve months' imprisonment, or both.

A driver convicted of any offense or of driving dangerously or recklessly, on his first conviction shall be disqualified from holding a license, and for a second offense within five years shall be disqualified from holding a license for three years or longer.

Cars will be compelled to stop before entering a main road from the side streets. The use of electric trafic signals will be extended.

Until recently pedestrians and motorists alike have been allowed great freedom in Sydney, and the accident toll so alarmed the government that it created a safety road council to cooperate with the transport department and the police. Country towns appointed vigilance committees. The most difficult problem will be to apply discipline to a people hard to discipline.

ESTATE PROPERTY.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am trying to aid closing an estate for friends. My friend died in January, 1937, leaving five grown children a forty acre tract of land appraised at $2,200 and no other property. She died intestate and the will was probated Jan. 1, 1938. Her oldest daughter died intestate in October, 1937, leaving a daughter of age 22 and a son aged 20. The daughter was appointed administratrix in December. The first son has paid all the debts of his mother's estate and now wants to buy his dead sister's share of his mother's estate.

1. Who should be approached in regard to the purchase.
2. Would this be a deed, or a contract, or what if he buys?
3. How soon may he act?
4. Has the daughter, his sister, the right to dispose of her mother's share in the first estate at present?
5. If not, when could she do so?
6. Can she act before her brother is of age, or must each sell his or her own share? These estates are in Wisconsin. M. P.

1. The heirs of the dead sister.
2. Property can be purchased under a time contract or by an immediate deed, depending on how the parties wish to handle the matter.
3. Depends on whether he is willing to accept the title as it now is.
4. She has a right to execute a quitclaim deed. It is for the grantee to say whether he is satisfied to take the title before the expiration of the period for filing claims. The grantee might insist on a bond against claims.
5. See preceding answers.
6. If the deceased sister left a minor heir, then it would not be practicable to convey a salable title to her real estate without special court proceedings.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DILAPIDATED, BUT STRUCTURALLY SAFE.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—Please advise what action can be taken in compelling the wrecking of a very dangerous building located next door to our property. The children are in the habit of playing in this building and removing parts from time to time, and there is no doubt that any day this building may crash and result in a very serious accident. I have made numerous attempts to have this structure razed, but it does not seem I can get any cooperation. Any assistance given now might help in saving some lives in the future. J. D.

Our inspector reports this building is in a dilapidated condition, but structurally safe at this time. The owner has been notified to make the necessary repairs or wreck the building. In the meantime the police department has been requested to watch the building to keep out vandals and the street department has barricaded the public walks around the building.

RICHARD E. SCHMIDT,
Commissioner of Buildings.

WORDING OF WILL.

Cicero, Ill., Jan. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me [1] whether a last will should be sealed or not and also when a mother makes a will [2] whether it is necessary to state in the will that one of the daughters owes her some money. She wishes to divide her property [3] equally among her daughters and doesn't know whether she should mention the debt in it or not. M. A.

1. It is not necessary under Illinois law.
2. If the debt is not mentioned the question whether it will be deducted from the debtor's share depends on whether the executor is able to prove the debt. Mentioning it in a will would help to relieve this uncertainty.
3. It is not clear whether by "equally" you mean to include or exclude the debt.

WHY CONFIDENCE IS LACKING.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 17.—In today's issue you list, in an editorial titled "Consultation in Washington," four of the fundamental causes of our present recession. While you properly qualify this list with the statement that it is not complete, it seems to me that there is one additional basic cause that is left out of nearly every similar list I have seen advanced, and that it is by far the most important of all.

I refer to the almost complete lack of integrity evinced by our national administration and the individuals composing it.

Starting with the platform on which the President was elected in 1932, and his deliberate repudiation of its every major provision as soon as he was elected—so prompt and complete as to lead inevitably to the conclusion that his decision antedated his election—you will find, upon examining the record, that this act of insincerity has been followed by others of similar character to such an extent that thinking men and women, especially those of the business world who have been trained to make analyses of motives and acts, no longer have any faith in anything that is said by the head of the nation or by the Charlie McCarthys through whom their master's voice reaches us.

Not until our national leadership returns to the principles of honor on which public and private integrity have always been established will we regain that degree of confidence on which alone national and private security can be attained.

That may be a philosophy of the horse and buggy days, but it is the only one on which sure progress has ever been gained.

O. G. T.

HE DIDN'T PAY HIS SALES TAX, AND WHY.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I wonder if the people know that in the tavern business we cannot collect the sales tax; that beer and liquors are taxed by the state and federal government already; yet we have to pay sales tax on top of it out of our own pockets. We happen to be one of the so-called tax chiselers. My husband got six months for owing $1,600 in sales tax. All I can do now is close up and go with my help on relief. Why don't the news reporters go around to the small taverns and find out the truth about that sales tax scandal? Most of the tavern owners worry from one year to the next how to get the license money together. WIFE OF A TAVERNKEEPER.

CAN'T SAY.

Moline, Ill., Jan. 9.—Is the Wallace of the department of agriculture, who said last week, "It doesn't do either labor or agriculture any good to scare capital; instead they must all find ways to work together"—is he by any chance the same Wallace who said to a Muncie audience in 1933: "Do you want to return to the vomit of capitalism?"—or is it another fellow by the same name? H. W. G.

ALL FOR THE BEST.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—What on earth is the matter with your paper, slamming the President as it does? Haven't we had the best Christmas and New Year's since the depression? Who is responsible for this? Roosevelt. The trouble with some people is when they get a dollar they holler for five. They can't remember when they couldn't get a nickel.

ELEANOR HEDEN.

TRAILER TRAVEL.

Alma, Mich., Jan. 17.—My attention has been called to an editorial in a recent issue of your paper under the title of "Trailer Travel."

As president of the Trailer Coach Manufacturers' association let me congratulate you on the very able manner in which the subject has been handled and the fairness of your attitude. As you know, the trailer industry and the use of trailers is very new, and like all new industries requires development based on experience. Mistakes have to be corrected. Our business is going through a process of development and elimination, and I give you my assurance that all trailer manufacturers are working to this end.

Trailers built by capable trailer factories are properly built and 95 per cent of them are equipped with electric or vacuum brakes. In fact, we make only one model that does not carry brakes as standard equipment, and this model is not sent into any territory where state laws require brakes on a trailer.

As regards width, practically every state allows 8 feet for a vehicle traveling the highways. Our particular line of trailers are 6 feet 9 inches wide, and I believe they are as wide as any other manufacturer is making. True, most trucks and buses are 8 feet 7 inches wide, but not so with trailers.

The weaving motion you mention, in the parlance of the trailer manufacturers, is called side sway, and is produced by defective engineering. With the undercarriage placed properly and the wheels in perfect alignment, there is no necessity for side sway. Of course, there are a good many homemade trailers on the market, and I believe that most of the trailers that experience this defect are from that source.

As regards sanitary camps you are absolutely right and the answer to this problem is the establishment of proper trailer camps. Our association gives encouragement and assistance wherever possible to the building and development of proper camps for trailers, and as the business grows and demand increases the want will be supplied in the same way as other necessities have been supplied by normal demand.

I can assure you that there is no possibility of trailers degenerating into portable shanties. When you look at the product of any good trailer company today and compare it with trailers on the road a few years ago you will readily appreciate that the trend and quality is upward in a very marked degree.

We have been more or less upset over the legislation in Chicago looking to the elimination of the trailer in your city. We believe that ordinances are necessary for protecting the rights and comforts of the residents of any city. However, in establishing these rights we feel that some cities have produced ordinances that are too drastic. The use of trailers is here to stay. We are sure the situation can be met with fairness to the user and fairness to the city.

FRANK H. JOYCE,
President, Trailer Coach Manufacturers' Association.

FRANCE CALLS POLITICAL TRUCE; FEARS WAR SCARE

Moderate Cabinet Wins Big Confidence Vote.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 21.—The almost miraculous way in which fear of grave European events has healed internal strife in France was illustrated today when the Radical Socialist [moderate] cabinet of Premier Camille Chautemps received an almost unanimous vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies on the same program that caused the collapse of his earlier Popular Front government. The Popular Front government, composed of Radical Socialists, Socialists, and communists, resigned last Friday.

Five hundred and two deputies of all parties from the communists to the conservatives voted for the government on the strength of Chautemps' ministerial declaration. Only one deputy, Gaston Bergery, a leftist independent, voted against it. Only the extreme right wings, including out and out Fascists and royalists, abstained from voting, and even there party discipline was broken by numerous individuals.

Reassures Business and Labor.

Very few premiers, such as Raymond Poincare, and then only in hours of grave crisis, have ever received such a majority in the chamber. Yet, on the surface, Chautemps' cabinet is one of the weakest that ever dared to appear before parliament.

A cleverly worded ministerial declaration promising labor that none of the social gains won under the Popular Front would be sacrificed, and at the same time assuring business that no further revolutionary agitation would be tolerated, helped Chautemps get his impressive vote.

The main factor, however, was the increasingly insistent rumor that serious trouble is brewing in Europe and that a new war scare may develop any day. What really is back of these rumors, which are supposed to have originated in diplomatic reports from Berlin, is not known, but word has gone out that they are to be taken seriously, and the response has been startling.

Armed Forces United.

Today's political truce coincided with an announcement that the government had decided to unite the three defense ministries—army, navy, and air—under the general supervision of Defense Minister Edouard Daladier and to appoint Gen. Marie Gamelin chief of staf for national defense. This was a step toward a single command in time of war.

Replying to interpellations in the chamber, Chautemps admitted that his cabinet might be considered a transitional one. He said he would be happy if it had to give way later to a real national union government along the lines suggested by former Premier Leon Blum. Blum proposed a coalition cabinet including all parties from communists to extreme conservatives.

Thanks to his parliamentary triumph, Chautemps will be able to start work next week on the vital task of drawing up a new legal code to govern relations between labor and capital with a moral authority few French premiers have enjoyed.

Pledges Fidelity to League.

The four main points of Chautemps' policy, as outlined by him, are:

1. A foreign policy "based on fidelity to the league of nations" as the "best guaranty of the peace of the world."

2. A national defense policy "faithful to the common ideals which bind it to the great democracies," particularly Great Britain.

3. Social reforms, as outlined by the Popular Front, which would "assure respect for the legitimate authority of the employer and the right of the worker to the security and dignity of his work, and which will permit just arbitration of inevitable labor conflicts and the peaceful settlement of strikes."

4. A financial policy based on a balanced budget and "energetic defense of the national currency" through the tripartite accord with Great Britain and the United States.

4 JURORS CHOSEN IN ACCIDENT CONSPIRACY CASE

Four jurors were chosen yesterday for the trial of Attorney Harold Jackson and his investigator, J. J. Stahl, on charges of conspiracy in connection with an alleged false accident claim against the Monon railroad, before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in the Criminal court. It is expected that the jury will be completed today.

The case is based on a personal injury suit in which Rosemary Kieffer, 9 years old, of Michigan City, Ind., was awarded $50,000 against the railroad in the Circuit court here last year. Witnesses later confessed they perjured themselves in testifying she was hurt by an automobile which went out of control because of a faulty railroad crossing.

4 HELD IN CO-ED MYSTERY, OHIO POLICE SLAYING

Columbus, O., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Four men were held by authorities tonight in connection with the slaying of Highway Patrolman George Conn last Sept. 27 and the mysterious disappearance of Ruth Baumgardner, Ohio Wesleyan university co-ed, last May 5.

One of the four, Booker Johnson, colored, was reported to have confessed responsibility in the two cases and to have implicated the others. However, Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the state highway patrol, said he placed little credence in the man's statement, which included an admission that Miss Baumgardner was kidnaped.

Col. Black said there was a possibility that the Conn murder confession is true, although James Dalhover, surviving member of the Brady gang and now under sentence of death, also has confessed killing Conn.

BLIND, HE STABS FRIEND WHO STOLE FROM HIM

When Clarence Collins Day, who is 79 years old and blind, found his loneliness unbearable he invited a stranger into his flat at 1233 West Adams street. That was a month ago. The newcomer was George Ryan, 43 year old.

Ryan was out of work. Day found that his $1 a day pension from the state was insufficient for their needs. Then he began missing household articles. He became convinced that Ryan was pawning his property to buy liquor.

He hid a long handled bread knife under the cushion of his only comfortable chair. Early yesterday, when Ryan and a woman came into the flat there was a quarrel. Day dragged out the bread knife and stabbed Ryan in the abdomen. His condition was described at the County hospital as desperate.

BRITISH LAUNCH PLAN TO REUNITE CHURCH SECTS

Seeks to Heal Breaches of 17th Century.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A plan aimed at reuniting the state established Church of England with nonconforming sects, such as Baptists and Methodists, which broke away from it in the 17th century, was announced tonight.

The scheme, which was expected to cause controversy, envisages a church in which both Anglicans and nonconformists might "find themselves united without loss of what is specially valuable in their distinctive traditions."

Drafted by Joint Conference.

The plan was drawn up by a joint conference of representatives of the Church of England and the Federal Council of Evangelical Free churches [representing Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, and others].

Resolutions commending the plan to the attention of churchmen have been passed by both houses of the convocation of Canterbury as well as the Free Church council.

The scheme suggests priests and ministers in charge of congregations be known as "Presbyters," that bishops who assent to union be accepted as bishops of the united church, and that Presbyters of all uniting churches may be consecrated as bishops.

"Let Bygones Be Bygones."

It further was proposed that Anglicans should not insist on adoption of the sign of the cross at baptism, the wearing of surplices and kneeling to receive communion.

Nonconformists in return should "let bygones be bygones" on the subject of episcopacy [government of the church by bishops, whose alleged abuses led them to dissent from the church], the scheme suggested.

BOOKS

Sinclair Lewis Streamlines an Age Old Theme

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Prodigal Parents," by Sinclair Lewis. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

From the revolt of the masses in "It Can't Happen Here" Sinclair Lewis, in his latest novel, has turned to the revolt of the classes—youth and their parents. In this tale of the Cornplows, father and children, he has recorded the battle of the generations which has been going on since Adam's offspring started to live their own lives.

The older generation always has been unable to remember its own grandly rebellious youth; the younger always has been scornful of experience. "The world is not what it used to be," wail the elders, and the youngsters are not yet smart enough to point out, "And it never was."

Today the old folks of fiction [from 40 to 60 . . . after that they become "the new young"] seem definitly to have lost the war, whipped by youth's keen argument, "See what YOUR running of the world has brought us to." And now Sinclair Lewis, as sensitive to any kind of stuffed shirtness as a seismograph to an earthquake, has questioned the victorious battle cry that youth, not mother, knows best.

"The Prodigal Parents" is destined for immense popularity, not only because it is by Sinclair Lewis and therefore is a sharp, keen, and witty contemporary commentary, as well as a darned good story, but because in it all readers of whatever age and previous condition of mental servitude will delightedly find both some one to agree with and some one to get very mad at. "You SEE what they're like," the young will declare. And their elders, "Didn't I TELL you how they act?"

Satire That's Highly Amusing and Subtle.

"My Invincible Aunt," by Dorothea Brande. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.] Published Thursday.

Dorothea Brande, author of "Wake Up and Live," that enormously popular manual of self-help, has done an extremely amusing and subtle piece of satire in "My Invincible Aunt." The aunt is a rather grandly ridiculous little fat woman with a "message" for the world, and she makes millions and world headlines with it.

The original message was an oatmeal facial mask to which she attributed the faultless skin she inherited from the same source as the formula, her mother's family. In personally demonstrating the power of oatmeal the idea of smiling as a beauty aid came to her and she began to make speeches to the women around her booth urging them to smile.

When she went into the cosmic reaches of smiling she came upon "love," and soon she had founded a cult of love and beauty, with a great temple in New York, and had made a triumphal incursion into England with salvation in one hand and the pink and blue jars of "Kit Willow's Facial Secret" in the other.

"My Invincible Aunt" is luscious satire on all the cult and cosmetic practices in the world. But it is also something else. It is the story of the adolescence and growing up of a sensitive girl, torn between the shame of sham and love for her courageous, invincible little aunt. And it relives a period, Chicago in the '90s, and there is vitality in that background, and delicious detail.

Strangely Fascinating Characters in Novel.

"The Moon Is Making," by Storm Jameson. [Knopf, $2.50.] Published Tuesday.

"You married into a family of CHARACTERS, my poor Stephen," says one of the characters in "The Moon Is Making," and adds: "But every family in Wik is as bad. . . . Their self-centeredness can be crude, gross, bestial, coldly cruel. Yet they have so much courage and force of life . . ."

Storm Jameson, one of the most brilliant of the English women novelists, elaborates for 390 pages on that dictum. She describes "characters" of the most individualistic type—selfish, greedy, cruel, fanatical, crazy [some for good, some for bad]—and the closed, tight life of an English village before the war, when ideas of social justice were mere seepages in the brain of an occasional individual.

She set herself a terrific literary task in making all of these half mad individuals real persons, and she has succeeded in that task. As such—a piece of work—"The Moon Is Making" is interesting. And the reader, fascinated by the author's task, goes on living the characters' strange, unhappy lives with them despite his conviction that he wouldn't be caught dead in a real Wik nor alone with even the best of them.

Priestley Dramatizes a Theory on Time.

"Time and the Conways," by J. B. Priestley. [Harpers, $2.] Published Monday.

J. B. Priestley has indirectly made a play out of the much discussed theory of time propounded by J. W. Dunn of England in "Experiments in Time." In "Time and the Conways" a family group's happy celebration in 1919 of the twenty-first birthday of one of its members in the first and the last act is interrupted by the prophetic vision, in the second act, of what they have come to today.

The play seems, primarily, good, sound drama, with a prophetic dream to give it direction, and as such pictures in skilful brevity the life stories and psychologies of its characters.

Three Volumes Shed Light on Far East Crisis

BY GEORGE SCHARSCHUG.

"Japan Over Asia," by William Henry Chamberlin. [Little-Brown, $3.50.]

"Red Star Over China," by Edgar Snow. [Random-House, $3.] January choice of the Book union.

Here are three books about the world's hottest spot. Two were written by two able newspaper men, who are on the spot. The author of the third book, Dr. James A. B. Scherer, was a teacher in Japan for many years and has made frequent visits to the orient since his return to the United States to become president of the California Institute of Technology.

Each book offers a large amount of factual information, some of it new, and all of it well told, on the seething situation in the far east.

William Henry Chamberlin's story of the movement for "Asia for the Asiatics," which he says, at present, means simply "Japan Over Asia," shows deep study of the causes, the psychology, the philosophy, the dreams which have led the Nipponese into their great adventure of warfare, expansion, and empire building.

Mr. Chamberlin finds "the immediate response to the war has been one of unanimous patriotism." As other writers have pointed out, he believes the time factor is of "vital, if not paramount importance" in Japan's bold bid for control of China.

Can Japan's military forces stand a long war? Can the nation pay the freight much longer? Those questions are still to be answered. Mr. Chamberlin concludes his book with the fateful words that "the same impersonal forces that have made for a relentless widening of the scope of Japanese operations in China may lead, in spite of the strong desire of other nations to remain isolated, to the transformation of the Japanese 'punitive expedition' in China into an international war."

Dr. Scherer begins his book with the striking sentence, "The Japanese people have been betrayed." While some may accuse him of jingoism, he builds a strong circumstantial case to prove his thesis that Japan's war on China is the result of intrigue by a small group of militarists, abetted by the four great industrialist families of Japan, who reap vast profits from munitions. He paints Gen. Jiro Minami, governor general of Corea and former war minister, as the dictator or modern shogun of Japan.

He cites the sinking of the United States gunboat Panay and other recent international incidents as "a last desperate throw" of the militarists who have overplayed their hand in China.

Edgar Snow is the first white man to penetrate into the heart of so-called "soviet China," to meet and know the leaders of this movement and their followers. There is much gripping adventure stuff in his story, but, better still, there is lots of solid information about this element of faction torn China, branded for years by Chinese government spokesmen and many writers as "bandits."

For years Japan has pinned her diplomatic drive and now her undeclared war on China on the dangers of communism in China. Mao Tse-tung, acknowledged political leader of the Chinese communists, admits to Mr. Snow that the Reds rule over only about 9,000,000 of China's population.

The remarkable and dramatic 6,000 mile retreat of the Red army into far off Shensi province and the indomitable courage with which it waged years of war against Chinese government armies seeking to exterminate it, no doubt gave rise to the fantastic stories about the strength of the Reds.

But there is one thread in Mr. Snow's weavings that must look much redder today than it did when Japan first began to bait the Chinese dragon with red. That thread is the uncompromising hatred of Japan and all that is Japanese, which has been taught day in and day out to every soldier in the Red army.

Their leaders, no doubt, forced the Chinese government finally to begin resisting the constant encroachments of Japan by devising the colorful kidnaping of Dictator Chiang Kai-shek. Part of the ransom he paid was agreement to end his ten years' war on the Reds, but the biggest part was his pledge to stop compromising with Japan.

And these same Red leaders have long planned the type of warfare which Mr. Chamberlin points out may be fatal to Japan.

Looking Over Latest Books

Two Books Resurrect Early Medical History.

"The Diary of a Surgeon," by John Knyveton. [Appleton-Century, $2.50.]

"Doctors on Horseback," by James Thomas Flexner. [Viking, $2.75.]

Few people today, outside the ranks of medicine, know of the Homeric struggles undertaken by physicians and surgeons when the science of medicine was emerging from quackery and superstition 200 years ago.

Especially interesting are the strange practices resorted to by the medical men of England in combating disease. There was no anesthetic. Surgical patients were strapped to a table and held down by man power while surgeons amputated broken limbs, the speed of their cutting determining their merit. Hospitals were dismal foul holes. It was an age without antiseptics.

It was in this same age that American medicine was born. The early giants of our medical fraternity are the men in James Thomas Flexner's "Doctors on Horseback."

Written in a flowing style, Flexner's book has brought to life again these great American physicians and surgeons. Among them Benjamin Rush, for whom Chicago's Rush Medical college was named, was a masterful paradox, brilliant and ignorant, but who dominated American medicine for fifty years. J. H. T.

Tells of "Two Wars and More to Come."

"Two Wars and More to Come," by Herbert L. Matthews. [Carrick & Evans, $2.50.]

The Black Shirts of Fascism dominate Herbert L. Matthews' two wars, one in Ethiopia and the other in Spain. As he follows the Italians across the Danakil, through the mountains, and into Addis Ababa [for 173 pages] he is enthusiastic about their exploits. As he camps with the opposing loyalist forces in Madrid [for 141 pages] he is equally enthusiastic about the efforts to stop the conversion of Spain to Mussolini's ideas and domination.

Mr. Matthews regards the struggle in Spain as the more important of the two conflicts. He draws the conclusion that Spain is a vortex toward which the whole world is spinning and that the fate of democracy in the world depends to a great extent upon what happens on the Iberian peninsula. The reader gathers that most of the book was written in a Madrid hotel room while shells from the insurgent guns plopped into nearby buildings. W. D. O.

Collection of Nathan's Writings on Theater.

"The Morning After the First Night," by George Jean Nathan. [Knopf, $2.50.]

"The Morning After the First Night" is a collection of essays on the legitimate theater in America, abounding in the pungent phrases for which all of George Jean Nathan's dramatic criticism is known. Some of the material has already appeared in his periodical critiques. He divides the book into a series of afterthoughts—on criticism, acting, playwrights, audiences, and the Hollywood influence. Mr. Nathan's praise is scant, for he delights in knocking the sanctified from their perches. He is always good reading, if for nothing else except his devastating similes.

Camera and Pen Give a Dramatic Picture of Share Croppers' Lives

"You Have Seen Their Faces," by Erskine Caldwell and Margaret Bourke-White. [Viking Press, $5. Modern Age, 75 cents.]

In "You Have Seen Their Faces," a startling collaboration of literature and camera artistry, Erskine Caldwell, best known for "Tobacco Road," has interpreted the tenant farmer and the south as he knows them. For more than a year he traveled through the back lands with Margaret Bourke-White, whose photographs are amazing documents. Some of them will shock you profoundly. Mr. Caldwell sees the vicious share system as a secondary thing. The real villain, he believes, is a tyrannical monarch who has enslaved both landlord and tenant—King Cotton. C. L.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

introduced by Kenneth Horan

Colonel Roosevelt comes under the auspices of the Kirkland Foundation, which has brought so many distinguished speakers to the school teachers of Chicago. He will talk on Adventure in Publishing, and will autograph his books, Colonial Policies of the United States ($2) and The Desk Drawer Anthology ($3). Think of having that magic name in a book of your own!

Colonial Policies is written from keen, first-hand information and is particularly timely now. The Anthology, by Colonel Roosevelt and Alice Roosevelt Longworth, is made up of favorite poems sent in from all over the country at the request of Alexander Woollcott, the Town Crier.

Kenneth Horan, literary editor of the Journal of Commerce, will introduce Colonel Roosevelt. Mrs. Horan is the author of Remember the Day ($2), wherein a disturbingly observant daughter remembers O. Henry, Jane Addams and the Tom Thumbs as guests in her home, and of Oh, Promise Me ($2) which recreates again the gay, nostalgic days of the recent past. The two together are $3.50 and Mrs. Horan will autograph one or both.

Virginia Wiley Is Engaged to A. M. Persons

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING romantic news comes from Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Morris Wiley, who are announcing today the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Benedict, to Alexander Metcalf Persons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Persons of Worcester, Mass.

The announcement will come as a surprise to most of Miss Wiley's and Mr. Persons' friends, who will have their first opportunity to congratulate him and to wish her happiness at a cocktail party tomorrow afternoon at the Wiley home, 1136 48th street.

Mr. Persons has come to Chicago frequently on business in the last few years. He is spending the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Wiley on this trip, but in the past he has stayed frequently with Eugene Swigart, his former roommate at Princeton university.

Miss Wiley and her younger sister, Miss Peggy Wiley, are two of the prettiest and most popular members of the post-debutante set. They were introduced to society at a tea at the Woman's Athletic club at Christmas time, 1931. Miss Virginia attended the Ogontz school and is a member of the Chicago Junior league.

Mr. Persons prepared at the Worcester academy and the Hun school for Princeton. The wedding will take place next June and he and his bride will make their home just outside of Worcester.

Miss Peggy Wiley is sailing the first of next month in the Conte di Savoia to spend two and a half months in Italy and Egypt. She will travel with eastern friends.

Dulany-Richards Nuptials Today.

Hundreds of congratulatory messages will be sent to California today to Mrs. Helen Hughes Dulany and Atherton Richards, who are being married at 4:30 o'clock in the vestry of the Pasadena Presbyterian church. Only twelve guests will hear the Rev. Robert Freeman read the wedding service, and the reception following at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Finkbine will be a small one.

The Edward C. Crossetts, who are sailing for Honolulu today; the John Alden Carpenters, and Mrs. Dulany's brother, Edmund A. Hughes of Chicago and Bismarck, N. D., will be the Chicagoans at the wedding. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Frank Midkiff, will be the matron of honor. She arrived from Honolulu last week to stay with Mrs. Dulany at the Huntington hotel in Pasadena. Howard Coonley of New York will be the best man.

The bride will wear an amethyst wool coat over a star sapphire blue dress, and amethyst accessories. Instead of the usual corsage or bouquet of flowers she will wear a pink carnation lei. The bridegroom is a descendant of Amos Starr Cook, the first missionary to the Hawaiian Islands, and his family has lived there for 100 years, so it is fitting that he should give his bride a lei for her wedding flowers. The church will be decorated with peach blossoms.

Mr. Richards and his bride will come east on their wedding trip before going to Honolulu, where they will live, in June. They will arrive in Chicago next Thursday and will stay at the Drake hotel until they go on to New York. The bride used to live here, but for the last year she has been traveling. She had a house in Honolulu last summer. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Richards of Honolulu, is president of the Hawaiian Pineapple company.

Miss Mary Grubbs to Be Bride Today.

A wedding of interest will take place in Barrington this afternoon, that of Miss Mary Grubbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Buckley, to Hugh M. Seyfarth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Seyfarth of Highland Park. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the living room of Brookmoor, the Buckley home. The Rev. Albert Taylor of the Episcopal church in Dundee will read the service, and a reception will follow.

Mrs. Robert K. Fobes of St. Paul will be her sister's only attendant. She and Mr. Fobes are staying with Miss Billee White, in Barrington. Young Bobby Buckley is flying in today from his business in Cleveland to attend the wedding, and the bride is hoping that her brother, Walter Grubbs Jr., will be able to get here from St. Paul.

Robert M. Seyfarth will be his brother's best man. Mr. Seyfarth and his bride are postponing their wedding trip until March, for she still is recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident last fall. They will live in Barrington for a few months, and then will move to Highland Park.

Joan Ryerson in East to Attend Wedding.

Miss Joan Ryerson will be a bridesmaid at the wedding in Boston today of Miss Alice Mildred Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard S. Carter, to Philip Boyer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Boyer of New York.

The ceremony will take place at the Commonwealth avenue home of the bride's maternal grandfather, Thomas C. Thatcher. Mr. and Mrs. Carter and their family have come from Paris for the wedding. The bride's paternal grandfather, J. Ridgely Carter, who is a member of the French branch of J. P. Morgan & Co., also will attend the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Carter are living temporarily in New York.

The bride's cousin, Lady Mary Acheson, daughter of the countess of Gosford, will be the maid of honor. Allston Boyer of New York will be his brother's best man.

Finger Nails Need Styling to Fit Dress

Haven't you, too, noticed how hands and hair have taken the place of silhouettes and reducing in conversations among women?

Since they began talking about hair styling, this particular interest has grown and grown. Now that they have gotten around to speaking of hand styling, you may be sure that more and more you'll concentrate interest on those digits of yours and what will make them more appealing.

Time was when nail cleanliness only was preached. That was some time back, however. Then came the polishes. And now you hear talk of styling your nails to suit your type, at the same time creating more interest and beauty for them.

In the styling news one hears talk of black nails with white tips to complete a daring, sophisticated evening costume. This, we think, is just plain hooey. We can't imagine a woman who would dare the ugliness of black-tipped nails. But, as in all style trends, one hears of impossibly crazy notes that never bear fruit, thank goodness.

We do like the pastel tints for the girl or woman wearing a soft, diaphanous chiffon frock. These pale nail glows are consistent with the soft, alluring picture the gown suggests. We appreciate, too, the bright nail with certain types of frock and certain women who express vitality, sparkle, and great good fun. We even like the occasional nonsense of painting a cupid's bow on the nail or some funny little picture if the evening is one of similar unusualness. The sprinkling of gold and silver blend on the nail tips with metallic gowns, for example, is right in the modern picture.

You may have your own taste about tinting nails to the finger tips, and yours is as good as ours, even though we don't like the nail without its white tip. We do say, and you must agree, that it must be a hand of superb beauty so to call attention to itself.

Draped Jersey Turbans Ideal for Midseason

BY RHEA SEEGER.

No one, including the spendthrifts, seriously considers spending a lot of money for between season hats; the frugal shoppers, because they are saving for a spring wardrobe, and the spenders, because these midwinter models are needed only for a pickup for drooping spirits. So the answer is: See the draped jersey scarf turbans.

With top prices around $15 for the most intricate mixup of three or four color contrasts and some of the best finds around $5, the shopping is easy.

Scarf turbans consist of a hat designed with a scarflike arrangement that ties or twists around the neckline. Nothing complicated or hard to wind, and the result is smart and sleek, especially with dark winter clothes.

Parma violet, the newest fashion color, is available, along with all kinds of pastels with pink and blue the big favorites. The material is an exceptionally supple, easy to drape, silklike jersey, the all-time favorite of knowing hatmakers, because it swathes and folds perfectly. Some of the newest models are made with a watteau outline, held in place with a skull fitting band; others are made with a fat roll of the jersey, twisted halo fashion around the head, and still others are made to look like a Russian headdress with the addition of the scarf idea. The newest trick is achieved with a long scarf that crosses at the back, winds around the neck, and folds over in front.

Black, navy, copper, and deep brown, together with pastels, dull white, and the newest pastels, are liberally available in all price ranges.

Good Morning!

Those fans are legion who believe from the bottom of their hearts that Miss Ann Sothern does indeed have everything in the way of looks, personality, and general comehitherliness. They will be delighted to learn that the picture "She Has Everything" has everything she requires in the way of a suitable vehicle.

It's a light, easy rolling runabout and Miss Sothern and Mr. Raymond are again romantically pitted against one another. He is a coffee king. She is a society girl whose father has died leaving naught but an inheritance of debts—and an allergy to coffee. Her creditors, of whom one Waldo is the most interested and ingenius, decide to finance her to a rich marriage. . . .

They pick on Coffee King Fuller Partridge as the party of the second part. . . . She becomes his secretary—and coffee taster. [The situation, you see, has possibilities.]

Action hops from N' York to Hawaii and back again. . . . Miss Sothern sings, drinks coffee, and has Mr. Raymond running around in circles. . . . He, hearing of the plot, throws her down, believing her cognizant of it. . . . Learning differently he woos her back to find that hell hath no fury like a woman scorned and—well—and!

Helen Broderick as the damsel's aunt carries on with Mr. Moore as Waldo. These two are a grand fun team! You'll laugh merrily during a sequence in which Miss Broderick is hypnotized by Solly Ward — who had been intent on putting Ann, not Helen, to sleep.

Gene Raymond is handsome, adroit, and likable as the rich young feller. He has what it takes, all right, for this sort of rôle. . . . Other players please and so does the carefree presentation.

See you tomorrow.

Announcement is made of the marriage on Jan. 19 of Miss Ruth Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bennett of La Grange, to Harold J. Frank. Mr. and Mrs. Frank will be at home in Ogdensburg, N. Y., after Feb. 15.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Berlin: Songs for Sale

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 21.—"Have I ever showed you my piano, Ed?" asked Irving Berlin. He reached to the right and under the keyboard of the upright piano and moved a lever much as you'd move the gearshift of a car. The entire keyboard slid to the right. "I only play in F sharp, the black keys," he explained, "so this lever gadget automatically serves to transpose F sharp to any other key."

Irving Berlin recalls his start.

We were in the roof apartment, called room 1000, at the Beverly-Wilshire hotel, although no numerals are on the door. He and Cole Porter and other melody men always rent this apartment when they are in Hollywood, so that they can play the piano at night.

On every mantel and table were pictures of Mrs. Berlin and the children, and there was a big circular cheese which the former Ellen Mackay had just sent him from the east, and which he served for lunch with expressions of great delight.

I always get a kick out of being with Irving Berlin. This thin-cheeked, dark, wiry little fellow is one of the all-time greats of Tin Pan Alley. For thirty years he has written the nation's songs, while others have written its laws, and, on the whole, his songs have been much better.

Today, nearing his 50th birthday, he has just completed the score for "Alexander's Ragtime Band" for Darryl Zanuck and Joe Schenck.

"It's funny at that," he said, covering a cracker with cheese. "In 1907, the year I wrote my first published song, I was working as a singing waiter at 'Nigger Mike' Salter's place in the Bowery, No. 12 Pell street. Around the corner, at the drug store where I occasionally stopped, the drug clerk was Joe Schenck. The drug store was No. 6 Bowery, and it's still there, but Joe and I are here; he's chairman of Twentieth Century-Fox, and I'm a song writer and working for him. This cheese is marvelous, isn't it?"

"I never wanted to be a song writer," he confessed. "All I wanted in those days was a job in which I could earn $25 a week. That was my idea of heaven. But a bartender in another Bowery saloon, Al Piantadosi, had written a song, an Italian type of tune, and 'Nigger Mike' sneered at us and asked why we didn't write something. So Nick Michaelson and myself wrote 'Marie from Sunny Italy' and Stern & Co. published it. We got exactly 66 cents royalty from it and split it, 33 cents apiece. That was in 1907. Joe Schenck, the drug clerk around the corner, bought a copy. I think he was the only one."

Would he tell me something about the songs he had written? "The fact that I compose only in F sharp," Berlin said, going to the piano and placing his hands in position to illustrate, "gave me certain harmonies that other writers missed, because they knew more about music than I did." He hit the keys, the blacks above and the two white keys directly below, with his right hand. "You see, Ed, that's the way I got 'Alexander's Ragtime Band.' You might say that my lack of a musical education was responsible for my first big hit."

He struck the harmony again, and returned to the table for another cracker and a dab of cheese.

"The five most important songs I ever wrote were 'Alexander's Ragtime Band,' 'Everybody Step,' 'What'll I Do,' 'A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody,' and 'Cheek to Cheek.' These five songs were the key songs of thirty years of song writing, and I'll tell you why. From the harmonic form or the rhythmic form of 'Alexander's Ragtime Band' I got 'Ragtime Violin,' 'Everybody's Doing It,' and 'Syncopated Walk.'

"From the rhythmic form of 'Everybody Step' I got 'Pack Up Your Sins,' 'Puttin' on the Ritz,' and, more recently, 'Top Hat, White Tie, and Tails.'

"Using the same rhythmic pattern as 'A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody,' I wrote 'Say It with Music,' 'Lady of the Evening,' 'Crinoline Days,' and 'Soft Lights, Sweet Music.' The basic song always suggested four or five others, each a bit different but basically the same."

"'What'll I Do' was the key song to 'All Alone,' 'Remember,' 'Always,' and 'Blue Skies.' When I had to write for Fred Astaire, I learned something else. Instead of having him dance a chorus and then repeating it, it gave me the idea of writing an over-long song like 'Cheek to Cheek' and that keyed me into 'Let's Face the Music and Dance' and 'I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm.' You see, once I found certain harmonies and rhythms, I completely exhausted them. 'Easter Parade,' Ed, was an old 'Smile' song I'd written years before, under the title of 'Smile and Show Your Dimple.'"

From whom did he get his genius for music? "I guess from my father. He was a rabbi and a fine singer." . . . Did songs come to him at night or in the daytime, and what were his working hours?

Berlin laughed. "When I started out, I wrote at night because George M. Cohan and Will Cobb and Paul Dresser worked at night. Now I find that I can do greater work if I work in the sun. Bermuda, Atlantic City, California, and Florida — wherever there is sun, you'll find me."

At 49, Irving Berlin [who was born Izzy Baline on New York's east side, and who signed his first song "I. Berlin," because he was afraid his east side pals would tease him if he called himself Irving] represents a cavalcade of top-flight American popular music. From 1907 to 1938 he has written ragtime, jaz, ballads, swing songs, war songs.

Just now many songs he's written he doesn't know. He's proud of his work, naturally, but he is proudest of the fact that the fellows he started out with—Sam H. Harris, Cohan, Joe Schenck, Jerome Kern—are still his friends. Kern, in his opinion, is the greatest composer of them all.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Not new, but certainly a beauty friend to recall at this season is an after bath lotion that has relieved many a harassed man and woman. This is an emulsion and its method of use is quite unlike that of most preparations designed for the same purpose.

It's like a rich liquid cream, nicely fragrant and not at all inclined to leave the skin greasy if you follow directions. This is applied, rather sparingly, just as you step out of the tub or shower, while the flesh is still a little moist. Rub the lotion on [it will blend with the moisture] and then finish drying with your towel. It won't stain the towel or make it sticky and you'll be delighted with the fact that it won't make your flesh feel oily. You can immediately slip into your choicest fine linen, serene in the knowledge that it won't be oil stained.

Best of all, you'll go through the day without the discomfort of excessive skin dryness. Men like this just as much as women do, probably because it really does the work and isn't highly perfumed. It is not expensive and you need use so little at a time that a bottle will last all winter.

When this lotion stands in the bottle you'll find that oil settles at the bottom. Don't be disturbed. Just remember to shake the bottle a bit and all will be well.

GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Poco St. Vrain arrives in the western town of Christian City, escaping a pursuing troop of cavalry. There Two-Way Hornbeck approaches hi. with a scheme. Abe McCandless, who framed Poco and made an outlaw of him, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents sent to meet at the mine and bring down the gold are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents, Jake Finger, whose papers he has, and get the gold. At the mountain camp Poco finds Espey Cardowan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. They dare not give each other away to Shayne, the mine manager, and his lovely daughter, Kate.

INSTALMENT VI.

ENEMIES AND PARTNERS.

Poco walked to the shack where the long figure of Cardowan was framed in the door. He disappeared as Poco approached. Poco entered and closed the door and leaned against it. The lamp on the table at the end of the room between the two bunks was lighted and Cardowan leaned against the table, the light from below shadowing the lines of his face.

"Welcome, Poco," he drawled, and he laughed, making no sound.

Poco smiled musingly, his hands behind him. "Hello, Joker. You always come back for more, don't you?"

Cardowan was still smiling. "You've won the other times, Poco. This time you won't."

"No?"

"No. This is the last time we meet," Cardowan said lazily.

"You wouldn't be that lucky, Joker," Poco drawled.

Cardowan's face flushed a little, but the smile was fixed, triumphant. He said, "You've stuck your nose in my business just once too often, Poco. That time you held my bunch up after we stuck up the Indian agency, I didn't mind so much."

"Of course not," Poco said carelessly. "Money's easy to get. Especially when somebody else gets it for you."

Cardowan ignored this, but the smile was fading. "I even didn't mind it much when you packed that stage on the Whitewater run with a bunch of your own gunnies because you heard I'd raid it."

Poco laughed with the memory of it. "How many men did you lose that time, Joker? We counted ten before you ran."

Cardowan ignored this too, but the smile was gone. "You won all those, Poco, and a lot more, but this time you won't. You're trapped. My men let you through below. They'll be waiting when we come down."

Poco stared at him blankly, then walked over to a bunk, unbuckling his shellbelts and gunbelts on the way. He threw them all on the bed, then rolled up his sleeves and went to the frame washstand which held a pitcher of water and a basin.

"Did you know it would be me?" Cardowan asked curiously.

Cardowan said, "How?"

Poco cast about for a plausible lie and found none, so he said, "There's only one killer riding this country that would shoot every passenger on a stage just to see the others squirm. Who would it be but you?"

"Thanks," Cardowan said flatly. "And knowing that, you came up anyway."

Poco said, "Do you run from a rattlesnake?" and began to wash.

Then Cardowan said, "No, I kill it."

Cardowan lounged off the table and in one motion had pulled his gun and cocked it and pointed it dead level at Poco's body. Poco looked up at it and went back to his washing and when he had his face rinsed and wiped and his eyes open again, the gun was still out, still pointing at him.

"Maybe I better settle this now," Cardowan said. "If that's the turn, I can call it first."

Poco said with mock and jeering innocence, "Partners don't kill each other, old pardner Shelton."

"I could kill you now and tell Shayne you're Poco St. Vrain. He's heard of you. Everybody has."

Poco said patiently, "The time for that is past, Joker. You should have done that the second you saw me."

Cardowan did not put up his gun. He spoke now in a flat voice, a voice that went beyond earnest passion. "You're crowding your luck, Poco. You can't turn to Shayne. You can't kill me for the same reason I can't kill you. It holds both ways. We'll get that gold and we'll go down the mountain and you'll walk into thirty guns down there. You can't crowd me into making a play before Shayne. You couldn't kill me on a fair play even if you did. I won't waste time talking about it."

Cardowan lounged off the table and confronted him. "Some day," he began in a thick voice—"some day soon, I'm going to tear your heart out!"

Poco said, "Tsk, tsk," and reprovingly began to roll down his sleeves.

A knock came on the door and Poco said, "Yes?" and some one outside said, "Come and get it." The sound of footsteps died.

Poco grinned broadly now. "Think you can eat, Joker?"

Cardowan had never ceased looking at Poco. Now he said, "If I thought you had a pack of hardcases down there waiting, too, I'd kill you now."

Poco laughed and opened the door. "I'll tell you a little story about that tonight."

Together they walked over to the mess shack. Inside, Shayne and Kate were waiting, and Poco was introduced to the dozen men who had worked under Shayne the long winter through. Then they seated themselves, Shayne at the head of the table, Kate next to Cardowan on one side of Shayne, Poco on the other. It was a festive occasion, celebrating the successful termination of a year's work, and tonight when Poco and Cardowan signed the insurance papers, the task of guarding and preserving the vast fortune in yellow dust would be transferred to their shoulders. Poco didn't wonder that the men felt as if a burden had been lifted from them.

He glanced over at Cardowan and saw only a wicked and smouldering hate in those gray eyes when they met his.

Shayne, naturally enough, could not wait to hear the details of the shipment which the insurance company had worked out, but Poco, wary and cool, parried his every attempt.

"You'll meet more of your men down below somewhere, of course," Shayne asked.

Poco shook his head. "I couldn't tell you if we were, Shayne. That's company business."

Shayne nodded. "Naturally, but I'm interested. So will McCandless be, my owner."

Poco looked over at the sullen Cardowan, and some sardonic impulse rose up in him. He said politely, "You tell him, Herb."

Cardowan shot a glance of quiet fury at Poco, but his face was as polite, as impassive as ever. "Jake does all the talking for the company, Shayne."

Poco nodded in mock gravity. He explained to Shayne, "I can't tell you, and here's why. We underwrite this shipment. When it leaves here it's our business to guard it till it gets to its destination. All right, what if you took three or four men down the trail tonight, hid them, and waited till we came along with the gold. What if McCandless told you to. You'd stick us up, maybe kill us, and take the gold. The company would have to pay McCandless the amount that was stolen, and still McCandless would have the gold." He shrugged. "It's been tried. We're careful."

Shayne laughed easily and admitted the possibility.

Kate said, "You say it's been done? I would think the insurance company would hunt those men down if it took them years."

Poco nodded politely, when Cardowan cut in with his easy, soothing drawl. "You'd be surprised how slippery some of those jaspers are, ma'm. You take one man that's been pretty famous down in our part of the country." He looked at Poco. "His name's Poco St. Vrain, a little short ranny, about Jake's size there. He's a rat, he'd double cross his friends and his men, and he's done it time and again. He's wanted by every sheriff west of the Pecos. He's hired out time and again to crooked mining men to steal their stuff for them after it's been insured. Sometimes he keeps the whole thing, double crosses them. Sometimes he don't. But he's slippery. People like him are hard to get."

Le Mire, to John Hill Root, son of Clayton Root Sr. and the late Mrs. Root, will take place this evening at Our Lady of Mount Carmel rectory. A reception will be held immediately following the ceremony at the Drake hotel. Mrs. Le Mire's home is in Escanaba, Mich., but she has taken an apartment at the Whitehall during her stay in Chicago.

Miss Le Mire's brother, W. A. Le Mire, will give her in marriage. Miss Kathryn Le Mire, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor and David Root will be his brother's best man. Mr. Root and his bride will spend three weeks at Miami Beach and will be at home upon their return on the near north side.

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

How about a bright print to enliven your winter clothes collection? Girls who wear junior sizes will like this jaunty tailored model. It spells youth with a capital Y. The brief collar is made of lingerie fabric and is removable for laundering. The frock gains a yoke effect by means of braid stitched across the waist. The same braid trims the short neck closing and also the tiny pocket effect. A rather wide lether belt should be used at the waist, in the same shade as the braid. The sleeves are rather wide at the top, but become fitted at the wrists. Their broad effect is facilitated by the use of padding. Paneling creates perfect streamline for the hips and enough width to make the skirt comfortable.

Woolens may, of course, be used for this model, since it still is winter. But a gay print in silk is our recommendation, or a bright monotone in either silk or woolen. Especially if you're in school or college you will like this model.

Style No. 2051 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 1 yard of binding with ⅛ yard of 18 inch padding for sleeves.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The association formally asked for continuance of National Youth administration aid for students another year. It was suggested there be no discrimination between NYA aid to tax supported and privately endowed colleges and universities.

Dr. Seaton, in asking for passages of the resolution, said that Washington rumors indicated NYA aid would be given only to students of state colleges and universities.

The association adopted a resolution that Greek letter fraternities have a rightful place on the campuses of the colleges in the association.

The resolution was drafted following a conference on fraternity problems led by Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, president of Union college, Schenectady, N. Y.

One of the most recent additions to the family of electric clocks is one that turns on your radio at any designated time. You can use it as a musical alarm clock, if you wish. Or you can set it for some special program during the day that you might forget as you go about your housework.

This clock resembles an ordinary electric clock except that around the dial are little metal plugs, each one denoting a 15 minute period. Red ones denote the hours. You set the clock by pulling out the plugs for the time of the program. The clock also turns off the radio. We saw three types of these controlled clocks. They are not expensive. EDITH WEIGLE.

Childish Fear Often Leaves Lasting Scar

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Of course, it's possible to carry anything too far. I mean any good thing, any good idea.

So it may be with this principle of managing children without punishment, scolding and constant correction. We surely don't want to be sugary; we most certainly don't want to wrap our children in the unrealistic cotton wool of an ultra-ultra kindliness of voice and manner. Or, as my crisp-spoken grandmother used to say, we don't want to "kill them with kindness." We must not make our children painfully tender and overly sensitive. But as parents and as teachers, we should treat them so fairly, so kindly, so understandingly that they experience no deep hurts, particularly in their earlier years.

An educational conference made this point as far as teachers were concerned; but it happens that I have had it brought rather sharply to my attention in some of my own contacts with friends and relatives rather recently.

You may notice the same thing that I did if you're on the lookout for it, and that is that children carry the memory, or the scars, of deep hurts far into maturity.

One woman in business, a brilliant woman, too, is struggling still to shake off a trembling in the face of authority which she attributes to the fear-inspiring régime of the old-fashioned public school she attended, where the children actually shook when the principal came into the room.

A man I know still talks resentfully of two uncles he had who were sarcastic and unkind and got him many undeserved spankings.

Another man I know looks sourly on all boys who are not put to work at 14 because he was made to refuse a proffered professional university training to bring in a few unneeded dollars a week to a penurious father. He considers them pampered and spoiled because of his own bitter disappointment.

I could go on and on, but you can see the point.

Childhood hurts from injustice, unkindness, fear-inspiring treatment make a deep mark and sometimes carry over, coloring a grownup attitude. This is because children are relatively tender, sensitive, impressionable. What they can perhaps toss off at 10, dismiss at 15, present a protective shell, too, at 20, may cut or shock or scar at an earlier age, depending, of course, upon what the injury to the sensibilities may be.

At the same time that you are vigorous and wholesomely human try also to be fundamentally kind, just and understanding, whether you are mother, father, uncle, aunt or teacher.

Theodore Roosevelt Says Freedom Will Damage Philippines

Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., lecturing in Mandel hall, University of Chicago, last night, urged opposition against complete independence for the Philippine Islands or Porto Rico. Actual independence in the Philippines, he said, might mean ultimate starvation on a wide scale there. He favored a dominion form of government for the islands.

The United States, said Col. Roosevelt, is guilty of one main fault as a colonial administrator. "That fault," he said, "is our effort to Americanize natives. We give them boards of health and education, and then take away their lotteries and destroy their native customs."

A very good motto for defenders to bear in mind is "Beware the declarer bearing gifts!" A skilful declarer does not permit the enemy to do what they have indicated they would like to do unless he has a very sound reason for being agreeable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	1 heart
1 spade	2 hearts	Pass	3 hearts
Double	Pass	3 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's bid was virtually a psychic and, when South doubled the opponents at a mere nine trick contract, North could not stand the double, therefore ran to three spades. South properly regarded this run out as a sign of great weakness since North hardly would have taken out the double of a vulnerable team had he been reasonably strong.

West opened his fourth best heart. Dummy discarded a club, East played the queen and declarer won. A diamond then was led toward dummy. West ducked and the ten lost to East, who promptly returned his remaining diamond. West won and shifted to a low club, hoping to find his partner with the queen. Declarer, however, captured East's jack with that valuable card and ruffed a heart in dummy. Then, since declarer very much feared he would have to lose two spade tricks and, with them, his contract, he attempted a trap play that possibly would reduce these trump losers to one trick. Realizing that East had been trying for a diamond ruff, declarer now offered him that opportunity by leading dummy's queen. East fell, hook, line, and sinker. He ruffed, only to be overruffed by declarer's eight. A club now was led toward dummy. West hopped up and returned a club. Dummy won and led the spade ten. East ducked, but declarer, who already had seen two aces in West's hand, was in little doubt as to the location of the spade ace. Hence, he went right up with the spade king and returned a spade, which dropped the ace and queen together, and insured his contract.

Support of Man's Family Bars Wedding

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is 23 and deeply in love with a man ten years her senior. Her parents admire the man and have every confidence in him. Her mother asked her why she did not go ahead and marry the man. Then she told her mother of the man's home situation.

He is the sole support of an aged father and a sister, 41 years old, who keeps house for them all. There is no other income but the one the man supplies, so he feels that it is his duty to stay at home and continue to be the provider. The girl works and has suggested that she would keep on at her job. The man has over a thousand dollars saved. This would set them up in an apartment of their own, and the girl offers to live on the man's income and turn her salary of $20 a week over to the father and sister. It would mean they would have to dispose of the family home and move to smaller quarters, which the beau cannot bring himself to ask. He does not want to do it to his father who, he says, made enormous sacrifices for his education and always was a wonderful dad.

He is in love with the girl, but, being a fine person, would rather release her to be free to take advantage of another opportunity which might come her way than to introduce her into his difficult financial situation. His sister mothered him from the time he was a child, when his mother died, and his devotion to her is deep.

The question is, what should the young woman accept as the final word?

This is one of those difficult problems which no outsider is in a rightful position to solve. It would seem to us that, on the girl's admitted salary of $20 a week, the elderly parent and the faithful sister would suffer the short end. The question here is whether the young woman and her beau wouldn't suffer discomfort seeing the other pair in such reduced circumstances, deprived of their home and so on.

It takes a big soul to confront a situation of the sort with the heroic character called for. Confronting it is easy enough, making generous initial offers. It is carrying them through that destroys the hopeful vision. After a bit the girl would begin to feel she was unduly sat upon, having to give her weekly salary to the support of the other two, unless she is of a rare character. The man probably would be unhappy about her making the sacrifice, too. His type of man would want to do all the sacrificing, and not think of it as such, either.

The original "Old Time Block" was a combination of piecing and applique. Constant usage has changed the pattern to an entirely pieced design. Here we see it composed of solid colors in pink, green, and white. A combination of printed and plain materials was the favorite selection of a century ago, and usually in the dull, dark, drab colors available at the time. The 12 inch blocks are set together to form an all-over design, and are surrounded by a three inch border and a half inch bias binding. The finished coverlet measures 90 by 90 inches, which is an ideal size for a single bed.

VARIED FACTS ABOUT FOODS AND COOKERY: Silver foxes are fed a carefully balanced diet of bread, cereals, meats, vegetables, and cod liver oil to make their fur sleek and beautiful enough to adorn milady's shoulders.

The Egyptians were the first candy makers. They used honey, sweet herbs, spices, and coloring. Sugar refining was then an unknown art. The Romans later established candy shops to cater to the sweet teeth of their countrymen.

I always was under the impression that scientific vegetable cookery was a new art. Yet in cookbooks of early 19th century America and in books of 18th century England I have found careful instructions for cooking green vegetables to preserve color and flavor. Somewhere along the line we got off the track, for many of the cookbooks used by our mothers contain unscientific advice about vegetables—"cook cabbage for an hour," "add a pinch of soda to cooking greens or tomatoes," for example.

Bread, cheese, and kisses are the basic necessities of life, according to the author of a booklet, "The History and Romance of Bread."

Perhaps you knew: That a scallop is only a small part of a large shellfish [the muscle it uses to open and close the shell]; that finnan haddie is smoked haddock; that "kippered" herring indicates split, salted, and smoked herring; that sauer ruben is sauer "kraut" made from shredded turnips instead of from cabbage; that confectioners' sugar is the finest white sugar made and that it is not the same as powdered sugar [the latter isn't as fine]; that an excellent large kernel popcorn marketed in cans has a "popcorn seasoning" in which to pop it.

Searing meat doesn't keep in the juices. Its only advantage is in browning the meat to a deeper color than might be achieved without searing. Searing won't harm most meats, but it will dry out the surface of veal. A constant moderate temperature usually is preferable for any meat.

Try cooking garlic for a minute with pork chops. It gives a tantalizing flavor to chops and gravy. . . . And try baking meat loaf in a ring mold, filling the center with parsley potatoes when serving. . . . Damson plum preserves are an excellent accompaniment for roast veal.

The canner's name does not always appear on the label of canned goods. If sold through a distributor it may bear the distributor's label. If you prefer "Glutz Brothers'" peaches and your dealer hasn't that brand, but swears his own brand is "the same thing," he may be right.

To make flat, round cookies without the bother of rolling and cutting, drop the dough from a spoon onto the cookie sheet and stamp each cookie with the bottom of a glass which has been covered with a damp cloth.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Yesterday's story on oven cooked meals should have given an oven temperature of 375 degrees F. for the first list of food combinations rather than 275 degrees F. We are sorry.

Water Colors by Sheets Win Praise of Critic

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of water colors by Millard Sheets is always an event of interest and the current exhibit in the Anderson galleries, 530 South Michigan avenue, is no exception.

Millard Sheets is a comparatively young man, but he has crammed an enormous amount of work into his creative life as a painter and has gone far. He has painted murals, easel pictures, taught painting, contributed to exhibitions the length and breadth of the country, his works have been purchased by representative collections throughout the United States and he has made a stunning reputation for himself in water colors.

This is no mean record. His water colors are regarded so highly that this year the Chicago Art institute has invited him to hold a one gallery show in the International Water Color exhibition which will open in the museum in May. For the last seven years he has been invited to exhibit in the water color show, but this year an entire room will be hung with his work, a signal honor.

Meanwhile in the current exhibit there is definite evidence of how greatly the painter merits any and all distinctions which may come to him. These paintings are superb. They are gorgeous in color and drawing. They exude a nervous strength which is irresistible.

The artist varies his technique from the obviously loose, something in the manner of the broad brush stroke of Segonzac, to a rather tight, carefully defined manner, illustrated in "Wild Pekake." The "House by the Road" is representative of the loose, impressionistic manner.

But to neither of these, probably, will you lose your heart. That is left for the thrilling "Darkening Gulf," a vast black rock ringed with flying gulls, or "Morning Sea," with its silvery leash of water in the foreground, or "Mountain Ranch," "On the Heights" or "November Evening."

Whatever your preference, the group as a whole will give you a thrill. The exhibit is one of those that should not be missed. It will continue some two weeks.

BRADDOCK'S RALLY WINS DECISION OVER FARR

MICHIGAN MEETS NORTHWESTERN FOR BIG 10 LEAD

Illinois Goes to Ohio in Other Game.

Tonight's Schedule

Michigan at Northwestern.
Butler at Notre Dame.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's basketball team, which tonight will complete the first half of its Western conference schedule, must whip Michigan in Patten gymnasium, if it wishes to remain in first place. If defeated the Wildcats will drop to third place with Michigan leading by a half-game over Purdue, which does not resume its campaign until it entertains Indiana on Feb. 5.

Until Michigan was trounced by Wisconsin last Monday night, the Wolverines seemed on the road to Big Ten supremacy. Many now believe that the Big Ten championship can be won by the team finishing with nine victories and three defeats.

Until the Wildcats were beaten by Purdue Monday night, 37 to 26, the Wildcats had a perfect conference record in four games. Perhaps the most notable achievement by Northwestern, in view of Wisconsin's later successes, was the opening conquest of the Badgers, 47 to 38. Since then Wisconsin has beaten Minnesota, Chicago, and Michigan.

Favor Slower Attack.

Michigan and Northwestern favor the same type of offense in that each prefers a slower attack and more set plays than have been in evidence in most conference games. Michigan will have an advantage in height, for Capt. John Townsend, forward, and James Rae, center, are 6 feet 4 inches tall, and Leo Beebe, guard, is six feet one inch. Townsend is the key to the Michigan attack.

Against Wisconsin Townsend was held to one field goal and spent almost as much time on the bench as he did in the game. Wisconsin's excellent guarding and height hampered Townsend's under the basket activities. In his first three games Townsend scored 36 points.

Except for the Wisconsin game Michigan has, on comparative scores, done better than Northwestern. Ohio State, for instance, was beaten by ten points, while the Wildcats beat the Buckeyes by one.

Stand Pat on Lineup.

Northwestern will start the same five which has opened all conference games. Jake Nagode, center, is the leading Wildcat scorer with forty-six points. Jean Smith, who pairs with Capt. Fred Trenkle at forward, is second with forty points.

Illinois, whose greatest achievement this season was a victory over Purdue, goes to Ohio State for the only other Big Ten game on tonight's program. Although Ohio State has won only one game, the Buckeyes seemed to have found themselves against Iowa and in addition they will have some advantage in playing on their home court.

Loyola at Chicago.

Chicago meets Loyola university tonight at the Midway in its last non-conference engagement of the season. Although the Maroons have not won a conference game, and have only one major triumph, a victory over Marquette, they ended Loyola's thirteen game winning streak last winter. Loyola defeated De Paul Wednesday night and now is pointing to redeem last year's surprising reverse on the south side. De Paul whipped Chicago earlier in the year.

Wibs Kautz, who scored twenty points against De Paul and who has accounted for 122 in seven games, may not be in Loyola's lineup because of a shoulder injury. Mike Novak, Loyola's exceptional center, will be the key to Loyola's attack.

Butler meets Notre Dame tonight in South Bend. Although Butler has a victory over Michigan, the Bulldogs can scarcely be given more than an outside chance since the Irish are back in stride.

DENVER BEATS COLLEGIANS IN OVERTIME, 37-33

The Denver Safeways, National A. A. U. basketball champions, fought overtime last night to defeat the Collegians, colored members of the Windy City Basketball league, 37 to 33, in the 132d armory. Jack McCracken and Bob Gruenig each made a basket and Werner Frank sank a free throw while the Collegians were being held to one point in the extra period.

The game, which was close throughout, drew a crowd of 6,500.

GABBY HARTNETT IS A COACH NOW; HE'LL CATCH, TOO

Move Surrounds Grimm with 4 Man Faculty.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles Leo [Gabby] Hartnett now is a player and coach, officially speaking. The dual rôle mapped out for the portly catcher's seventeenth big league season was revealed yesterday when he sauntered into the Cubs' offices and deposited the papers covering his 1938 employment.

One of the contracts covers salary as a catcher. The other sets forth how much he is to receive as a coach, a new job for him. The amounts were not made known. Splitting the pay into two classes is part of Owner P. K. Wrigley's idea to let the veteran go into retirement by degrees during the coming season.

Success of the scheme is based on the expectation that Ken O'Dea, knowing that he is ticketed for the first string job, will be able to show that he is worthy of the promotion.

With Hartnett as a coach, Professor Charles Grimm will be surrounded by a four man faculty, a new high for a big league club. Whether all the advisers will be retained is doubtful. No. 1 man in the ranks of the assistants is Tony Lazzeri, who was signed by the Cubs after he received his unconditional release from the world champion Yankees last October. Like Hartnett, Lazzeri intends to do a little playing if and when opportunities arise. Other members of the board of strategy are John [Red] Corriden and Roy Johnson.

Another contract delivered in person yesterday bore the signature of Outfielder Tuck Stainback, who has been flitting about the country in the rôle of a gum salesman. Stainback will report at the training camp with the second squad March 3 and promptly start trying to nail down one of the two outfield jobs for which there are six other candidates.

Mr. Mungo Again.

The ascension of Larry McPhail to the job of business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers has put a different slant on the Cubs' job of completing the much discussed deal for Van Lingle Mungo, the fire balling right hander. McPhail's demands for the big fellow probably will be entirely different than the propositions set down at various times by the Brooklyn club in the last two months. McPhail now is flirting with the Cardinals, presumably with the idea of taking Dizzy Dean off the hands of the St. Louis club.

The last offer made to Brooklyn by the Cubs involved four players and cash. The deal never reached the point where the amount of money to be paid was brought up for discussion.

CARLETON IS PLEASED

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP)—James O. [Tex] Carleton needed only one look to decide he was satisfied with the contract the Chicago Cubs offered him today. He said two hours after receiving it that he would sign and return it.

"They gave me a good raise and I'm satisfied," was his comment. The Cub righthander won 16 games and lost 8 last season.

John Seys, Cub Vice President, Suffers Relapse

John O. Seys, vice president of the Cubs, was reported in a dangerous condition yesterday in Edgewater hospital. Seys was removed from his home Tuesday when pneumonia developed and Thursday night was placed in an oxygen tent. His condition was greatly improved yesterday morning, but he suffered a relapse in the afternoon and a heart stimulant was administered. Late last night a slight improvement was noted.

DiMaggio Says 'No' to $25,000; Ruppert Firm

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Joe Di Maggio became a holdout today when he refused to sign a contract which called for $25,000—a boost of $10,000 over his 1937 pay.

The Yankee slugger not only refused the offer, but walked from his meeting with Owner Ruppert without arranging for a future conference. According to Ruppert, the $25,000 figure is his final offer.

Their conference, held this morning at the Ruppert brewery with Business Manager Ed Barrow in attendance, was comparatively brief. Di Maggio, who arrived there at 10 o'clock, spent more time in the waiting room than in Ruppert's office. He sat there nearly three-quarters of an hour and remained in conference with Ruppert barely twenty minutes.

Joe Isn't Talkative.

Di Maggio would say little to newspaper men other than that he did not sign. Col. Ruppert told press representatives of the amount of the offer and of its finality, and took the occasion also to deny that Joe previously had been signed to a $25,000 contract.

Di Maggio, who received $15,000 last year, was offered $18,000 on the first contract submitted to him. This is reported to have been increased to $20,000 and then to $25,000 during the morning's conference. Joe was quoted some days ago as expecting $30,000.

Barrow announced that the veteran Pitcher Pat Malone had received his unconditional release, and that a deal had been made with Newark for Joe Gordon, who is expected to succeed Tony Lazzeri at second base.

IT'S IN THE BLOOD

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Dissension of the Di Maggios became a unanimous family affair today. All three of the brothers are baseball holdouts. Vince Di Maggio, outfielder of the Boston Bees and the oldest of the ball playing brothers, said today he was not satisfied with the contract he had received.

MOORE SIGNS WITH CARDS

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Dizzy Dean, Johnny Mize, and Joe Medwick may be missing from the St. Louis Cardinals' 1938 fold, but a visitor to the Cards' office today assured them of the services of a dependable outfielder. He was Terry Moore, who dropped in to sign his contract for the approaching season.

They're All Gay in Jim Braddock's Dressing Room

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—They had Jim Braddock's dressing room ready for morgue duty tonight but Braddock came back to turn it into a hilarious, almost delirious, meeting place.

So excited following his thrilling triumph over Tonypandy's Tommy Farr that he couldn't speak for a few minutes, Braddock was almost mobbed as he burst into his dressing room. Foremost among the greeters was Joe Di Maggio, star young New York Yankee outfielder, who lost his poker face for once. Joe hugged and even kissed the exultant Braddock.

"I won it myself, didn't I?" shouted Braddock. "Sure, I knew it was close, but I still had enough steam to roll down that home stretch. Maybe they should call me Young Jim Braddock after all. Farr is a good fighter and he can hit. But I won and I'm ready to fight any one Gould says."

Over in Farr's room all was dreary and a bit stormy. When he first entered Farr shouted madly: "I was bloody well robbed," but his ghost writer, a fellow who challenged newspapermen to fisticuffs, shut Tommy up until just before he put on his overcoat and stalked madly—and heartbrokenly—out of the dressing room.

"I'm confused," he said. "Guess I'll quit fighting and go back to the mines. If I can't win a fight like that, why, it's no use fighting, I guess."

Carbondale Teachers' Five Defeats St. Viator, 40 to 34

Carbondale, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Carbondale Teachers scored a 40 to 34 victory over St. Viator in an Illinois Intercollegiate conference basketball game tonight. Carbondale led 25 to 22 at the half. Max Parsons, Carbondale forward, was high scorer with 13 points.

EX-CHAMPION POUNDS FOE IN 9TH AND 10TH

BY JIMMY POWERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 21.—Old Jim Braddock summoned all the strength he could manage into his ageing limbs here tonight and came from behind to pound out a sensational ten round decision over Tommy Farr while a crowd of 17,369 stood on its chairs in Madison Square Garden and roared its delight.

Braddock was behind going into the ninth round, but he put on a gallant rally to take the decision. The action was so furious that at the final bell the two men stood toe to toe and slugged so enthusiastically they had to be pried apart by the referee and a brace of seconds from Braddock's corner.

Decision Angers Farr.

Farr was so angered by the decision that he refused to shake hands with Braddock and stalked down the steps out of the ring, leaving his bathrobe draped on the ropes behind him.

There were no knockdowns and most of the time the two men mauled each other in a semi-crouch. But something awakened Jim late in the evening, for he suddenly launched a succession of stinging left hooks and ripping right uppercuts.

Braddock, fighting for the first time since he was knocked out by Joe Louis last June 22, was cuffed and thumped for eight rounds. His left side was raw and his left ear was cut. He was craftily saving himself for a grand stand finish, however, and his strategy worked to perfection.

How They Voted.

Referee Johnny McAvoy gave four rounds to Braddock, four rounds to Farr, and two rounds even. But McAvoy voted for Braddock on the grounds that he won his rounds by decisive margins. Judge Lecrone gave six rounds to Braddock and four to Farr. Judge Lynch gave six rounds to Farr and four to Braddock.

Farr piled up points in the first two rounds, Braddock being slow and apparently easy to hit. Farr circled and crouched, pecking away at Braddock's stomach and occasionally firing a looping, overhead right to the jaw. It was one of those blows that cut Jim's ear.

In the third round Farr sank two low hooks below the belt. Referee McAvoy awarded the round to Braddock after his warnings were ignored by the Welshman. Braddock stopped midway in the round to remonstrate with Farr and wigwagged him to keep his punches higher. Then he beckoned the Briton to wade in and fight.

Braddock Lands Punches.

Braddock landed some effective punches in the fourth but the battle swung the other way in the fifth when Farr put on a spurt and became the aggressor. In this session Farr's nose began to bleed. In the sixth Braddock slugged Farr into a corner and bullied him against the ropes. It was showy, but little damage was done.

Farr stepped up the pace to take the seventh. His legs were stronger and he circled and weaved, causing Braddock to flounder and shoot wild rights.

Braddock Takes Offensive.

Braddock came out aggressively for the ninth. Abandoning his flatfooted stance, he moved in and out of range, circled his rival, and began to land blows with both hands. Farr grew surprised, then confused. He rushed in with head lowered, only to be nailed by right uppercuts or left hooks. He was belted to the ropes.

Through the tenth round also Braddock sustained that pace. He knew he had to take that last round decisively to have a chance. Though he didn't have much speed left, he pounded into Farr and outpunched the Briton at every exchange.

Perhaps This Was a Better Battle than Braddock's

The cause of the fight was a series of columns written by Powers entitled, "Snow Mike and the Seven Dwarfs." Result: A draw.

Cleveland Rams Sign Three Ohio State Players

Columbus, O., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Buzz Wetzel, general manager of the Cleveland Rams, National professional football league team, said tonight he had signed three Ohio State university players for the coming season. They are Charles Ream and Fred Crow, ends, and James R. Miller, half back.

Armstrong Adds Another Knockout to Long String

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 21.—(AP)—World Featherweight Champion Henry Armstrong made it 28 knockouts out of 29 of his last professional fights tonight when he added the name of Frankie Castillo, Los Angeles, to the list in the third round of a scheduled ten round overweight bout before a crowd of 2,500.

GOLDEN GLOVES BOXERS GIVEN PHYSICAL TEST

The first group of Chicago's Golden Gloves boxers last night reported at Trafton's gymnasium for physical examinations and assignment to the four sectional tournaments which will be held in Chicago before the opening of the Tournament of Champions.

For more than two hours a steady procession of amateur boxers passed before the examining physicians, registered with the Central association of the A. A. U., and then received their tickets of admission and instructions for the Chicago meets.

Choose Sections.

Last night's boxers were permitted to choose the section in which they wished to compete. Boys were registered for the west side tournament, which opens Feb. 9 at the Madison Athletic club, for White City, Marigold Gardens, and for the north side tournament at Loyola university.

Both Novice and Open division boxers were included in the examinations.

The second examination will be Monday night at the Catholic Youth Organization gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. C. Y. O. boxers only will be examined.

Examine 302 Entries.

Entries which have been received in the last few days now are being assigned to the third physical examination, which probably will not be until Jan. 31, although the officials have not set this date.

Three hundred and two appeared for last night's examinations. Only fifteen were rejected. The west side had the greatest representation with fifty-nine. The south section was next with fifty-four.

Best looking prospects in the open division included Andrew Fillmore, Savoy Athletic club featherweight; Earl Gibson, lightweight, of 2319 Jackson boulevard; Joe Kacmarek, 135 pounder, of 1650 West Huron street; Billy Gillespie, heavyweight, of 1829 Summerdale avenue; Orlando Trotter, Savoy light heavyweight, and Joe Matula, 1937 novice middleweight winner.

Packs a Punch.

Matula is representing the Polish Roman Catholic union. He has scored fourteen knockouts in twenty-three bouts in the last year and has graduated into the open class. He will compete as a light heavyweight in the northwest sectional tournament at Marigold. Joe showed his punching prowess by knocking out all three of his opponents to win a tournament at Davis Square park, 45th and Paulina streets, last July. He is employed in the meat curing department of Wilson & Co. at 40th street and Ashland avenue.

Harry Sobotnik, 6454 South Mozart street, was heaviest of last night's candidates. Harry, west section heavyweight winner in 1935, weighed in at 219 pounds. He is 6 feet 1 inch tall.

Ten members of the C. Y. O. reported, although examinations of the organization's standard bearers is not scheduled until Monday. They included Andrew Ronto and John Mackin, flyweights; Warren Fletcher and Edwin O'Grady, bantamweights; Jerry Frazier, Edward Reddington, Phil McGoldrick, and Robert Nebs, featherweights; Frank Sherry, welterweight, and Kenneth Gardner, middleweight.

BROWN, FERRELL TIE IN BASEBALL PLAYERS' GOLF

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Lloyd Brown and Wes Ferrell, a pair of pitchers, tied today for medal honors in the third annual baseball players golf tournament. A third, Dizzy Dean, who said he had bet $1,000 against $20,000 he would win, didn't even qualify for the top flight.

Brown, who throws lefthanded for Cleveland, fired a 75 today for a thirty-six hole total of 148. Yesterday's leader, Wes Ferrell of Washington, put a 76 alongside his 72 of yesterday. To give the pitchers the better of any arguments, Jack Russell—formerly of Washington, Boston, and Detroit—finished third with 74—78—152.

FOURTH RACE—

Loyola, De La Salle and St. Mel Juniors Win.

The Leo seniors defeated Mount Carmel, 30 to 28, last night to take the undisputed south section lead in the Catholic league basketball race, and Loyola upset Weber, 37 to 27, to permit St. George's seniors to go into a tie with Weber for the lead in the north section race.

St. George whipped Fenwick, 46 to 15, for its third victory in four starts. Leo's triumph was its fourth against no defeats. Mount Carmel's setback was its first of the season and dropped it out of a first place tie with the Leo quintet.

Loyola, St. Mel Win.

Loyola and St. Mel remained in a deadlock for the north section junior lead, each scoring its third victory against no losses. Loyola routed Weber, 34 to 22, while St. Mel was shading St. Patrick, 20 to 18. De La Salle held its south section lead with a 35 to 26 victory over Catholic of Joliet.

Chicago public high school junior and senior leaders, with one exception, triumphed on yesterday's thirteen game program. The Sullivan junior quintet was the only ranking entry to fall, going down before Lane, 50 to 27, in a north section contest.

Calumet Seniors Win.

Calumet's seniors won their second game in three starts in the south section race, defeating Parker, 31 to 28, in an overtime battle. After leading for most of the way, Calumet was forced to come from behind in the final minutes to send the game into overtime. Baskets by Glickauf and Burke and Condon's free throw clinched victory for Calumet in the extra period.

The Evanston quintets, Suburban league leaders, took a double defeat at the hands of Morton, the frosh-soph team falling, 18 to 15, and the heavyweights, 25 to 20.

HAWKS ARE HOME, BUT THE BRUINS WILL BE HERE, TOO

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawk management has announced that a mighty good hocky team will be in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night and that everybody is invited to come and pay, provided they don't expect too much of the home team. The good team we were just mentioning is named the Boston Bruins and the outfit is leading the National Hocky league.

As for the Hawks—they still are fine, willing young gentlemen, every last one willing to earn his pay if he only knew how. There is no dogging on the Blackhawks, according to the best confidential advices. Not as fiery as they were a while back, perhaps. But how would you feel if you had been shoved around rink after rink? Pretty downhearted, we guess.

Ah! Comes the Dawn.

The Hawks haven't won a contest in the six games they have played since they defeated the Montreal Maroons Jan. 10. Three ties in a row since that date deluded them into thinking they were rather good. Then came the dawn.

Last Sunday night the Maple Leafs defeated the Hawks, 7 to 2, making five goals in the third period. Tuesday night the Hawks were banged again, in Boston, 5 to 1, the Bruins making three goals in the last five minutes and three seconds. Thursday night the tail-end Detroit Red Wings were the whippers, 4 to 2, in Detroit, the Wings making their two-goal winning margin in the last 71 seconds of play.

Statistics show that during the six games since the Hawks won a victory Goalie Mike Karakas must have lost his paddle. In 21 games, including the last victory, earnest Mike had only 49 goals checked against him, a fair average. In 27 games Karakas has been scored against 72 times. In the six consecutive no victory string the Hawks have scored 12 goals to 23 scored against them.

The Fans Pay—and Pay.

A number of reasons have been advanced for the slump of the Hawks, but few of them cover the thought that the best hocky town on the North American continent has not been provided with a major league hocky ensemble. The fans, through their loyalty to the Hawks and their lay-it-on-the-line interest in hocky, appear to have discouraged the idea that Chicago should have a high class team. There appears to be no reason to spend a great deal of money in assembling a team when the fans will turn out in droves to see a mediocre outfit bowled over.

Although the harassed Hawks showed signs of weariness after the travel span which had them in sleeping cars seven nights out of ten, they responded to a practice call yesterday with a degree of zeal. They skated for an hour and a half and will go through another lengthy drill today.

The visit of the Bruins will be their second of the season. The Bostonese will be after their fourth straight victory over the Hawks, however.

Ross Sold on His Bruins.

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins said recently that in his opinion the great play of the Boston team this season was in a great measure due to the inspiration injected into the Bruin organization by the comeback of Eddie Shore, after a two season let down.

Manager Ross also says the present Boston team is in his opinion a greater team than his 1929-'30 unit which lost only five games in forty-four starts and which is tops so far as scoring is concerned in the league's history.

AMERICA'S CUP SAILOR TO SHOW RANGER MOVIES

Roderick Stephens Jr., a member of the afterguard on the America's cup winner Ranger last summer, will be guest of the Chicago Yacht club tonight at a lecture meeting in the Lake Shore Athletic club. Color movies will be presented by Mr. Stephens, showing the Ranger from its launching on through the cup series. Some of the movies were taken on deck during the races.

NORTH CENTRAL SWIMMERS BEAT WHEATON, 40-26

Led by Harold Henning, freshman, who won two first places, set a record in the 50 yard free style, and swam on the winning 200 yard free style medley team, North Central college defeated Wheaton, 40 to 26, yesterday in a swimming meet at Naperville.

Rodie, Stockings Win on Amateur Boxing Program

19 Nations File Challenge for '38 Davis Cup

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Nineteen countries have joined the 1938 competition for the Davis cup, it was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis association. Entries will close Jan. 31.

A total of twenty-four countries competed last year in the battle, which finally saw the United States regain possession of the cup. The defenders will meet the survivor of the interzone play at the Germantown Cricket club, Germantown, Pa., at a date to be announced later.

Japan heads the nations which are missing from the entry list. The Japanese team challenged in the North American zone in 1937, losing to the United States in the first round.

The present entry list includes sixteen teams in the European zone, and three—Canada, Mexico, and Australia—in the American zone. The European entries include Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Greece, India, Austria, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Poland, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Jugoslavia, and Hungary.

The draw for the interzone bracket will be made within three days after the entries close.

BEARS, REDSKINS KEEP ON HOPING FOR A DRY FIELD

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 21.—(AP)—It rained in the Cotton Bowl stadium tonight, but the weatherman still had hopes for brighter weather before the Washington Redskins and Chicago Bears, professional football teams, clash in an exhibition here Sunday.

The Bears held their last hard workout here today and from the way Sam Francis, full back who will replace Bronko Nagurski, booted punts around, it was evident Coach George Halas was preparing for a kicking duel on a wet field.

122d Artillery Risks Its Lead in Polo League

The lead in the Metropolitan Polo league, senior division, will be at stake tonight when the Chicago Ramblers ride against the 122d Field Artillery at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

Riding for the Ramblers will be Herb Lorber, Jim Hannah, and Steve Hammond.

Tied with the 124th Field Artillery for first, the 122d trio of Lieuts. Cliff Harrison, Art Zimmerman, and Carl Johnson can go into the lead by winning with a record of three victories and no defeats.

U. champions, upset Bob Quinn and John Stenson, Madison Athletic club, defending title holders, in the semi-finals of the state handball tournament last night at the Madison club. The scores in the three game set were 21-15, 16-21, 21-15.

Joe Platak, national doubles and singles champion, and Herb Jensen of Lake Shore, favorites to win the meet, were defeated by the Madison team of Dick Martin, police department and state singles title holder, and Paddy Cannon, city doubles champion. After winning the first game 21-7, Platak and Jensen dropped the next two, 14-21, 18-21.

The McCarthys and the Martin-Cannon team will meet for the title this afternoon. Last night's defeated teams will meet for third place, the game starting at 2:30.

He fell in the Knights of Columbus 800 meter test but came back last week to win the 1,000 yard run at the 69th regiment's games.

3 SHOOT 68s TO LEAD PASADENA OPEN GOLF MEET

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 21.—(AP)—A pair of New Yorkers, Paul Runyan and Jimmy Hines, and a California dark horse matched strokes today to dominate a field of 230 golfers competing in the first round of the $3,000 Pasadena open.

Runyan, Hines, and Harry Bassler of Long Beach came in with 68s to beat par by three strokes and take a slim lead into tomorrow's second 18 holes.

Smith, Revolta Tied.

In second place were Jimmy Thompson of Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa., Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., John Bulla of Chicago, and Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., all in the 69 bracket.

Sharing attention with the leaders was the abrupt withdrawal from the tournament of Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Snead, obviously off his game, went up in smoke and left in a cloud of temper as he, Thomson, and A. K. Bourne, Pasadena amateur sportsman, reached the 12th green. He had used up 41 strokes, five over par, on the first nine, and was getting no better when he halted.

Sammy Is Sorry.

An hour later Snead was all regret. "I'm terribly sorry. If I'd thought about it I wouldn't have done it," he drawled.

Listed among the 71s were three strong contenders, Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass.; Dick Metz of Lake Forest, Ill., and Art Bell of Pasadena.

IT'S ALL IN FUN

W-G-N PROGRAM MONDAY TO AID PARALYSIS FUND

Stage Celebrities to Be on Mutual Network.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

An all-star rally for the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation compaign is to be broadcast exclusively over W-G-N-Mutual from 7 to 7:30 p. m. Monday. Headliners will include Helen Hayes, Eugenie Leontovich, Joan Bennett, Mischa Auer, Ella Logan, and Milton Douglas, with Harold Stokes directing the W-G-N Dance orchestra and chorus. Miss Hayes is appearing here in "Victoria Regina," Miss Leontovich in "Tovarich," Miss Bennett in "Stage Door," and Miss Logan at the Chez Paree and Douglas at the Palmer house.

Kay Kyser's Kollege of Musical Knowledge, popular Monday night feature of W-G-N-Mutual from the Blackhawk restaurant, is to be sponsored on the Mutual network by the cigaret company that has Your Hit Parade and Your Hollywood Parade on other nets, starting Tuesday, Feb. 1. The show will be aired from W-G-N's audience studio from 7 to 7:45 p. m.

In broadcasting its coast to coast cricket contest Thursday evening, NBC resorted to airing previously recorded chirps in order to keep the program from being nothing more than a lull. Live crickets at both the New York and Hollywood ends of the network declined to go into action when confronted with a microphone. So the recorded notes were played.

In so doing NBC was hardly playing cricket with its own rules, which forbid the use of anything but live talent [except for sound effects]. Again and again the major networks have invoked this proscription of canned sound—once against the Dionnes, once against Hitler, and once against Senator Vandenberg, who sought to broadcast Franklin Roosevelt's campaign promises in recorded form.

Thus it seemed a bit ironic that NBC should choose to relax its ban on recordings just to plug the forthcoming film "Swiss Miss," in which a tenor is scheduled to sing the "Cricket's Song" in the Key of G, supported by a chorus of the insects.

The "man in the stratosphere" broadcast, scheduled for yesterday from a high level army air corps plane, was postponed because of unfavorable atmospheric conditions and has been reset for 3 p. m. today over WENR.

Tracks in the Snow

THE opossum, a slow moving and rather stupid furbearer that is found in Chicagoland, provides an easy lesson for the outdoor fan who wants to study tracks in the snow. This animal leaves an aimless, meandering trail. It toes outward when it walks. If the snow is just right to produce a good impression the five toes and the distinctive pad or "palm" of the foot may be seen quite easily.

The opossum doesn't care for cold weather and holes up when the temperature is low. But during milder weather he is quite active.

Follows Trail in Woods.

Last winter we followed the trail of an opossum on the experimental farm. There was about two inches of snow on the ground at the time. We were hiking through the woods when we found the snow track of the animal. We backtracked the trail to discover where the animal had come from. The tracks brought us to an oak tree at least 2½ feet in diameter. Here the snow indicated the animal had come down the trunk and dropped onto the ground. The 'possum apparently had spent the night in a hole in the tree.

Many 'possums are caught each year on the experimental farm with box traps. They are easy to catch with any kind of a trap. The simplest kind of a set baited with fish and meat will snare the animals.

Caught in Live Trap.

A fat, full grown opossum that left the woods to get a meal from a pile of meat scraps close to the barnyard was caught in one of the live traps this week. The flockmaster saw tracks around the meat one morning. He immediately set up one of the big traps that catch animals alive. The first catch was a prowling cat. The second morning he found the opossum. The meat inside of the trap had been all the lure needed to snare this animal.

Although the damage that a 'possum can inflict on bird life through destruction of eggs and young is not to be compared to that by a mink or weasel, this slow moving, night prowling marsupial destroys many nests of ground birds. There isn't much that the 'possum will pass by in the way of food. Bird eggs, insects, berries, roots, acorns, ripened corn on the stalk . . . almost anything attracts the 'possum when he starts prowling over a farm.

QUARTER'S LOSS SHOWN BY NASH KELVINATOR CO.

Old Dividend Rate Is Cut in Half.

The Nash-Kelvinator corporation yesterday reported a net loss for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1937, of $783,046. No accurate comparison with results for the corresponding quarter of the preceding year was available, because the company's fiscal year was changed to end Sept. 30 in 1937 instead of Nov. 30 as previously. The change was made to make the fiscal year coincide with the automobile model year.

George W. Mason finds business reviving

The Nash and Kelvinator companies were merged in January, 1937. For the period from Dec. 1, 1936, to Sept. 30, 1937, including Kelvinator operations from Jan. 4 to Sept. 30, the Nash-Kelvinator corporation had a net profit of $3,640,747, or 85 cents a share.

Dividend Cut in Half.

The company cut its dividend rate in half, ordering a payment of 12½ cents a share Feb. 21 to stockholders of record Jan. 31. Four quarterly dividends of 25 cents each were paid last year.

George W. Mason, president, said that, although business in the December quarter was unsatisfactory, there are now signs of increasing volume and improved business. He pointed out that the December quarter customarily marks lowest production for Kelvinator. Nash shipments for the quarter were 20,194 cars, compared with 20,497 in 1936.

The Chicago Mail Order company yesterday reported net profit for 1937 of $518,930, or $1.50 a share, a decrease of 47.67 per cent from 1936 profit of $991,610, or $2.86 a share. Sales last year were $26,406,685, a drop of 2.56 per cent from 1936.

Wages and Taxes Cut Profit.

E. M. Schnadig, president, in a statement to stockholders said the drop in earnings was due largely to increased wage rates, shorter working hours, social security taxes, and promotional expense to regain customers lost during the employes' strike in March. The sales decline was attributed to floods last February and the strike in March.

Albert Pick Company, Inc., Chicago supplier of equipment to hotels, restaurants, and hospitals, yesterday showed net profit for 1937 or $147,166, or 80 cents a common share after preference dividends, compared with net of $78,623, or 40 cents a share, in the corresponding 1936 period.

Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum company, said yesterday that preliminary figures indicate the company's earnings for 1937 will be about $5.40 a share. In 1936 the company had net profit of $17,875,489, or $4.22 a share on the average number of shares outstanding during the year.

Keystone Steel Earns Less.

Net income of the Keystone Steel and Wire company for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1937, was $235,919, or 31 cents a share, according to the company's report issued yesterday. This compared with net income of $378,805, or 50 cents a share, in the corresponding 1936 six months. For the last quarter of 1937, the company had net income of $32,226, or 4 cents a share, against $153,099, or 20 cents a share, in the final 1936 quarter.

The Peter Fox Brewing company, St. Louis, yesterday reported net income in the six months ended Dec. 31, 1937, of $102,224, or 86 cents a common share, compared with income of $118,885, or $1.08 a common share, in the corresponding six months of the preceding year.

Julius Kayser & Co., New York, hosiery and glove maker, yesterday reported net income for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1937, of $102,973, or 23 cents a common share. This compared with net income of $201,885, or 48 cents a share, in the preceding quarter, and $251,757, or 60 cents a share, in the December quarter of 1936.

Fix Coal Price Above What Mines Want

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

How the railroads are forced to pay higher prices for locomotive coal than certain producers wish to charge for it is disclosed in a brief filed with the national bituminous coal commission at Washington, D. C., in behalf of Illinois strip mines.

The Illinois strip mine operators contend that before the minimum coal price schedule set up by the commission under authority of the Guffey-Vinson coal act went into effect on Dec. 16 they were making a satisfactory profit on coal sold to the railroads. The minimum schedule forced them to increase prices on their coal, which, while satisfactory, is not of as good quality as coal obtained from deep mines through shafts in southern Illinois.

Handicap to Strip Mines.

The increases put the strip mine coal on the same price level as the better quality southern Illinois coal, thereby setting up a competitive handicap which the strip mines say they cannot overcome.

Some of the strip mines have modern machinery which enables them to produce coal at much lower cost than that in the deep shaft mines. The United Electric Coal Companies, which is one of the strip companies objecting to the commission's minimum price schedule, last November placed in operation near Canton, Ill., gigantic electric machinery for mining coal at low cost. This coal lies near the surface and is exposed when a small amount of earth is stripped from above it.

This company contends that apart from its new operation, in years before the minimum price schedule went into effect it was able to sell coal to the railroads at $1.90, $1.70, and $1.60 a ton at a satisfactory profit. These prices are 25 cents, 45 cents, and 5[illegible] cents, respectively, under the $2.15 minimum price now in effect.

Expect Loss of Business.

United Electric and other Illinois strip mines, of which there are more than twenty, contend that they will lose all their business with the railroads, which accounted for a large part of their volume, unless they get relief from the price boost.

United Electric with other companies is asking that it be permitted to reduce locomotive fuel price and that it be permitted to assume a part of the freight rate on coal sold to railroads which do not serve its strip mines. The practice of permitting a mine to assume a part of the freight rate on coal sold to railroads which did not serve the mines was permitted in the past, it was said.

At a time when the Illinois strip mines are asking that they be permitted to reduce their prices for locomotive fuel, the railroads are asking a general 15 per cent increase in freight rates. One of their principal arguments is that their fuel bill has been greatly increased, partly as the result of higher labor costs and also as a result of the price boost forced on them by the coal commission.

TEXAS ORDERS OIL FIELDS TO CLOSE SUNDAYS

Austin, Tex., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—All oil fields in the state have been ordered shut down each Sunday for six weeks, starting Jan. 23, by the Texas railroad commission as a result of the rapidly increasing gasoline stocks, it was announced today.

Gasoline stocks have been rising steadily for the last six weeks, and this is the season when consumption is about the smallest of the year. The commission made no change in the proration allowable for February, since it was estimated that the Sunday shutdown would bring production in line with conservation requirements.

Several months ago wells in the east Texas field were shut down for four consecutive Sundays, but this is the first extension of the policy to the remainder of the state.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric company, was designated today by the Federal Reserve board as chairman and Federal Reserve agent for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for the remainder of the year. Young has been deputy chairman and acting chairman for about two years. The reserve board has wished to appoint him chairman for some time and finally he agreed to take the post.

He was dean of the social science division of the University of Chicago from 1931 to 1933 and a member of the social science research council and the American Statistical association.

The board also named Edmund E. Day of Ithaca, president of Cornell university, as a class C director of the bank.

ILLINOIS CITIES REPORT DECLINE IN NEW BUILDING

Building permits issued in 113 Illinois cities during December, 1937, were less in number and dollar value than both the preceding months of November and December, 1936.

According to the monthly survey of the Illinois department of labor 758 permits, with a total estimated value of $3,535,804, were issued last month. These compare with 1,873 permits, valued at $5,507,123 in November, and with 1,415 permits, totaling $6,027,734 in December, 1936.

Residential building also declined in December, 1937, as compared with the same month the year before and with the November, 1937, figures. Permits were issued last month for 134 new home units, costing $953,650. In November there were 306 permits, for homes costing $1,943,540. In December, 1936, permits for 290 home units were issued, costing $2,012,630.

Building of all types for the entire year of 1937 increased both in number and value over the preceding year. There were 25,683 permits, for buildings costing $78,550,798 issued last year. These compare with 23,120 permits, costing $64,907,778, in 1936.

REPORT 300,000 MEN LOSE JOBS IN DECEMBER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The labor department reported today that employment dropped about 300,000 last month under the November total. Weekly pay rolls were down $15,800,000.

The employment decline was the largest for that month since 1920. In the manufacturing industry 79 industries out of 89 reported decreases totaling 520,000, with a decrease in weekly pay rolls of $17,600,000. Gains in some other lines partially offset these declines.

Despite the figures Secretary Perkins said there were a unmber of "favorable factors" in the present situation. She listed them as a reduction in inventory, the disposition of many manufacturers to keep their plants in operation and to keep wage scales up, the advent of unemployment insurance benefits and the proposed housing program.

Samuel Scovil, 80, Elected Cleveland Bank Chairman

Cleveland, O., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Samuel Scovil, 80 years old, today was elected chairman of the board of the Society for Savings bank, largest mutual bank in the middlewest. John H. Dexter, having completed 50 years of Cleveland banking, declined re-election.

French Franc Weak Again; British Pound Unchanged

The French franc was weak again yesterday, dropping .03 cent in New York to close at 3.31 cents. Other foreign currencies were slightly lower in relation to the dollar. The British pound was an exception, closing unchanged.

Car Loadings Make Gain for Another Week

Freight trafic of the nation's railroads improved for the second successive week during the period ended Jan. 15. It also was the second week in which a more than seasonal gain was recorded, but the number of cars loaded by the various roads continued to be considerably less than either one or two years ago.

Figures released yesterday by the Association of American Railroads showed that 580,600 cars of revenue freight were loaded last week. This represented an increase of 28,286 cars from the preceding week.

Loadings Below Year Ago.

The total still was 115,435 cars less than in the corresponding week in 1937. The number of cars loaded in the week ended Jan. 8 was 147,732 less than in the corresponding week of last year.

	Wk. ended.	Change from
	Jan. 15.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Misc.	200,874	+ 2,006	—62,071
Mdse. lcl	141,252	— 884	—19,677
Coal	131,350	+20,863	—29,828
Grain	42,393	+ 2,721	+10,911
Live stock	15,219	+ 578	— 549
Forest	25,871	+ 1,645	— 5,898
Ore	772	+ 1,318	— 3,371
Coke	6,869	+ 39	— 4,952

Clearing Loadings Increase.

Loadings in the Clearing Industrial district adjoining Chicago's southwest side totaled 82,763 cars during 1937, an increase of 5 per cent over the 78,879 cars in 1936, and 29 per cent over the 1935 figure of 64,172 cars.

The Belt Railway of Chicago, which announced the figures, said the last quarter of 1937 was the first quarter since 1935 in which a gain was not recorded over the previous year. It added that seven new industries acquired by the district in 1937 are expected to affect 1938 loadings favorably.

ONLY SEVEN OF 466 FIRMS CUT PAY DURING SLUMP

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Only 7 of 466 companies covered in a survey cut wages in adjusting policies to the 1937 business slump, the national industrial conference board reported today. The board said 376 companies stated in replying to a questionnaire they planned no immediate reductions in either wages or salaries.

Four went on record as having reduced salaries. A total of 285 cut both hours and the number of employés, 91 cut working hours solely and 46 concentrated on layoffs.

Despite the drastic drop in production generally, 52 were shown to be still operating at peak levels in the period surveyed, and 120 had dropped 50 per cent or more from the 1937 operating peaks.

The study, based on operations from Dec. 15 to Dec. 25, covered employers of 600,000 persons.

U. S. REVENUES RISE DESPITE TRADE SLUMP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The treasury said today that despite the business recession internal revenue collections were 52.7 per cent higher in the last six months of 1937 than in the last half of 1936.

Although nearly half of the increase was due to social security taxes, the so-called nuisance taxes produced nearly 63 per cent more revenue and most other taxes except those on liquor also increased.

Total internal revenue collections, which do not include customs, amounted to $2,828,294,030 in the last half of 1937, an increase of $963,893,248 over the corresponding period in 1936.

ALUMINUM ANTI-TRUST SUIT AWAITS JUDGE WITH A YEAR TO SPARE

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Trial of the anti-trust suit to dissolve the Aluminum Company of America and its billion dollar organization cannot begin before April 4, according to Federal Judge John C. Knox, and will not start then unless a federal judge can be found who is "willing to give a year of his time to this case." He met with attorneys to set the opening date of the trial.

Judge Knox smiled as he said this, half seriously, but it was pointed out to assembled counsel that the only other action in this district comparable in magnitude to the Aluminum company case was the suit to dissolve the sugar institute, a job which lasted for two years, took six and a half months of actual trial spread over eleven months, and was concluded with a 100,000 word opinion by Judge Julian W. Mack.

Charles Evans Jr., appearing for the Aluminum company, estimated the length of time required for the trial at not less than two months, maybe more. Walter L. Rice, special assistant to the attorney general, said the case "might go on forever" unless counsel could arrive at some understanding as to the production of exhibits and interrogatories.

U. S. PAYS VAST SUM FOR GOLD, SILVER IN 1937

Of the gold purchases, $1,309,590,000 came from foreign countries. This movement of gold toward the United States, however, has been virtually halted in the last two months.

The silver purchases included 241,545,400 ounces of foreign silver, bought at the world price of 45 cents an ounce. A price of 77.57 cents an ounce was paid for 70,625,300 ounces of newly mined domestic silver and 50 cents was paid for a small amount of old silver held in this country. This year the treasury has reduced to 64.64 cents the price for new domestic silver.

The commerce department reported today that gold imports during the week ended Jan. 14 amounted to $957,206, the smallest for any week in many months. No gold exports were recorded during the week.

Silver imports mounted during the week to $6,622,644, due to continued heavy shipments of Chinese coin through England and large shipments from Mexico.

PERE MARQUETTE NET OPERATING INCOME FALLS

The Pere Marquette railroad yesterday reported December net operating income of $84,952, against $785,722 in December, 1936. For all of 1937 net operating income was $4,461,045, against $5,578,349 in 1936. The 1937 surplus after all fixed charges was $1,664,032, against $2,752,506 for 1936.

A preliminary report showed that the Texas and Pacific had 1937 net income of $2,440,627, equal to $3.24 a share on the common stock, against $2,263,973, or $2.78 a share, in 1936. December net income was $66,122, against $308,929 a year ago.

The first five roads to report on net operating income for December had a decline of 67.2 per cent from December, 1936, and 37.9 from December, 1935.

Automobile Production Shows Decline This Week

Output of American and Canadian automobile plants this week was estimated yesterday at 65,418 vehicles by Ward's Automotive Reports. This compared with 65,735 last week and 73,509 in the corresponding period last year. The agency said that several plants are planning to curtail production and February production will probably fall below the January total.

URGES MIDWEST SHARE IN STEEL WORK FOR NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Representative Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] said today that he would propose legislation requiring steel for the construction of naval vessels to be fabricated in the interior part of the country.

Rep. Scott W. Lucas.

Mr. Lucas declared that the interior section of the country is entitled to the navy's steel business, or a good part of it, because all shipbuilding is done on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts and all sailors' wages are spent on the coasts.

Despite the fact that ships cannot be constructed in the interior part of the country, the navy has been purchasing no steel from the great Illinois-Indiana producing district, Mr. Lucas said. Furthermore, a glance at the records indicates that a major part of the navy's steel is fabricated in Pennsylvania, which also benefits from the public and private shipyards located on its rivers.

East Gets Most Business.

The latest figures available, compiled in 1934 by Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chief of the navy's bureau of construction and repair, showed the distribution of naval expenditures by states for the fiscal year 1932. The states receiving the lion's share were New York, $80,885,887; Pennsylvania, $61,074,219; California, $25,600,844; Massachusetts, $25,324,708; Virginia, $20,780,307; District of Columbia, $18,051,501, and New Jersey, $11,044,761.

For the same fiscal year only $6,576,522 was spent in Illinois and $2,902,159 in Indiana, while both are great steel producing states. The data supplied by Admiral Land did not contain a breakdown by commodities, but it did show the kinds of commodities purchased in each state.

Illinois, Indiana Ignored.

Structural iron and steel were purchased in Alabama, California, Delaware, Maryland, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Vermont. None was purchased in Illinois or Indiana. In Illinois the navy purchased only machinery, metal fixtures, fittings and valves, and hardware and tools. In Indiana it purchased only machinery, lumber, cork, and rubber, and electrical equipment.

Mr. Lucas acquired his data too late for an attempt to amend the 553 million dollar naval appropriation bill passed by the house today, a measure which makes available 184 million dollars for the construction of new warships. However, he said he was studying the matter with a view to offering an amendment when President Roosevelt's supplemental message, calling for a new naval construction program, comes up. The amendment he has in mind would require that a certain percentage of all steel used in the construction of the ships be fabricated in the interior part of the country.

Indorsed by Van Nuys.

Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] also indorsed the Lucas proposal, calling it reasonable and fair, and said he might offer an amendment when the house navy bill reaches the senate.

"I have made an examination of the breakdown of these figures and they are startling, to say the least, when one realizes that the great steel mills of the Illinois-Indiana district did not fabricate a single foot for these purposes," said Representative Lucas. "There must be some reason, but in view of the fact that this is a government problem and the government should be interested in the country as a whole, some steps should be taken, in the form of legislation if necessary, to give the steel mills of our section and the workingmen of our section an equal opportunity to share in this business."

ILLINOIS COAL OUTPUT RISES; STILL UNDER '36

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 21.—(AP)—James McSherry, director of the mines and minerals department, said today that Illinois coal mines produced 5,221,852 tons in December, a gain of 731,981 tons over November, but 321,713 tons below December, 1936.

A total of 152 mines operated in December, 127 shaft mines employing 31,821 men producing 4,000,790 tons and 25 strip mines employing 2,801 men producing 1,221,062 tons. McSherry said the state's strip mines produced 48,502,470 tons last year, an increase of 848,927 tons over 1936.

Franklin county led in December production, 6,895 men in thirteen mines producing 1,068,629 tons.

Stock Prices Turn Lower; Trade Light

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 21.—Stock prices declined fractions to about 3 points today in light trading. Profit taking and unfavorable metal market news were said to have contributed to the downturn. Sales totaled only 791,410 shares.

The market was mixed during the early trading, but at midday some of the steel issues were bid up. They soon met pressure, however, and closed at losses running to more than 2 points. United States Steel common, Bethlehem, Youngstown, and Republic were leaders.

Rails Turn Downward.

Ignoring a sharper than seasonal expansion in car loadings, rails turned lower after displaying relative steadiness in the early part of the session. Losses in the favorite issues, including Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, Union Pacific, and New York Central, ranged from fractions to two points.

Conspicuous in the rail group was the selling in New York, Chicago, and St. Louis common and preferred shares. The common dropped 3¾ points and the preferred 6½ points.

Strength in the rubber shares enlivened dealings for a time. U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, and Goodrich were bid up a point or so, but the last two gave way with the general list. U. S. Rubber held ¾ point of its gain.

Gold Stocks Decline.

Gold mining shares were heavy, realizing operations checking the recent buying flurry. Homestake slumped 3 points. Dome Mines gave up 1¾ points and others fractions.

Anaconda, Kennecott, International Nickel, and American Smelting led the copper group into lower territory. Losses ran close to two points.

Motor stocks reflected reports of reduced operations in the body plants of Chrysler and General Motors. Stock of the former company wilted three points with supply outstripping demand. General Motors dropped 1½ points. Yellow Truck again was most active issue and gave up a fraction.

Aviation Group Weak.

Douglas, off 1¼ points, paced the aviation shares to lower ground. Most losses were fractional, except for Wright Aero, which slumped 4 points.

Farm implement shares dropped fractions to 1½ points. Chemicals lost up to 2½ points. Montgomery Ward, off 1⅛, was a weak spot in the merchandising group. Westinghouse and General Electric dropped 2 and 1⅜ points, respectively. Communications and utilities were not much changed. Liquor stocks were mixed in a fractional range.

MEXICAN TARIF BOOST DISTURBS SECRETARY HULL

"I am sorry and disappointed," he told reporters, "to see any country find itself in a position where it feels compelled to raise already high trade barriers with their ultimate hurtful effects, just at a time when most of the nations of the world are giving increasing attention to the lessening of trade barriers and the promotion of prosperity and peace through increased trade. The mere increase of the obstacles to trade does not and cannot solve economic difficulties."

Mexico's decree was reported to raise tarifs 100 to 500 per cent. The purpose, dispatches said, was to make Mexico more self-sufficient.

Hull said that "this government has the matter under study," but did not indicate what action, if any, would be taken.

Fastest Chicago-Pittsburgh Train Will Start Jan. 30

The fastest train service between Chicago and Pittsburgh in the history of the run will be started on Jan. 30 by the Pennsylvania railroad. The train, the Golden Triangle, will leave Chicago at 11:15 p. m. and arrive in Pittsburgh at 9 a. m. eastern time. It will make the run in 8 hours and 45 minutes, 30 minutes faster than the present fastest train between the two cities.

ILLINOIS GROUP URGES REPEAL OF SURPLUS TAX

Money Needed for Supplies, Pay Rolls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—David R. Clarke, general counsel of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, told the house of representatives ways and means committee today that "it is vital that the undistributed profits tax be repealed" if industrial employment is to be continued or increased. He is one of a number of industrial leaders who have appeared to testify on the disadvantages of this tax.

David R. Clarke.

Clarke said that during the last four months Illinois manufacturing industries had been hard hit by an abrupt decline in orders in the wake of which was a decrease in production and employment. He said the manufacturers with the orders and money on hand had continued on a higher level of production and employment than was necessary to fit the abrupt reduction in demand. There is not sufficient available money to cushion against this recession much longer, he said.

Urges Outright Repeal.

He urged outright repeal of the undistributed profits tax and immediate revision of the capital gains tax so that there will be money for materials and pay rolls and confidence that manufactured goods will produce a profit commensurate with the risk involved.

"We are convinced," Clarke said, "that the tax on capital gains should be so thoroughly revised that investors will feel that they have a chance to realize an attractive profit if they hazard their capital. If you know in advance that investment in a certain enterprise is hazardous and that the tax collector will take a large part of the profit, then you won't put the money into that enterprise, which it must have to provide jobs that new and expanded industrial operations give to factory workers.

"Mere Shift Won't Do."

"Furthermore it will not do merely to shift the form of tax burdens. You cannot expect to do much to relieve the industries of the blighting effect of tax burdens if you insist upon taking away from them the same amount in taxes.

"The only thing that can take the place of stifling tax burdens on industry is the resumption of industrial operations and of employment. The government cannot possibly support the factory workers of the country, but revived and expanded industry can."

A house tax subcommittee's proposal to place a special tax on family and other closely held corporations was criticized by business men. H. Boardman Spalding, New York, representing the National Association of Manufacturers, told the ways and means committee the levy would place a special burden on "the very type of business which it would seem to be sound public policy to encourage."

Adds Another Big Tax.

A provision worked out by the subcommittee would compel closely held firms, after paying a 16 to 20 per cent undistributed profits tax and taking certain deductions, to pay another surtax of 20 per cent on remaining income.

Spalding said it would affect companies having profits of $100,000 to $500,000, "which are the very type of business corporations that it is desirable to encourage." Many must reinvest more than 30 per cent of earnings in their businesses if they are to expand, he said .

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Renewed pressure on the rail group sent the bond market lower today. For a time some rails declined and others rose briskly, but near the close many of the gains disappeared.

The Associated Press rail average declined 0.4 of a point to 65.1, a new low since Nov. 23, 1933. The industrial average also dropped 0.4 and utilities had a small gain.

Early cross currents in the rail dealings were believed to reflect a general shifting of investment and trading positions, but the news background continued unfavorable. December returns so far indicated that class one carriers would show another heavy decrease in net operating income.

Losses ran from 1 to about 5 points in Great Northern 4½s at 84, Nickel Plate 4½s at 46¼, Boston and Maine 4⅝s at 32, Alleghany corporation 5s, 1949, at 63, and Erie 5s, 1975, at 18. Erie 6s, 1957, rose about 4 on a small transaction. Southern Railway issues improved fractionally.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were quiet and uneven yesterday. Of the 67 issues traded, 18 advanced, 27 declined, and 22 were unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Stock of the City National Bank and Trust company was bid up $2 a share yesterday, and shares of both the Northern Trust company and the Merchandise National bank was quoted $5 higher. First National bank shares regained another $1 or its losses earlier this week. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company dipped $1.

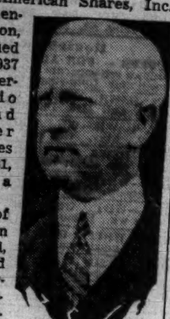
BIG INVESTING FIRMS SHIFT STOCK HOLDINGS

Report Sharp Declines in Asset Values.

Several investing companies, including Selected American Shares, Inc., and Tri-Continental corporation, yesterday issued reports for 1937 showing numerous portfolio changes and sharply lower net asset values as of Dec. 31, compared with a year earlier.



Max Adler.

Shifting of stock holdings in the industrial, railroad, and utility fields during 1937 was reported by Selected American Shares, Inc. Net assets of the company on Dec. 31, 1937, at market values, were $8,310,207, or $8.64 a share, compared with net assets equivalent to $15.39 a share at the end of 1936.

Outstanding Shares Increase.

Max Adler, president, in a statement to stockholders, said that the total number of outstanding shares increased during the year from 748,463 to 961,120.

"The country experienced during the latter half of the year, an unprecedentedly rapid deterioration in business activity, as well as sharp declines in the quoted values of stocks, bonds, and commodities," Adler said. "The result was that net assets per share, as well as total net assets of the company, declined during 1937."

Net income from investments was $424,419, or 44 cents a share on 961,120 shares, compared with net investment income in 1936 or $340,826, or 45 cents a share on 748,463 shares.

The company had cash on Dec. 31, 1937, of $864,473, compared with $377,124 a year earlier.

TVA Activities Are Legal, Court of Appeals Decides

All of Its Operations Held Constitutional; Plan Final Fight.

Navigation and flood control drew the comment:

"The overwhelming weight of testimony supports defendant's contention that the mandatory provisions of the statute that navigation and flood control be given primary consideration . . . is at all times scrupulously followed and that the statute is neither violated nor exceeded.

"The contention that the statute and the unified project authorized are a sham and pretense is without foundation. It cannot be disputed that the river is navigable . . . . We are not at liberty to conclude the river is not susceptible of development as an important waterway . . . nor that it cannot be regulated so as to assist substantially in the control of floods . . . ."

As to the utilities' contention that TVA activities constituted an invasion of states' rights, the court said, "the actions which the complainants attack are authorized by the states themselves."

View on State Rights.

"It is a strange doctrin that acts authorized by a sovereign state constitute interference with its sovereign rights because of the fact that they are also authorized by the federal government," the opinion added. "We think that deliberate coöperation between the state and the United States, authorized in each case by both the state and legislature and by the congress, constitutes no abdication of any state right.

"Since the United States has acquired these dam sites legally, the water power, the right to convert it into electric energy, and the energy produced constitute property belonging to the United States. This electric energy may be rightfully disposed of by the United States through the action of congress."

Based on Previous Rulings.

The TVA based its defense chiefly on the decisions of the United States Supreme court in the Boulder dam and Ashwander cases. The court held in these rulings that the federal government had the power to dispose of power produced in connection with its flood control and navigation projects. While the hearing was in progress the Supreme court handed down another ruling upholding the legality of PWA loans for the construction of municipal power plants.

The suit was filed originally in Knoxville Chancery court by nineteen utilities. Later the Georgia Power company was excluded because it had filed a similar suit in Georgia.

The litigation was removed to federal court at the request of the TVA. A year ago Judge Gore issued a temporary injunction halting most TVA activities. That injunction was dissolved by the circuit court, which said both the TVA and public would suffer if it remained in force.

More than 150 million dollars has been spent by the TVA since it started in 1933. The three completed dams cost about 115 million dollars.

More than a billion and three-quarters kilowatt hours of electricity have been sold by the TVA since 1934. Its gross income on the power disposed of totaled about $4,000,000.

Market Action Awaited.

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Wall Street tonight awaited tomorrow's stock market for a clew as to how the financial community would receive the federal court's decision upholding the Tennessee Valley authority's power program. The decision was handed down after the close of the New York Stock exchange.

The financial community generally believed utility securities, weak for some time, had discounted in great measure the possibility of a decision upholding the government.

N. Y. CURB WINS UNLISTED TRADE IN 12 SECURITIES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The Securities commission today granted applications of the New York Curb exchange for unlisted trading in twelve securities and denied similar applications on seven others. Denials were based on the ground the exchange had not demonstrated existence of a sufficiently widespread public distribution of securities "in the vicinity" of the exchange.

"The claim of the curb exchange to a vicinity including the whole United States is not sustained," the commission ruled.

Among the applications granted were Cudahy Packing company first mortgage sinking fund bonds, series "A" 3¾ per cent due Sept. 1, 1935, and Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, first and refunding mortgage 4 per cent bonds, series "D," due June 1, 1961.

HIGH COURT TO GET COMPULSORY UNIONISM CASE

New York, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court soon will have an opportunity to decide for the first time whether a worker can be discharged if he refuses to join a labor union with which his employer has signed a closed shop contract.

Counsel for the six New York City subway employés who do not want to belong to a labor union and who lost their case in the Court of Appeals of New York State last Tuesday announced today that Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes had signed an order granting a stay in the dispute involving the right of the men's employers to sign a closed shop contract.

COURT DECISION HIGHLIGHTS OF BIG POWER FIGHT

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Following are highlights of the three judge federal court decision here today giving the Tennessee Valley authority a victory over 18 southeastern private utilities:

"We conclude that since none of the complainants claims to operate under an exclusive franchise, no fraud, malice, coercion, or conspiracy exists."

"The bill charges a conspiracy to injure or destroy the complainants' business, to compete unlawfully, to breach the complainants' existing contracts with their customers, to compel and coerce complainants to sell their plants at distress figures.

"But these allegations have not been established. None of the complainants has sold its property except those covered by the contract of Jan. 4, 1934, a contract entered into at arm's length and not even challenged by complainants as unfair. Since complainants have not sold, they have not been coerced to sell their properties and the negotiations for sale presented in this record do not evidence acts deemed coercion under settled legal principles. No malice in law is shown on this record."

"Neither has unlawful competition been proved. The attempt to show that the authority has endeavored to persuade complainants' customers to breach their existing contracts for purchase of power from complainants has totally failed. In every such case the change of relationship has occurred at a time when no contract with any of the complainants was in existence. In fact, it is shown that the TVA does not serve the complainants' customers with direct service except as to industrials and ceded areas."

"The TVA serves certain cities and customers formerly served by the Alabama Power company, but all of these customers are situated or reside within certain counties called the 'ceded area' in which it was contracted in the agreement of Jan. 4, 1934, by the Alabama Power company that its lines should be sold to the TVA within that area, and that the TVA should serve within that district and nowhere else in Alabama. The TVA is serving nowhere else in Alabama except within this area. The Mississippi Power company has made a similar contract with the TVA, and the TVA is not serving outside of the 'ceded area' in Mississippi."

"The complainants allege that the defendants have conspired with the Public Works administration to finance the construction of duplicating distribution lines and systems in various municipalities and coöperatives for the purpose of using TVA power and selling that power at rates so low as to constitute competition destructive to complainants' business.

"The facts do not establish a conspiracy. It is not questioned that loans were made within the provisions of the Public Works administration statute. The validity of that statute is not attacked in this proceeding, and we therefore assume that it is valid. The acts done by Secretary Ickes and his subordinates have been done under the purview of the controling statute. Their acts are presumed to be valid. Where no fraud, malice, or coercion is shown, coöperative action by two groups of public officials in administering the provisions of two statutes does not constitute conspiracy."

"The record shows that the sales of every one of these complainants and the proceeds of these sales have reached an all time high in recent years. Several of the most important complainants recently extended their lines, built new plants, and acquired new equipment. The authority concedes that it sells, or intends to sell, power within a 250 mile radius of the claimed operation of each of these companies, from some one of the dams, built or proposed in the TVA unified plan, at substantially lower rates, residential, industrial, and rural, than those of the complainants, and that some displacement of service will result."

"It is the principal contention of the complainants that this statute is a sham, pretense, and fraud, and these dams as built and planned cannot and will not be operated within the statute. We therefore consider the actual operation of the dams.

"The overwhelming weight of the testimony supports defendants' contention that the mandatory provision of the statute that navigation and flood control be given primary consideration both at the other dams, built and planned, and at the Norris dam, is at all times scrupulously followed and that the statute is neither violated nor exceeded.

"Since no fraud, coercion, conspiracy, or malice is shown, and since the authority has acted within the provisions of the statute under consideration, unless the statute itself is unconstitutional the dams are lawfully erected, the energy is lawfully created, and the water power is the property of the United States."

WHEAT LOWEST IN TWO WEEKS; CORN ADVANCES

"Spreading" Operations Help Coarse Grain.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Thurs.	Yr.ago.
Wheat	$0.94½	$0.95⅞	$1.27⅝
Corn	.80⅞	.80⅜	1.08
Oats	.31⅞	.32¼	.49¼
Rye	.74¼	.74⅝	1.07
Soy beans	1.04¾	1.05	1.57

Wheat prices declined ⅞ to 1⅜ cents a bushel yesterday to the lowest level in more than two weeks, but corn futures gained small fractions of a cent. Buying of corn against sales of wheat in spreading operations was partly responsible for the relative strength in the former grain.

Trading in futures was extremely quiet in all pits until the last hour of the session, when professional operators started spreading operations between wheat and corn. This trading disclosed a lack of support in wheat and only light offerings in corn.

The decline in wheat was accentuated by reports of snowstorms in the Texas panhandle and light rains in eastern Oklahoma.

Wheat Higher at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg wheat futures closed ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel lower. There were no export sales of North American cash wheat reported yesterday, although the United Kingdom and the continent purchased nearly 1,000,000 bushels from Australia. Liverpool futures closed ⅛ to ⅝ cent a bushel higher.

A large part of the buying of corn against sales of wheat was in the July delivery, resulting in the May delivery or the former grain developing relative weakness and selling 1 cent a bushel under the July contract, compared with ⅞ cent premium earlier in the month. Cash interests were aggressive buyers of May corn against sales of the July delivery late in the session, which was regarded as the changing over of hedges into the distant future.

Corn Exports Moderate.

Export sales of American corn yesterday were estimated at 200,000 bushels, but the trade was disappointed over the small business in view of the reports that Argentine grain for January shipment was quoted at a premium of nearly 10 cents a bushel over American corn in the Liverpool market.

Receipts of corn at terminal markets have fallen sharply recently. Arrivals for the week ended Jan. 21 were 7,576,000 bushels, or 5,102,000 bushels less than during the preceding week and comparing with 2,819,000 bushels during the corresponding period last year. Shipments of corn for the week at 6,028,000 bushels showed little change from the preceding week.

NEW YORK GETS LOWER RATES ON ITS FINANCING

The city of New York yesterday sold to a banking syndicate headed by the Bank of the Manhattan company $22,500,000 in short term obligations at a cash interest cost to the city of $44,004. The obligations consisted of $7,500,000 in special revenue bills due in ninety days at an interest rate of .25 per cent, $10,000,000 in bond anticipation notes due in ninety days at .28 per cent, and $5,000,000 in tax anticipation notes due in a year at .65 per cent. The one year notes were reoffered at prices to yield .45 per cent.

Controler McGoldrick of New York said the rates for the borrowing appear to be the lowest the city has ever obtained. In the financial district they were seen as evidence of the need of banks and other institutions to invest increasing idle funds.

Canada Estimates Wheat Crop Lowest Since 1914

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The dominion bureau of statistics, in its third estimate of Canada's 1937 grain crop, today placed the wheat harvest at 182,410,000 bushels on an acreage of 25,570,200. This represented the smallest crop since 1914 and the fifth successive harvest of less than 300,000,000 bushels. The third estimate was 95,000 bushels lower than the second. The 1937 oat production was estimated at 268,442,000 bushels, lowest since 1910.

Silver.

Silver has long been a subject of economic and political controversy in the United States. Since 1933 it has played a more important part in the country's monetary policy than at any time since the passage of the gold standard act of 1900 which established gold as the standard of value for United States currency.

The silver purchase act of 1934, enacted largely as a result of the persistence of a small group of congressmen from the silver producing states, committed the treasury to embark on a new program of silver purchases. The act stated that the treasury was to purchase silver until the price rose to $1.29 an ounce in open market or until treasury holdings were equal to one-third of its gold supplies.

Since passage of the act the United States has dominated the world silver market through its heavy purchases but neither goals stated in the law today are near attainment.

DIRECTORS TAKE VARYING ACTION AS TO DIVIDENDS

Larger Payments Contrast with Cuts, Omissions.

Directors of various corporations took divergent actions on dividends yesterday. Some dividends were reduced or omitted, others were larger than a year ago, and a number of dividends were continued at rates which have been prevailing.

The Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company declared a 25 cent extra in addition to its regular 25 cent quarterly dividend. Similar payments were made in November. The New York Fire Insurance company ordered an extra of 5 cents and the regular 25 cent quarterly payment.

Two Dividends Increased.

The Byron Jackson company declared a 50 cent dividend. It paid only 25 cents last February, but distributed a total of $2.50 during the year, including extras of 50 cents each in November and December. The Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company ordered a 75 cent payment, compared with 50 cents last February. It paid $3 during 1937, including 50 cents extra in December.

The Keystone Steel company omitted the dividend ordinarily payable in February because of lower earnings and unusually large inventories. It paid 25 cents last November and 15 cents each in the three preceding quarters.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me about the American Telephone and Telegraph company.—C. D. R.

Answer: American Telephone and Telegraph company dominates the telephone industry in the United States. The company and its subsidiaries, which together form the Bell system, comprise the largest public utility business in the world. At the end of 1937 the system had approximately 15,327,000 telephones in service, a new all-time peak. This was roughly 80 per cent of the telephones in the United States and 40 per cent of all the telephones in the world.

American Telephone directly or indirectly holds controling interest in twenty-five large telephone operating companies and has licensing arrangements with two others. The parent company operates long distance lines between its subsidiaries. In addition it has connecting arrangements for interchange of toll trafic with nearly all telephone companies in the United States not under its control. Radio telephone service is maintained with most parts of the world.

The parent company provides financial assistance, gives technical advice, and makes available other services to subsidiary and licensee companies. Through ownership of 99.43 per cent of the capital stock American Telephone controls Western Electric company, which produces telephones and other sound equipment.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the company, reported Jan. 15, 1937, that net income for 1937 was approximately $179,761,000, or $9.62 a capital share. Kidnap Slayer Faces Swift Justice in Chicago Court—Reveal Blow and Not Bullet Killed Ross

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

ROUTES TAKEN BY ROSS KIDNAPERS—The movements of Peter Anders and James Atwood Gray from the time they kidnaped Ross until Anders hid $30,000 ransom money and started for New York are traced in numerical order.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

BODY OF ROSS REMOVED ON SLED—A team of horses and large sled were called into use to take remains of Ross from the dugout in which he was slain to Spooner, Wis., early yesterday.
